11 Square Miles of Osaka Burned Out in Raids

GUAM, June 5 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Kobe, Japan's principal seaport and sixth largest city, felt the sting of Super Fortress incendiaries for the third time this morning as 400 to 450 of the B-29s unloaded some 3,000 tons of fire bombs on congested industrial areas.

The area under attack extended from one end of the long, narrow city to the other, skipping only a three mile area west of the shipbuilding yards, burned out in two previous fire strikes on Feb. 4 and March 17.

Photographs disclosed, meantime, that nearly three and one-half square miles of the highly industrialized section of near-by Osaka was destroyed by fire bombs dropped Friday by 450 B-29s. Super Forts in all have now burned out 11½ square miles of Osaka.

30 B-29s Downed, Japs Say

The Japanese Domei news agency made the unconfirmed claim that "at least" 30 Super Fortresses in the Kobe raid were shot down and more than 65 others heavily damaged. The broadcaster said fires set by the B-29s "are gradually being extinguished."

Kobe, huddled tightly against a ridge of wooded hills, lies along the shore of Osaka bay, at the eastern end of the Inland sea. It is about 250 miles southwest of Tokyo. Osaka, Japan's third largest city, is just 15 miles to the east.

Because of the cramped position between the shore and hills, Kobe's 33 square mile area has an average population density of 30,500 persons per square mile. The city is about 10 miles long and 2 to 3 wide.

Railway Shops a Target

Targets today included the government railway shops, the main Sannomiya railroad station, the commercial dock area, and a heavily industrialized section dominated by the Kobe steel works. Also hit was the East Nada railroad yards.

Areas west, east, and southwest of the city are crammed with big factories. The city is a major center of industries related to port functions and has handled about 40 per cent of Japan's export and import trade.

6th Marines Make Surprise Landing to Cut Off Japs

GUAM, June 5 [Tuesday] (AP)—Sixth division marines made a surprise amphibious landing on Okinawa's west coast Oroku peninsula yesterday and the 4th regiment quickly captured half of the big Naha air field. Seventh division infantry on the east coast seized virtually all of Chinen peninsula and seized 8,000 yards of the island's southeastern coast.

[London papers printed a Tokyo radio report said to have been relayed by the Melbourne radio that allied land and sea forces were attacking Sandakan, capital of British North Borneo.]

The 6th marine division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd Jr., made a rapidly organized amphibious assault across Naha harbor to land on Oroku peninsula's northwest coast. The marines captured a 1,200 yard beachhead and were swiftly overrunning the peninsula.

Bridge Across Harbor

By nightfall, the division's engineers had bridged the harbor, across tiny Onoyama Island in the center, and were moving reinforcements, tanks, and supplies across the water to strengthen their new position.

Naha air field is the largest and best in the Ryukyus. Available maps show it to have at least three runways, each a mile or more in length—unusually long for Japanese fields. It will be enlarged and become an important long range American bomber base.

Maj. Gen. Pedro A. Del Valle's 1st marine division ranged forward from 400 to 1,000 yards, capturing Kochinda heights and Tomusu town. Tomusu is half a mile south of Kamizato in south central Okinawa.

On the East coast, Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's 7th infantry division moved with extraordinary speed thru heavy rain to capture Minatoga town on the southeast coast and penetrate Gushichan.

Advance of 5,000 Yards

Other elements of this veteran division wheeled east on Chinen peninsula, capturing most of that land arm on the southern side of valuable Nakagusuku harbor, former Japanese fleet anchorage.

The 7th division found 6,000 to 7,000 civilians in its broad fanlike advances, which ranged up to 5,000 yards—biggest gain of any single day in the 66 day old Okinawa campaign. The 7th gained 3,500 yards Sunday, previous best one day advance.

Maj. Andrew D. Bruce's 77th infantry division returned to the front from a mopping up assignment in the Shuri area. With the 77th division taking over in the center of southern Okinawa, Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th infantry division was freed for a drive which covered 900 to 1,200 yards and captured Iwa town, a mile and a half south of Tomusu. The 96th division dough boys pushed on to the vicinity of Meka town, which was captured by the 7th division.

The area still held by the Japs

2 U. S. DESTROYERS LOST

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP)—The navy announced tonight the loss of the destroyers Morrison and Luce off Okinawa, with heavy casualties. Each carried a crew of more than 200.

Both the Morrison and Luce were 2,050 ton craft. The Morrison was one of the ships that helped rescue many survivors of the carrier Princeton when she was lost in the battle for Leyte gulf last fall. The Morrison had taken part in the Okinawa operations from the beginning. Sinking of the two craft by the Japanese raised to 313 the number of navy vessels lost since the beginning of the war.

The commanding officers of both destroyers, Comdr. Jacob W. Waterhouse of the Luce and Comdr. James Richard Hansen of the Morrison were among the survivors.

Hunt Rescuer of a Chicago Marine

Search for a marine hero on Okinawa so that he may be properly rewarded was begun yesterday by Col. Chester L. Fordney, in charge of marine central procurement, as the result of a letter written by Pvt. Norman D. Nelson, 18, who recently was wounded.

Young Nelson wrote the letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Nelson, 6828 Normal blvd. The elder Nelson is assistant building manager of the Merchandise mart. The son didn't talk much about his wounds, saying only that he was shot in both legs by a Jap machine gun. He wrote mostly about an heroic comrade.

Asks Prayers for Rescuer

"Folks, I want you to pray hard for a guy named Wyatt," Nelson wrote. "That's his last name. I don't know his first name, but some day I am going to find out. He was a rifleman in the fire team I was on. He is the swellest guy this side of heaven, mom.

"If it wasn't for him, I would have died out there in no man's land. You see, the minute I got hit I rolled into a 16 inch shellhole for cover. Right away he jumped in beside me, and put tourniquets on both my legs and stopped the bleeding.

Pinned Down Two Hours

"We were pinned down for two hours because the Japs knew we were there, and they kept a constant machine gun and sniper fire over our heads just outside the hole. Finally our planes overhead saw us, and dropped smoke grenades. Under the cover of the smoke Wyatt dragged me 200 yards without stopping. Miraculously the Japs just didn't hit us with their machine gun and sniper fire. I guess God was there to answer our prayers this time."

Col. Fordney said that he has already begun taking "the proper steps to see that Marine Wyatt is given recognition for his action."

Haakon Ends 5 Year Exile; Off to Norway

The monarch will arrive in Oslo aboard a British warship June 7, which is the fifth anniversary of

Nazis Tried to Kill Him

war time residence, secret until now, was an estate near Windsor castle in an area to which a number of German buzz bombs penetrated.

Haakon, born Prince Carl of Denmark and chosen in 1905 by the Norwegian people in a plebiscite to be their monarch, escaped to England after constant German attempts to kill him by bombing.

The first bombing attempt on his life followed his scornful rejection of Quisling representatives' entreaties that he return to Oslo. The Germans leveled the village of Nybergsund, but the king and his government escaped.

Nazi bombers followed him constantly all the way to Tromso in the far north.

Invited to England

While he was there the Germans invaded the Lowlands, and the collapse of Belgium and Dunkerque followed. With the Norwegian military situation hopeless, the British invited Haakon to continue the fight from Britain.

One of his last official acts on Norwegian soil was the issuance of a proclamation that he was leaving the country only to carry on the fight against Germany.

Haakon was a formidable foe even in exile. A huge Norwegian merchant fleet went to work for the allies, and hundreds of Norwegian soldiers and airmen slipped away to Britain to continue the battle. In Norway underground forces carried on a bitter, unrelenting warfare.

Lunch at Buckingham

The king and the crown princess lunched at Buckingham palace today with King George and Queen Elizabeth, and gave the British rulers their thanks for refuge.

All other members of the government and Crown Prince Olav already have returned to Norway, where the government will be reformed upon the king's arrival.

OPA TELLS WOOLEN MILLS TO GO BACK TO PRICES OF 1943

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP)—The office of price administration tonight ordered woolen and worsted mills to return to their average prices of 1943 as another step in cutting consumer costs of suits, coats, dresses, and other civilian garments.

Prime Administrator Bowles predicted the action would reduce prices for wool woven fabrics about 7 per cent and for wool knit fabrics about 4 per cent. The order is effective June 9.

The reduction in woolen and worsted fabric prices will cut the costs of garment manufacturers, who already are under orders to return to their 1943 price averages. A forthcoming order, effective upon wholesalers, will pass the saving along to retailers, who in turn are required to pass it on to clothing buyers.

RESCUED AFTER 135 FT. PLUNGE OFF N. Y. BRIDGE

New York, June 4 (AP)—Norman Kupferberg, 22, of Brooklyn, plunged 135 feet into the East river today from the middle span of Manhattan bridge and was rescued by crew members of a tugboat.

Police said he was one of the few persons to leap from the bridge and survive. He was taken to Gouverneur hospital suffering from shock and possible internal injuries.

Police said the former Brooklyn college student, who lived with his mother and sister, told his mother this morning, "I am going for a walk; I don't feel good."

'Half Pint' Girl Fourth Bride of Dodge Heir

[By Cable to the New York News and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, June 4—Horace E. Dodge Jr., heir to a $10,000,000 motor fortune, has married his "little half pint," Clara Mae Tinsley, a second lieutenant in the army nurse corps, it became known today.

Horace E. Dodge Jr.

The marriage took place at the registrar's office at Windsor, May 26. Dodge, 44, whose three previous marriages cost him a small fortune, and the 27 year old nurse were honeymooning tonight at his near-by estate, St. Leonard's Windsor.

Identified by Ex-Wife

Miss Tinsley was identified by Dodge's third wife, Mickey Devine, the blonde ex-Vanities girl, as the person to whom he had given a gross of nylon stockings costing $1,400.

Miss Devine divorced Dodge at Reno last year, obtaining a $1,000,000 settlement. She detailed his relations with Miss Tinsley.

Dodge and Miss Tinsley misconducted themselves all over the country, according to the divorce complaint. Miss Tinsley, Mickey said, came from Jefferson county, Ky. Dodge also called her "my hillbilly," his ex-wife said.

First Wife Got Million

Dodge married Miss Devine in 1940. Previously he had married Muriel Sissman, who divorced him in 1939 and got $2,500 a month alimony.

His first wife was Lois Knowlton, who bore him two children, divorced him in 1927, six years after their marriage, and obtained a $1,000,000 settlement.

SKY BEHEMOTH WILL CARRY 750 MEN AND PACKS

Culver City, Cal., June 4 (AP)—The Hughes Aircraft company lifted the wraps slightly today on its "world's largest plane," revealing that it could carry 750 soldiers and their equipment.

It is a seaplane with a wing spread of "more than 300 feet" and a hull 220 feet long. Charles W. Perelle, vice president, said also it will carry 40 tons, or 14,000 gallons, of gasoline and a payload of between 60 and 70 tons.

GESTAPO RULE IF SOCIALISTS WIN: CHURCHILL

Warns of Threat to British Liberties

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 4—In his first speech of this campaign, Prime Minister Churchill said tonight that socialism, as advocated by the Labor party, would drive Britain into totalitarianism, bring about rule by decree, and destroy the liberty of the comman man. Britain will have a general parliamentary election in July for the first time in 10 years.

Speaking over the radio Churchill lashed out at Labor and Liberal ministers for quitting the government before Japan is defeated and said that if a socialist regime were instituted it could only be maintained by "some form of a Gestapo [secret political police]."

Charging that his political opponents put party before national interests, Churchill asserted that he was running for office as a Conservative National and that he stands for "the sovereign freedom of the individual within the laws which freely elected parliaments have freely passed."

Nods to Liberals

He described his present caretaker cabinet as a national government, saying that more than a third of its members are not linked with the Conservative party. He was referring to Liberals, Independents and ministers such as Lord President Woolton who owe allegiance to no party.

In a bid for the Liberal vote, Churchill said there is scarcely a Liberal viewpoint which the Conservatives do not support. He said that he was not surprised when a large part of the Liberal party chose to take part in the caretaker government, and he appealed to Liberals to search their hearts before casting their lot with the Socialists.

Warning that a Socialist government would mean abject worship of the state, Churchill said that even today Laborites "hunger for controls of every kind."

If the Laborites win, he said, "there is to be one state to which all are to be obedient in every act of their lives. This state is to be the arch-employer, the arch-planner, the arch-administrator and ruler, and the arch-caucus boss."

Lists Socialist Evils

This totalitarian machine, if it came into being, Churchill contended, would dictate to the people "where they are to work, what they are to work at, where they go and what they may say, what views they are to hold and within what limits they may express them, where their wives are to go for their state ration and what education their children will receive to mold their views of human liberty and conduct in the future."

Herbert Morrison, former Laborite minister of home security, said tonight that Churchill's speech would go down in history as "Churchill's crazy broadcast."

Time Bombs Blamed for 2 Explosions

BREMEN, Germany, June 4 (AP)—At least 15 Americans and Germans were killed and 80 injured when two mysterious explosions, possibly caused by delayed action bombs, wrecked the United States military government police headquarters in Bremen today.

The four story building in downtown Bremen was a former headquarters for nazi SS [elite guard] detachments.

Up to 5 p. m. the bodies of the three dead Americans and 12 Germans had been recovered, while four Americans and 18 Germans were hospitalized with serious injuries. Two Americans were missing. At least 10 other Americans and 46 Germans were slightly hurt.

An unestimated number of Germans were believed buried under debris and international rescue squads tonight were removing the wreckage by hand in a search for the missing.

German Police Casualties

Most of the German casualties were police and police auxiliaries. The known American dead were a sergeant interpreter, a private courier for the military government, and a marine captain recently attached to counter-intelligence here after long service in the Pacific.

The police headquarters was shattered as tho it had been struck by a blockbuster shortly before 11 a. m., and confiscated German ammunition which had been stored in a ground floor room continued to explode for half an hour.

Two walls facing the building's inner courtyard collapsed in a burning heap of debris, engulfing nearly a dozen military vehicles parked there.

An American public safety officer, Maj. E. Russel Kennedy Jr., of Washington, D. C., said he believed the disaster was caused by a delayed action bomb. The Germans are known to have developed demolition charges with fuses delayed up to 64 days.

Firemen fought the blaze for a long time and all German utility repair squads in Bremen were mobilized by Lt. Col. Douglas W. Meservey, New York City, deputy government officer, to clear the wreckage.

500 in Building

Kennedy estimated that at least 500 persons had been in the police building during the morning, including 23 American members of counter-intelligence and four members of the military government staff.

Several hundred rocket launchers, hand grenades and other explosives left in the building after the Nazi SS detachments vacated 40 days ago, recently were destroyed. Ammunition on hand was a reserve for the armed German police force, Kennedy said.

American officers said the explosion was the worst of its kind since the Naples, Italy, postoffice was similarly wrecked after the allied occupation in 1943. The Bremen headquarters had been inspected by engineers for possible booby traps before it was taken over April 26.

VOTE 6-1 TO LET CHICAGO RUN TRANSIT LINES

Slum Clearance Is Also Approved

Fewer than 20 per cent of the registered voters in Chicago decided yesterday to put the city in the local transportation business. By a vote of 6 to 1 they approved two propositions to set up the Kelly-Green metropolitan transit authority: [1] the state legislature's act creating the authority and [2] the city council's ordinance empowering it to acquire and operate transit facilities.

Approved also by approximately the same ratio were the Kelly-Green slum clearance program, which has revived controversy over the principle of tax exemption for public housing; an amendment to the Municipal court act raising pay for clerks and bailiffs, a 24 million dollar bond issue for the Chicago park district, and 21 millions of bonds for public improvements by the city.

Coalition Ticket for Judges

It was Circuit court election day on the official calendar, but all that was left to the voters was to mark the coalition ticket arranged by the Republican and Democratic county committees.

Elmwood Park, the only other municipality holding a referendum on the transit authority, approved it, 619 to 126. The legislative act permitted other suburbs in the defined metropolitan area to vote yesterday if they wished, but they decided to postpone action and most of them will hold special elections later.

Returns from 3,529 precincts gave 266,682 for the metropolitan transit authority proposal to 42,858 opposed, and 254,223 for the second transit proposition to 42,772 against it.

'Vote of Confidence'

Mayor Kelly said the returns were "a vote of confidence and approval" by the public and meant, he believed, "a successful termination to the perplexing traction question."

When more than half the ballots had been counted, it appeared that both the park bonds and the slum clearance proposition held more interest that the transit project. At that point in the tally, more ballots had been marked for both and slum clearance was leading all propositions in "yes" votes.

Returns from 3,529 out of 3,812 Chicago precincts on the propositions besides transit were:

Park bonds	248,410	61,378
Slum clearance	271,729	39,697
Playgrounds	266,460	38,427
Airport	262,345	40,646
Police and fire	259,625	41,552
Waste disposal	263,840	37,268
City garage	255,001	44,134
Municipal court amendment	230,586	54,510

Complete revised figures are expected to show few variations in the foregoing ratios.

FOUR MORE HURDLES

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK

Chicago voters having removed an important obstacle to unification under public ownership of the surface and elevated lines in the referendum yesterday, attention was directed last night to remaining hurdles that must be overcome.

So far only the voters and the city of Chicago have approved the taking over of the traction properties by the newly created Chicago metropolitan transit authority at a price of 87 million dollars; 75 millions for the surface lines and 12 millions plus for the "L."

Court Statement Needed

To complete the transaction it is necessary:

1. That the federal District court transmit the offer, with a statement it is fair, to the present creditors and owners of the two lines.

2. That owners of two-thirds of the outstanding securities accept the bid.

3. That the Illinois Supreme court, in a test case, shall declare the legislation and the city's franchise ordinance secure against legal attack.

4. That the investment bankers who have expressed interest in the

The fair price question may cause delay. Judge Michael L. Igoe, who is in charge of the two companies in bankruptcy, has asked the Illinois commerce commission and the securities and exchange commission to advise him on this point. Such a request is mandatory under bankruptcy law, but the court is not bound to accept the advice given.

It is expected that the commerce commission will report today and give a qualified approval to the scheme. It is regarded as probable the commissioners will recommend safeguards for the suburban areas now served by the "L" and that they will sidestep the valuation problem with a suggestion that the present owners themselves decide on what they consider an adequate price.

Tax Laws to Be Cited

Further, it is expected the commission will express a general approval of private utility operation, but will hold that with present tax laws effective, public ownership offers the best prospect for raising money to be spent in a rehabilitation of traction service.

The SEC does not have to report in court until Aug. 15 and the nature of its findings can only be guessed at. Judge Igoe has indicated that he might need lengthy testimony on valuation before he rules on fairness; much depending on the SEC advice.

Such testimony so far has been meager and based only on earnings of the lines under unfavorable circumstances. A complicating factor is a recent Illinois Supreme court decision holding the "L" entitled to a 12 cent fare if a lower amount fails to produce operating expense.

90 Days for Decision

Submission of the offer to the thousands of bondholders of both companies may require weeks and they will have at least 30 days to decide to take or reject the sum named.

The travels of the authority act and the ordinance thru the Supreme court would normally take considerable time. At a guess the authority might buy and start operating in six to 18 months, if all moves well.

FIVE NEW JUDGES

Judges who rode the coalition ballot, which carried the Democratic party tag, included 18 sitting in the Circuit court, eight of whom are Republicans; one Superior court judge, Grover C. Niemeyer, reëlected, and five newcomers to the bench, two to fill vacancies in the Circuit court and three to fill vacancies in Superior court.

The new Circuit judges are Thomas J. Courtney, Democrat, former state's attorney, and Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Republican, former speaker of the house in the state assembly. Leonard C. Reid, Republican, appointed by Gov. Green last March after Judge Daniel P. Trude resigned from Circuit court, also was on yesterday's ballot for election to a full term.

Two Democrats, Charles E. Byrne of River Forest and John M. Tuohy, brother of State's Atty. Tuohy, and one Republican, Edwin A. Robson of Wilmette, were placed in Superior court vacancies.

Results of yesterday's judicial election:

DREW DEFEATS SOCIALISTS IN ONTARIO VOTE

Conservatives Win Rule of Legislature

TORONTO, Ont., June 4 (AP)—The Socialist Coöperative Commonwealth Federation was snowed under today in the Ontario provincial election, which returned to office with overwhelming strength the Progressive Conservative government of Premier George A. Drew.

With the outcome in only five constituencies still in doubt, Drew candidates were credited with winning 66 of the 90 seats in the legislature, while the C. O. F. appeared certain of only six. Returns compiled by the Canadian Press indicated the Liberals had won 12 seats and the Labor Progressives three.

Out of 1,500,000 votes already counted the Progressive Conservatives had polled about 45 per cent to the C. C. F.'s 22 per cent. It was expected the final count when complete would exceed the record 1,571,431 votes cast in 1937.

Realignment Studied

The drastic realignment of parties was studied closely for possible bearing on the dominion-wide election of a new federal parliament next Monday, in which the Liberal government of Prime Minister King is seeking reëlection in a three way campaign similar in many respects to that in Ontario.

At the dissolution of the last Ontario legislature in April the Drew government held only a minority of the 90 seats, having 38 against the C. C. F.'s 34 and the Liberals' 15. There was two Labor-Progressives and one Independent Liberal.

Drew Renamed M. P.

Premier Drew was reëlected over C. C. F. Candidate Lewis Duncan in his own constituency.

Former Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, Liberal standard bearer, was among Liberals defeated, losing to Progressive Conservative F. S. Thomas. It was Hepburn's first defeat in six elections.

E. B. Jolliffe, C. C. F. leader, was defeated by Progressive Capt. H. J. Sale on the basis of incomplete returns, Canadian Press said.

BORRELLI ASKS RATION BOARD TO CUT PENALTY

Judge Francis Borrelli of the Municipal court yesterday filed an appeal with local rationing board 7 from an order by the board revoking his supplemental C gasoline coupons for the duration of rationing and voiding his A coupons to Feb. 6, 1946.

The board acted May 24 on the judge's admission that he drove to Hot Springs, Ark., and back, which the board held to be a misuse of the C coupons. Judge Borrelli pleaded he had to make the trip because of circumstances including illness and domestic trouble.

In his appeal Judge Borrelli complained that the penalty imposed was too severe. Board 7 will transmit the appeal to the area OPA office for review. Judge Borrelli sold his automobile just before the board hearing.

MOSCOW DENIES KILLING GERMAN INTELLECTUALS

LONDON, June 4 (AP)—The Moscow radio tonight broadcast an official denial of reports quoted by Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] that Russian authorities in Berlin and other Russian-occupied areas of Germany were "liquidating" German professionals.

[Returning from a trip to Europe, Brewster said in Washington Friday that London and Paris authorities had heard reports that the Russians were "liquidating" lawyers, business men, and other specialists.]

The Moscow radio, quoting the official Tass news agency, said Tass had been authorized to say that "the allegations concerning the liquidation of German intellectuals in areas under control of soviet troops are inventions and are of a slanderous character."

Recovering

The prospect of going home cheered little Clark Wallace, 7, of Wichita, Kas., yesterday, in Children's Memorial hospital, where he underwent a bronchoscopic operation last Friday for the removal of an inch-long nail from his right lung. Sitting up in bed, Clark was reading a story book and forgetting about his journey with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. Wallace, from home to the hospital a week ago.

EVANSTON POLL WON BY PORTER AND CORCORAN

Evanston voters yesterday reelected Harry H. Porter and James M. Corcoran judges of the Municipal court. The voting for each of the four candidates was: Porter, 6,382; Corcoran, 6,811; James G. Barber, 1,485; Harry E. Steele, 476.

Republican candidates in the 12th judicial district, which includes Will, Kankakee, and Iroquois counties, defeated the Democratic ticket more than 3 to 1. With Kankakee county complete, 10 precincts missing in Will, and three missing in Iroquois, the vote for the Republicans was: James V. Bartley, 15,554; C. D. Henry, 15,751; Roscoe C. South, 16,333. The Democrats, George N. Blatt Sr., Edward F. Braden, and John H. Beckers, received, respectively, 4,839, 3,859, and 3,942.

In two other judicial districts adjacent to Cook county, the 16th and 17th, Republican candidates were unopposed and voting was light. The reëlected judges in the 16th, which covers Kane, Kendall, Du Page, and De Kalb counties, are Charles A. O'Connor, Win G. Knoch, and Harry W. McEwen.

G. O. P. NOMINEES WIN DOWNSTATE JUDICIAL RACES

Republican strength in downstate Illinois swept veteran Democrat Circuit judges out of office yesterday in several judicial districts as Republican candidates scored decisive victories in former Democratic strongholds.

One of these was the 3d district, which includes East St. Louis, where three Republicans were elected in territory in which all Circuit judges have been Democrats since 1933. Another clean sweep was scored by Republicans in the 2d district, where two Democratic incumbents were unseated. There were elections in eight downstate districts. There were no elections in eight others because of coalition slates or lack of opposition. Details, as compiled by the Associated Press, follow:

BELLEVILLE—Heavily populated St. Clair county, traditionally Democratic, went Republican in the judicial election in which G. O. P. candidates unseated the Democratic incumbents in the 3d circuit. The winners, on the basis of returns from 365 of 424 precincts, were Edward F. Bareis, East St. Louis; R. W. Griffith, Granite City, and Ralph L. MacWell, Nashville.

SPRINGFIELD—Two of three Democratic circuit judges of the 7th district apparently were beaten after serving two terms. Only Judge L. E. Stone of Springfield survived the campaign waged by three Republicans. Republican winners apparently were Clement L. Smith, Carrollton and L. E. Wilhite, Carlinville.

BENTON—Two Democratic judges in the 2d circuit were unseated as three Republicans were swept into office. The third incumbent did not run. The winners were Charles T. Randolph, Carmi; Caswell J. Crebs, Robinson, and V. W. Eovaldi, Benton.

HARRISBURG—Judge Darce F. Rumsey of Harrisburg was defeated and three Republican candidates were elected in the 1st district. The successful Republican candidates were Judge Loyd M. Bradley, Carbondale, C. Ross Reynolds, Vienna, and Harold L. Zimmerman, Marion.

OTTAWA—Judge Robert E. Larkin of Streator, who 12 years ago was the first Democrat elected Circuit judge in the 13th district in 36 years, today apparently was defeated for reëlection as three Republicans swept into office in the district. The victorious candidates were Judge Louis A. Zearing, Princeton; Judge Frank H. Hayes, Morris, and Roy Wilhelm, Ottawa.

ROCK ISLAND—Three Republicans, including two incumbents, won judgeships of the 14th district over a lone Democratic opponent, County Judge Junius P. Califf of Rock Island. The Republican winners were Judge Leonard E. Telleen, Cambridge; Judge August J. Scheineman, Sterling, and Ray I. Klingbiel East Moline.

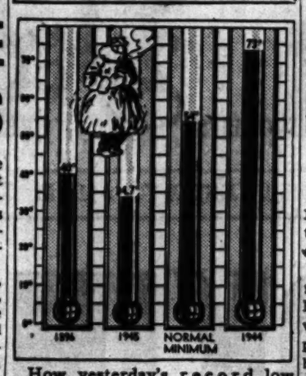
SHELBYVILLE — The traditionally strong Democratic 4th judicial circuit turned back a Republican bid and reëlected two Democratic judges. A third Democrat, Ward P. Holt, Salem, was named to fill the vacancy caused by retirement of Josiah T. Bullington of Hillsboro. The judges reëlected were James G. Burnside, Vandalia, and Franklin R. Dove, Shelbyville.

BLOOMINGTON—Three Republican judges of the 11th district easily won reëlection. They were William C. Radcliff, Bloomington, Ray Sealer, Pontiac, and Frank S. Bevan, Atlanta.

IRAN REGIME FALLS ON VOTE OF DEPUTIES

TEHRAN, Iran, June 4 (AP)—The Iran government of Premier Hakaimis fell today when it failed to get a vote of confidence in parliament. Of the 95 deputies present, 25 voted to support the government, seven voted against it, and the remainder abstained from voting.

New June Low Set



How yesterday's record low temperature for June compares with previous low, last year's June 4 temperature, and the normal minimum for the month.

Frost is due to strike again in the early morning hours today when the temperature is scheduled to drop to 35 degrees, Forecaster H. L. Jacobson predicted yesterday. The record low of 34.7 degrees set yesterday morning caused damage ranging from slight to heavy to vegetables in the midwest.

Most damage occurred in Wisconsin where large commercial plantings of peas were nipped while in bloom. La Crosse, Wis., reported a low of 32 degrees while at Park Falls the thermometer fell to 29 degrees, and at Cranberry Bogs to 20 degrees.

Little damage was done in the Chicago area where many gardeners took precautions to keep their tomato plants from freezing. Some harm was done to head lettuce, but onion sets came thru unscathed.

The thermometer is expected to climb to 60 degrees later today as the sun warms the air. The weather will remain cool for the next several days, according to the weather bureau, but by Thursday warmer temperatures should arrive.

EIRE TO CHOOSE NEW PRESIDENT FROM FIELD OF 3

BY HUGH CURRAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

DUBLIN, Eire, June 4—On June 14 Eire citizens will go to the polls to elect their second president under the new constitution.

On June 24 Dr. Douglas Hyde will retire after seven years in office. He was elected unanimously. There was hope that some outstanding personality like Hyde would emerge, but the hope was not realized and three candidates are in the field, with the campaign in progress thruout Eire's 26 counties.

While the new constitution was being formed, Prime Minister Eamon de Valera indicated that the president, who was to be above all persons in the land, should be devoid of party affiliations. Actually, two candidates are party nominees.

Sean T. O'Kelly is the nominee of the Fianna Fail [the government party of De Valera], and Gen. Sean MacEoin of the Fine Gael, or United Ireland party, led by Richard Mulcahy. The third candidate, Dr. Patrick McCartan, claims to be detached from all parties.

Appeals Based on Public Service

All three base their claims on former services to the country. O'Kelly, who has not appeared on public platforms but is supported by De Valera and the party machine, has been a minister in the De Valera government since its advent. In the fight against England he was a Sinn Fein representative in several foreign countries. He is 62.

MacEoin, known as the Blacksmith of Ballinalee, was a fighter in the Black and Tan war and distinguished himself for his humane treatment of prisoners falling into his hands. He was sentenced to death but was released prior to the treaty debates, which resulted in the Irish peace agreement of 1922 and gave Eire the status of a British dominion, on the demands of Michael Collins, Irish leader who became head of the first provisional government of Eire.

McCartan Deplores Civil War

McCartan was engaged in missions abroad but left the movement on the outbreak of civil war, which he says ought never to have occurred.

While MacEoin will receive substantial support from former Irish Republican army men, as well as party votes, there seems little doubt that O'Kelly will be the new president.

Patch Leaving 7th Army; Haislip to Take Command

PARIS, June 4 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Patch, who led American troops to victory in the Pacific and in Europe, is being succeeded as commander of the United States' 7th army by Lt. Gen. Wade H. Haislip of Washington, D. C., a dispatch from the 7th army front said today.

CITY IS WARNED OF TAX DEBACLE IF RATES GO UP

See $4.20, $4.28 Levy for 1945 and 1946

Assertions that the Chicago tax rate on $100 of assessed valuation may reach $4.20 for 1945 and $4.28 for 1946 and that the spending spree of the six local governments threatens the "greatest real estate tax debacle in history" were made yesterday in a bulletin issued by the Civic federation.

For 1943 the tax rate was $3.90 and for 1944 it was $3.97. The $4.28 rate would mean almost a 10 per cent increase in three years. Instead of a property valued at $4,000 paying $156 tax as in 1943, the tax bill for 1946 would be $171.20.

41 Million Tax Peg Condemned

Condemned by the federation was a bill just introduced in the state senate which would permit the city's corporate fund a tax peg of 41 million dollars as against the present 37 million. The bulletin said taxpayers were "astounded" at this request and that there had been no intimation that a city tax increase was to be sought.

The bill will be discussed tomorrow at a hearing of the senate committee on municipalities.

The federation noted that the county's six major taxing bodies levied 195 millions in 1943 and that the 1945 levy was 209 millions. This is a jump of 14 millions without the city's new demand, which cannot be put into effect until 1946, and without expenditures for bond issues voted on yesterday.

Suggests Pension Commission

Also criticized was the large number of pension bills being promoted in the legislature. The bulletin said Gov. Green had asked that full study be given pension matters and suggested that any plans creating additional present and future tax burdens be deferred until a pension commission can be set up.

At the time the governor made his statement there were 42 pension bills in the legislature. There are now 49, the federation said, and some are being pushed vigorously.

RUSSIA FACING DRAG OUT FIGHT ON VETO PROVISO

Big Four Determined to Put Over Plan

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

San Francisco, Cal., June 4—The controversy over the Big Five veto power reached the stage of virtually open warfare tonight in the international conference to abolish war.

Lines were being drawn for a knock down and drag out fight between Russia and its satellite states ranged against the United States, Great Britain, France, China, and the majority of the smaller countries.

The question at issue is whether a member of the Big Five—America, Britain, Russia, France, and China—shall have the power to veto even the discussion by the prospective new peace league's security council of any international dispute likely to lead to war. Russia contends a great power would have this right under the voting procedure agreed to at Yalta which accords the veto privilege to any member of the Big Five not a party to the dispute.

Reports to Moscow

The other countries contend a great power does not and should not have the right to prevent discussion of any dispute and a hearing of the parties thereto.

Following a meeting of the Big Five today, at which the Big Four stood pat against the soviets, Russian Ambassador Gromyko reported the situation to Moscow, presumably including the prospect that if the controversy goes to a showdown the Russians will be decisively defeated.

State Secretary Stettinius had a halk with British Ambassador Halifax, which is said to have to do with a project to bring British and American pressure to bear on Stalin to recede from his position. Afterward Stettinius talked to President Truman, presumably about instructions to Harry Hopkins in Moscow to make the plea to Stalin. The burden of the representations to Stalin is that the peace league charter will fail of ratification by a majority of the 50 nations if it contains the power to veto discussion of peaceful settlements. The British and American move has the backing of France and China.

The British delegation and the Canadian, Australian, New Zealand, South African, and Indian delegations had a meeting last night at which they decided to present a united front against the Russians on this question. A similar unity among the United States and Latin American delegations has been established.

Procedure Settled

When the Big Five met at noon there was no reply from Moscow to the latest appeal of the Big Four for agreement on interpretation of the veto in peaceful settlement of disputes. Considerable progress was made, however, in settling other differences not involving the veto.

Also described as the most concrete achievement in the conference so far was the completion by a committee of the entire section of the peace league charter prescribing the powers and procedure of the security council in dealing with threats of war and the action to be taken to preserve peace.

The only important changes of the text drafted at Dumbarton Oaks were in the provisions for the international police force to be placed at the disposal of the security council for use against an aggressor.

This section provides that all members of the league shall make available to the council "on its call and in accordance with a special agreement" military forces, assistance and facilities, including rights of passage thru their territories.

The French were in a conciliatory mood today, indicating they would not press some of their proposed amendments that had stirred controversy. The Big Five decided to draft an amendment to remove apprehensions of the small nations that they will be victims of great power domination in the interim before the peace league charter is ratified and the league begins functioning.

Finally the Big Five called a meeting of the conference executive committee for tomorrow to start agreements reached today thru the committee machinery.

As a result of the unyielding attitude of Moscow up to date the conference has been swept with a wave of protest against what is becoming known as the "Russian gag" of discussion by the security council of situations deemed likely to lead to a war such as the machinery of the peace league is designed to avert, by peaceful means, if possible, by force, if necessary.

Big Four Won't Yield

The Big Four have asserted that they stand pat on their interpretation of the veto and will not yield. It developed today that the overwhelming majority of the 44 small nations represented in the conference is backing the Big Four on this point and is ready for a show down with Russia if the soviets insist on their stand. Leaders of this coalition are confident they can muster the two-thirds vote necessary to defeat Russia in the committee and later in the plenary session of the conference if the fight should go that far.

DIANA PEEL

Waterloo, Ia., June 4 [Special]—Mrs. Richard Peel, wife of a first class seaman who was wounded when his destroyer was damaged in Pacific action, said today that unless she locates him within a week their daughter, Diana, 3, may die without his knowing the girl is ill. Diana was stricken with leukemia a month ago and physicians say she can live only a week or so. Peel is presumably in some navy hospital but the navy says it is not known to which hospital he was taken.

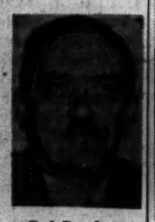
REDS EXPECTED TO STIR UP NEW U. S. 'CLASS WAR'

BY WALTER TROHAN
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Washington, D. C., June 4—Capital political observers were confident that Moscow has placed the skids under Earl Browder as boss of the American Communists with the publication today of a resolution, adopted by the national board of the Communist Political association, which confessed the organization has been guilty of "weaknesses and errors."



Earl Browder

The resolution condemned Browder for dissolving the Communist party in order to support the late President Roosevelt. Browder had hailed the fourth term election as a Red triumph in a pamphlet entitled "America's Decisive Battle," published a few weeks ago, which said communist "policies and work contributed essentially to the victory of Nov. 7."

The resolution also taxed Browder with leading American Communists into an unholy alliance with capitalism by straying from the teachings of Karl Marx, apostle of proletarian revolution. In this the resolution was seen as signaling the return of the Communists to the old political line with its revolutionary and subversive policies.

Stalin Influence Seen

The hand of Dictator Stalin was seen in the chastisement of Browder because the resolution paralleled a French Communist leader's recent criticism of Browder for falling into heresy in deviating from the Marxist line. That criticism, by Jacques Duclos, secretary of the French Communist party, was published in an official French Communist organ and reprinted by the Daily Worker, which Browder edits.

Observers said that Duclos would not have made the attack unless he had been instructed to do so by Moscow and that the national communist board would not have adopted the resolution if it had not felt that such action was demanded by Stalin.

Political observers saw in the rebuke a soviet recognition of the death of the New Deal and a call for a change in the communist line, Browder had "abolished" the Communist party, undoubtedly with Stalin's consent, in order to join the New Deal. Now Moscow has ordered a return to the "class struggle" and abandonment of war time coöperation with American capitalism, they said.

Upsurge of Strikes Expected

Renewal of the war with capitalism is expected to be manifested in strikes, because strikes are one of communism's chief weapons. It was said here that Communists could, if orders were issued, tie up the return of American soldiers from Europe by a strike of the maritime union.

Browder was the only member of the Communist Political association's board of 13 to vote against the resolution calling for a new program of action. The resolution praised William Z. Foster, veteran Communist, for "important contributions in the struggle against opportunism," which acclaim was regarded as indicating he is to be Browders' successor as boss Communist.

The resolution said the Communists today must "not only learn from our achievements in the struggle against fascism, but also from our weaknesses and errors." It continued by saying mistakes have been made in drawing false conclusions, especially since January, 1944.

"False Conclusions" Cited

"Among these false conclusions," it said, "was the concept that after the military defeat of Germany the decisive sections of big capital would participate in the struggle to complete the destruction of fascism and would coöperate with the working people in the maintenance of post-war national unity. This illusion had no foundation in life, either in the class nature of finance capital or in the post-war aims of the trusts and cartels, which seek imperialistic aggrandizement and huge profits at the expense of the people.

"This revision of the Marxist-Lenist theory regarding the role of monopoly capital, especially after the military victory, led to other erroneous conclusions, such as Utopian economic perspectives and the possibility of achieving the national liberation of the colonial and dependent countries thru arrangements between the great powers. It also led to tendencies to obscure the class nature of bourgoise democracy, to false concepts of social evolution, and to minimize the independent and leading role of the working class.

Shift Held Unnecessary

"Furthermore, the changes we made in our form of communist organization, coming when they did and coupled with the above revisionist errors, could not but strengthen certain dangerous tendencies toward liquidating the independent and vanguard role of the communist movement. Nor was the act of dissolution of the party required to carry out our correct election policy of support for President Roosevelt."

The resolution said that while the change from the Communist party to the Communist Political association did not result in a decline in membership, it undoubtedly retarded the growth of the communist movement.

Calls U. S. "Welcher"

New York, June 4 (AP)—Earl Browder, national president of the Communist Political association, tonight in an address to the New York county CPA accused the American delegation at San Francisco of "welching" on the Yalta voting agreement and of departing from the late President Roosevelt's policies to follow the British lead.

Iron Lung Flyer

Indianapolis, Ind., June 4 (AP)—A smiling young corporal from Ohio, encased in a portable iron lung, arrived today after a 22 hour flight from the Panama Canal zone.

The soldier, Corp. Charles G. Moeller, 22, of Cincinnati, was stricken in February with infantile paralysis and was flown 3,548 miles by the army air transport command, ferrying division, so he could be given better treatment in Billings General hospital at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near here.

The flight was a special mission and carried only the crew, six medical attendants and a friend of Moeller's, T/5 Rufus E. White, a fellow townsman, who had cared for the corporal from the time he was stricken.

PEACE PARLEY CALLED A SPUR TO WAR IN EAST

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Warning that the San Francisco security conference is proceeding in such a way as to leave war in the east inevitable and that Asiatic millions may in a few years find Russia a ready backer against the western powers was given yesterday by Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, leader of the Indian Nationalist Congress party.

Mrs. V. L. Pandit

She addressed a meeting in Orchestra hall last night under the auspices of the Chicago Civil Liberties committee. She said she probably will go back to San Francisco conference tomorrow to continue her efforts for Indian independence.

Opposed to Status Quo

"Leaders of the Big Five powers conducting the San Francisco meeting may rest assured that India, Burma, Malaya, Indo-China—none of the Asiatic countries which have been overrun or menaced by the Japs—will be satisfied to go back to the status quo when the Japs are again driven out," Mrs. Pandit said. "I am bitterly disappointed in the San Francisco conference. These Asiatic millions demand at least big steps toward independence. It does not appear they will get much, if anything. The seeds of war within a few years will certainly be there."

"Have those Asiatic countries the resources for war, or the possibilities of creating them within a few years?" she was asked.

"No," Mrs. Pandit said. "But—they may find a backer. You have been asking about Russia and communism. Wouldn't it occur that Russia might within a few years develop those vast resources and become a backer?

Sees No Danger in Europe

"Europe is depleted, the danger of a war will not lie there but in the east. That is definite. My disappointment in the San Francisco meeting is that Big Five seem more concerned with their vested interests than in recognizing the necessity for a change in the design for living of nations.

"The effort seems to be entirely to allocate the power among the Big Five rather than to share power. That will not avoid future wars. Unless the future being planned for the world includes equality, freedom and justice for all people, the planning is futile, there can be no international security.

"Skirmishes for Power."

"I don't know why this couldn't have been an honest, above board meeting of the nations. Every common man I meet, whatever country he's from, wants honest dealings between the nations big and small.

"It's only when you get among the meetings of the politicians and diplomats that you meet these skirmishes for power. It seems thru our leaders, our powerful politicians thruout the world, we always give lip service to certain fundamental truths, but that we can never seem to translate this lip service into action."

Mrs. Pandit, in this country for the first time, has been in the United States since Christmas. She came over, she said, for the graduation of one of her two daughters who attended Wellesley college. She has served several jail sentences for her political activities for independence for India. Her husband, Ranjit Pandit, Indian classic scholar and linguist, died a year ago after being in jail a year. Her brother, Jawaharal Nehru, is still imprisoned.

NEGRO LEADER DISAPPOINTED IN FRISCO PARLEY

Dr. W. E. B. Dubois, Negro author and educator, yesterday told an audience of 3,000 at Pilgrim Baptist church, 33d st. and Indiana av., that the San Francisco conference holds small hope for minority groups under its present setup.

Dr. Dubois returned recently from San Francisco, where he was the accredited consultant for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Consultants, he told his listeners, carried little weight.

"A consultant," he said, "is of no importance unless he is consulted. We were not. We would ask a few questions, but seldom received a satisfactory answer."

The speaker said that many persons misunderstood the functions of the conference and emphasized that it has no power to enforce any mandate.

Dr. Dubois is the author of numerous books, including "The Soul of Black Folk."

IT'S 'WESTWARD HO!' AS CONVOYS BRING 'EM BACK

There's a Difference on Homeward Trip

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, June 4—The blood red ball of fire that was the sun slid slowly under violet clouds toward the horizon, lighting up each of the 25 ships sailing west in stately convoy, escorted by a covey of destroyers. Except for the position of the sun, this convoy looked like any of the hundreds of others that sailed toward Europe with American fighting men.

But this convoy, in which I was a passenger, was bound for home, carrying liberated American war prisoners and the 1st army headquarters. There were many changes.

You knew when you boarded the U. S. S. Monticello, veteran troop transport, at Le Havre that she must travel in convoy because there still were some unreported German submarines that had not surrendered. Slight tho the danger, the navy was taking no chances.

There's a Difference

Yet you could tell the difference aboard ship. The navy gun crews had their weapons oiled and ready for action, but unlike those of a ship heading into the war zone the guns were covered and the gun crews were not at battle stations.

And the soldiers staggering up the gangways under loaded barracks bags and bedrolls were not armed. Heading toward Europe they would have toted helmets, rifles, machine guns, and gas masks. From their bags protruded captured German swords, rifles, and other souvenirs.

Few of them, if given a choice, would have chosen more fighting in the Pacific. But they knew the war department had slated the 1st army for a major role against Japan, so they will go on performing their soldier jobs.

Check Up Points

Many have amassed the 85 points needed to be eligible for a discharge. Most of the men on board did not quite make the grade.

But while the ship was at sea it was announced that another battle participation star had been authorized for the continental campaign. At once the personnel section began reëxamining every man's record, for another star was worth five points.

In many ways a homebound convoy is much the same as any other. A troop ship is always crowded. The enlisted men are crammed into canvas bunks, four to a tier, in every available space from "A" deck down into the bowels of the ship.

They sleep, talk, and eat in semi-gloom. Despite every modern ventilating device the cramped quarters become dank, humid, and stuffy.

Two Meals a Day

The Monticello had 6,411 passengers aboard, in addition to a crew of 700. The ship could only feed two meals a day—breakfast and supper—in contrast to its usual three meals.

But the ship made up in quantity and quality at each meal. The soldiers said they never had eaten so well. For the "RAMPS," as liberated prisoners are known, such meals were the answer to prison camp prayers. One soldier had tears in his eyes when he saw his first ice cream in two years. To him, as to many another, ice cream symbolized home.

The Monticello had accommodations for about 556 officers. On this trip she had more than three times that number, because of the large number of liberated aviators. This meant that most captains and lieutenants slept in the same canvas bunks as the enlisted men. It meant, too, four colonels to one cabin.

The recreation afforded on a troopship hadn't changed for the trip home. Plenty of the soldiers had money, and it started changing hands immediately in poker and dice games.

But most of the time they just talked.

Romania Sentences 14 Journalists, Says Radio

New York, June 4 (AP)—The Bucharest radio said tonight the Romanian People's court had sentenced two journalists to death and 12 others to prison terms ranging from 12 years to life. They were convicted of collaborating with the Nazis.

Nab 4 in Burglaries

A gasoline ration stamp found in possession of one of four young men halted for questioning by a robbery detail squad car two weeks ago resulted in their arrest yesterday in connection with a series of burglaries on the northwest side in which loot totaling more than $5,000 was taken.

The four in custody are: Robert Van Zeveren, 17, of 2700 N. Monitor av., a merchant seaman; Gregory Krejci, 17, of 7626 Farragut av., George Mosinski, 17, of 5721 Henderson st., and Patrick Cullen, 18, of 2729 N. Mango.

They were stopped on May 25 by Sgt. John Alcock and his squad for questioning. The policemen who retained a gas coupon when they noticed it bore a license number other than the one carried on the automobile, learned it had been stolen from the home of Mrs. Michael G. Fox of 1900 N. Newland av. Eileen Fox, 31, a daughter, suffered a broken spine when she fainted after finding the home ransacked.

The four were seized in their homes early yesterday and taken to the detective bureau where, police said, all save Van Zeveren admitted burglarizing the Fox home. He confessed however, along with the others to committing several other burglaries of homes in Elmwood Park and Park Ridge.

SENATORS VOTE PEARL HARBOR TRIAL EXTENSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 4—The senate today passed and sent to the White House a resolution extending the statute of limitations in connection with the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor until six months after the war, making it possible to postpone further the trials of those involved in the disaster.

The resolution was introduced by Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] three weeks ago and was passed by the senate last week. The house added a technical amendment which made necessary today's action by the senate. Today's was the fourth extension of the statute, previous extensions having been for six months each.

Attempts to force courts martial during the war of Maj. Gen. Walter Short and Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, army and navy commanders in Hawaii on Dec. 7, 1941, have been blocked by the administration on the ground that public trials would give information to the enemy.

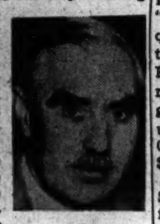
Two Schools to Devote Paper Funds to Veterans

Students at Amundsen High school will hold a one day paper salvage drive today to raise funds to buy athletic equipment for Downey Veterans hospital at Great Lakes. The school "adopted" the hospital for the paper drive. St. Nicholas school in Evanston will donate the proceeds from its paper drive tomorrow to Gardiner General hospital.

AVERT ANOTHER PEARL HARBOR, TRAIN MEN: GREW

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 4—Compulsory peace time military training was urged at a house hearing today as a step to help keep world peace, and to save American lives should this country be attacked again.



Joseph C. Grew

Advocating the proposal as the house committee on post-war military policy opened hearings on the question were witnesses ranging from state department officials to a combat private whose letter was placed in the record by Chairman Woodrum [D., Va.].

The United Lutheran Churches of America proposed, however, that congressional action on the issue be delayed until at least one year after this war.

An Aid to Diplomacy

Acting State Secretary Grew told the group that national preparedness, made possible by trained military reserves, is necessary to back up this nation's diplomatic front.

"Without adequate preparedness," he said, "our diplomacy becomes weak and ineffectual."

Grew, who was ambassador to Japan from 1932 to 1941, said that if the United States had been "even reasonably prepared" to meet an aggressor at the time of Pearl Harbor, "I don't believe for a moment that Japan would have attacked us."

Citing the San Francisco conference plan for a world peace organization, Grew declared this country must be ready to "contribute our complement of armed forces" to an international pool, "if we should be called upon to do so when all other steps have failed to preserve the peace."

Calls for Reserves

Grew urged congress to accept the advice of our military leaders, who, he said, hold that unless we have compulsory military training, we shall not have enough trained reserves to meet possible future "threats to our freedom."

Altho neither Grew nor other witnesses outlined a specific conscription plan, the most frequently discussed program calls for one year of training for men when they reach 18, with trainees subject to recall to active duty in an emergency.

Col. Jay Cooke, president of the Citizens Committee for Military Training of Young Men, Inc., of New York City, urged peace time training to "discourage potential aggressors."

No Time to Build Up

Philip A. Carroll, a member of the same citizens' committee, warned that, if war comes again, the United States will not have time to build up an army and navy before she is attacked in strength with modern global weapons.

Woodrum read a letter from a Pvt. John D. Scarlett, who said 85 per cent of the overseas service men he has talked with favor a peace time draft, and that among combat troops, the number is closer to 95 per cent.

When Rep. Allen [R., Ill.] asked whether this statement might violate the army prohibition against polls of soldiers, Woodrum replied he would seek to have a law passed, if necessary, to prevent court-martial of the private.

TRUMAN WANTS 2 BILLIONS MORE FOR LEND-LEASE

2.4 Billions Remains in Previous Fund

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP)—President Truman asked congress today for a new lend-lease appropriation of $1,975,000,000 to help "bring the conflict with Japan to a quick and decisive end." In a letter to House Speaker Rayburn the President said the appropriation, recommended for the fiscal year beginning July 1, would—together with unobligated balances of $2,400,000,000—make up a total program of $4,375,000,000.

The proposed new appropriation is $1,563,869,000 less than that voted for the current fiscal year.

Mr. Truman said the requested new appropriation "reflects our resolution to give fully effective aid in order to shorten the war and thereby reduce the cost in allied lives and materials."

"The war against Japan, like the war against Germany, is a coöperative allied effort," the President's letter said.

Will Aid Allies

"Thru lend-lease and reverse lend-lease we shall continue to pool our resources with those of our allies so that the crushing weight of our combined might be thrown against our remaining enemy.

"Where lend-lease funds will make the efforts of our allies more effective, we shall use them."

"Beyond this," the President continued, "I propose that these allies be assisted in financing necessary equipment and supplies by the Export-Import bank.

"Such assistance is consistent with the enlarged role which the bank should be given in providing certain types of industrial equipment and supplies which other nations may wish to obtain from us for reconstruction."

Asks World Bank Speed

At the same time, he asked early approval of legislation to provide for United States participation in the Bretton Woods international bank for reconstruction and the international monetary fund.

The President's letter was accompanied by one in which Harold D. Smith, director of budget, recommended:

1. Continuance of lend-lease as "an indispensable weapon" for complete war against Japan in collaboration with our allies.

2. Limitation on the use of lend-lease funds to war and national defense purposes and reduction in their expenditure as fast as possible consistent with those objectives.

3. Provision of raw materials under lend-lease "only where they are needed to increase or maintain the industrial contribution of the lend-lease country to the war effort."

MAN WHO SHOT LAVAL RETURNS FROM NAZI JAIL

PARIS, June 4 (AP)—Paul Collette, 25, who shot and wounded Pierre Laval, came home to his beloved France today but the man he almost killed at Versailles on Aug. 27, 1941, still was in Spain.

A copyrighted story by Henri Danjou in the newspaper France Soir reported Collette's homecoming from a German prison camp overrun by the Russians.

Collette was seized and sentenced to death Oct. 1, 1941, and placed in the death cell at Santé prison. However, his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and later he was transferred to a prison in Germany.

TRUMANS PAINT AND BRIGHTEN UP THEIR OLD HOME

Independence, Mo., June 4 (AP)—The latchstring was not out at the newly commissioned Little White House here today as President Truman's womenfolk, aided by a half dozen cleaners and painters, launched the renovation of the 80 year old rambling mansion which will be the Hyde Park of his administration.

Homecoming celebrations, parties, and even courtesy calls will have to wait until Mrs. Truman, her daughter, mother, three sisters-in-law and mother-in-law turn the 14 room edifice into proper headquarters for the President when his duties do not keep him in Washington.

A Complete Cleaning

Quietly the word passed thru hospitable, neighborly Independence, a remnant of the old south set in western Missouri, today that the Trumans, who arrived last night on their first visit since Truman entered the White House, were very tired and that there would be no entertaining until the spring house cleaning and renovation is completed. Their wishes were respected.

Inside the house the womenfolk began a complete house cleaning, and workmen were called in for paperhanging, scrubbing, waxing, polishing, and painting. The house is to be done over from attic to basement.

Today Harry D. Snider, who helped paint the place last in 1905 when he was just a painter's helper, was helping to finish up the first coat of white paint and begin the second, not sure if that will be sufficient to saturate the dry frame house.

Built After Civil War

The house was a mass of crated and covered furniture inside, as the Trumans have lived there only intermittently for 10 years, and during recent years Mrs. D. W. Wallace, the President's mother-in-law, has spent much of her time in Washington. The President's furniture, that part of it that didn't go to the White House, arrived here 10 days ago.

Mrs. Wallace's father built the house just after the hectic, bloody guerrilla warfare days in Jackson county from 1861 to 1865. Mrs. Truman was born there 60 years ago, and it has been her lifelong home, except when she was in Washington, since the Trumans moved in there to live with the widowed Mrs. Wallace after their marriage in 1919.

The biggest news for envious neighbors was that the Trumans might had their old cook back, Vietta Garr, their Negro cook for 16 years but recently employed at a soda fountain, arrived bright and early today and went in the back door. She said she was going to "interview" the Trumans, and announced she would give up a job as chef in a chain restaurant in Kansas City.

YANKS EXECUTE TWO HITLER YOUTH BOYS, 16 AND 17, FOR SPYING

PARIS, June 4 (AP)—Supreme headquarter announced today that two German boys, members of the Hitler Youth organization, were executed for espionage last February against American forces in the Aachen area.

They were Heinz Petry, 16, and Josef Schoner, 17. They were caught hiding in a foxhole near Birgden, Germany, last Feb. 22. They were tried by a military court at Muenchen Gladback on March 29 and sentenced to be shot. Lt. Gen. Simpson, United States 9th army commander, approved the sentences.

The boys first claimed to be fugitives from a Nazi labor detail but later they confessed they had been confined to a disciplinary camp when they were offered a chance to clear their records by observing and reporting on American troop movements. They had crossed the Roer Feb. 21.

Red Army Takes Over Danube Ship Facilities

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 4 [Reuters]—Undamaged shipping on the Danube is being taken over by the soviet military authorities who intend to use the river for military communications, it is learned here. Many Yugoslav ship masters and pilots are being engaged for this purpose.

Truman Gets Davies' Report from London

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP)—President Truman, looking forward to an early meeting with Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin, received a personal account tonight from Joseph E. Davies on the latter's special mission to London. There was no indication that the White House would have a statement on the talk with Davies, whose mission, like that of Harry Hopkins to Moscow, was designed to lay the groundwork for an early "Big Three" meeting. Davies returned yesterday.

FRANCE AWAITS BRITISH MOVE IN SYRIA CRISIS

De Gaulle Sees Envoys of Big Three

PARIS, June 4 [Reuters]—French official quarters are awaiting a further move from London in the Syrian dispute.

Gen. de Gaulle today received the British, United States and soviet ambassadors to France. It is understood that he sounded them on the views of their governments regarding the calling of a Big Five conference on the Levant situation.

In his conversation with British Ambassador Alfred Duff Cooper, it is believed that no further proposals for a settlement were made by either side.

Protests British Moves

The visit was the first time Duff Cooper had been received by the head of the French government since Prime Minister Churchill's note was delivered last Thursday. Churchill had proposed a meeting of France, Britain and the United States on the Levant crisis. De Gaulle would also include Russia and China.

[De Gaulle persists in the idea of a large conference on the Middle and Near East—perhaps large enough to include India and Egypt—however embarrassing this might be for the British government, a spokesman for the French leader explained, a Paris dispatch to the New York Times said. It is admittedly not a part of De Gaulle's present aim to ease Britain's path in the Arab world, the dispatch added.]

De Gaulle complained vigorously about alleged high handed methods adopted by the British military authorities towards the French in Syria and Lebanon.

In particular, it was said, reference was made to the regulation by Gen. Bernard Paget imposing a curfew on French citizens in Syria and Lebanon. A still stronger protest was made, it is understood, by Gen. de Gaulle on the grounds that he understood that the British had taken over control of the wheat distribution office and had eliminated French officials from this organization in which British and French officials formerly had worked together.

The wheat office controls all imports of wheat in Syria and whoever controls wheat imports into Syria holds a powerful lever over Syrian affairs, the British ambassador was told.

Well informed circles repudiate the statement by Jamil Mardam Bey, acting premier of Syria, that "the French were preparing a plot to cause trouble in Syria."

Arab League Meets

CAIRO, Egypt, June 4 [Reuters]—The conference of the Arab league council to discuss the situation in Syria and Lebanon opened in the Zaafarane palace here tonight.

It was the council's first meeting since formation of the Arab league. All Arab states were represented except Yemen, which will be kept informed of the proceedings.

At the public session Nokrashy Pasha, Egyptian premier, said Great Britain took laudable action by intervening. He also thanked the United States because she had not lagged behind in support of the cause of the independence of Syria and Lebanon.

"Russia's attitude, expressed to me by Russia's representative, makes it clear that all the great nations feel that force is no longer acceptable as a means of securing relations between countries," he added.

King Farouk of Egypt, in a message to the delegates, said: "Let us work hand in hand for realization of complete sovereignty and full independence for Syria and the Lebanon, as well as for the maintenance of peace and security in both countries."

Small scale anti-French demonstrations took place in Cairo this evening.

French General Replaced

DAMASCUS, June 4 [Reuters]—Gen. Oliva Roget, French commander in chief in southern Syria, has been replaced. He was in command of the French troops in Damascus during last week's events.

Syria is recovering quickly from her recent sufferings and returning slowly to normal conditions.

British forces have reached outlying parts of the country which experienced trouble and, in cooperation with Syrian authorities, have quickly established law and order.

HOW MINUTEMEN OF SYRIA ROUTED FRENCH AT HAMA

Bomber and Armored Cars Bagged

BY CLAY GOWRAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HAMA, Syria, June 4—This is one city where the natives poured in from the surrounding desert country and virtually won a single handed victory over the French forces before the first British tanks and troops arrived to restore order.

But the Syrians paid a fearful price: An estimated 180 killed and more than 200 wounded in six-days of fighting.

Altho no better armed than the rifle bearing citizens of Damascus, the men who defended this north Syrian city possess, from long experience, better knowledge of how war should be fought.

French Plane Shot Down

Their score for the battle shows how they shot down one French plane, sent another away with its engine on fire, ambushed and captured five armored cars, two self-propelled 75 mm. guns, and a truck, and blew up a railroad line in two places, preventing the French from bringing in reënforcements.

The French tried several times in vain to reënforce the garrison of more than 900 Senegalese and "troupes speciales" holed up in the French fortress in the city.

High pitched tension here flared into shooting on May 25, and until May 26 continued sporadically with the French spraying the principal street with machine gun fire from their barracks.

Late the next afternoon the French sent three armored cars and a truck from the town of Homs, about 30 miles south.

Ambushed at Cemetery

The townsmen and tribesmen ambushed them just outside Hama where the road takes a sharp turn past a cemetery. Fighting from behind tombstones, the Syrians killed or wounded most of the French crews. They burnt one armored car and towed another thru rejoicing crowds to the center of the city.

Today the cars have almost disappeared, their sheathing ripped off because iron is so precious here and parts put into numerous battered Syrian trucks.

On May 28 the French opened indiscriminate mortar fire on the entire city, causing many casualties among civilians, according to British Maj. Seton Dearden, who said he witnessed it.

May 30 was Hama's V-day. Early in the morning a small French biplane roared in over the roof tops, strafing and bombing. But on its second pass Syrian rifles and an ancient machine gun brought it down in flames. The pilot escaped.

Fire from Roof Tops

An hour later a strong French column arrived from Homs containing two armored cars, three self-propelled 75s, and 25 troop laden trucks. An ambush stopped them where the other cars were captured. For three hours an intense battle was fought. None of the French set foot in Hama.

Dearden said he looked down from his window and saw the Syrians firing from every roof top, and from behind hummocks and gravestones.

The French were hopeless tactically, bunching their equipment instead of deploying it for the best defense. When the battle ended they had lost two of the self-propelled guns, two armored cars, and several trucks to the Bedouins. The remainder of the column fled to Homs.

Late in the afternoon the French bombed the most congested quarters of the city with three American lend-lease Baltimore medium bombers.

PARIS SAYS ALLIED CONTROL BOARD WILL MEET IN BERLIN TODAY

PARIS, June 4 (AP)—Authoritative reports today said Gen. Eisenhower will meet in Berlin tomorrow with Marshal Zhukov of Russia, Field Marshal Montgomery of Britain and Lt. Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig of France to organize the Allied control commission.

A Paris radio report that the four-power representatives met yesterday was denied by supreme headquarters.

It was known that a party of correspondents, en route to the Russian-occupied German capital, still was at Frankfurt-On-the-Main late today and that it planned to continue to Berlin tomorrow. Frankfurt is Gen. Eisenhower's advanced headquarters.

MOBILIZATION ORDER BY LUBLIN POLES REVEALED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, June 4 — The soviet sponsored Lublin administration issued a mobilization order for the military services May 26, it was disclosed tonight by the Polish government in London.

Men in the 24 to 28 year groups, noncommissioned officers up to 45, officers up to 50, and women doctors, dentists, and chemists up to 40 are affected by the Lublin call-up, it was stated.

Many are said to be hiding in the forests, trying to evade service. To these the council of national unity and the acting delegate of the emigre Polish government in Poland have addressed a proclamation warning them against any desperate acts of self-defense, as "only disaster awaits you in the forests."

NAVY CONFIRMS LOAN OF CRUISER TO RUSSIA IN 1944

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP)—The navy department announced today that the cruiser Milwaukee was loaned to Russia in April, 1944, for "the best interest of the war effort."

While reports previously had been heard of the transfer of the crusier to the soviet, the navy always had declined confirmation.

Whether or not the cruiser has been returned by Russia was not disclosed by the navy, which declined further comment.

SWEDES PRAISE NEUTRALITY AS BOON TO WORLD

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, June 4—Sweden's neutrality is seen by some of its leading citizens, whom The Tribune correspondent interviewed on a recent trip, as having preserved the cornerstone of spiritual, economic, and political stability for the reconstruction of Europe.

"The world, not just Sweden, gained by our militant refusal to participate in the carnage," Count Folke Bernadotte, president of the Swedish Red Cross, said. "We were able to alleviate suffering during the war and our conserved moral and material strength will enable us to do much for humanity now that the European battle has ended.

"As a combatant, our ships could not have carried grain to starving Greece. We could not have sent goods to Finland in 1939 and '40. We could not have fed as many as 300,000 Norwegians daily. We could not have helped Holland and France as much as an ally as we were able to do.

Ships Exchanged Prisoners

"Our ships could not have exchanged prisoners and internees between belligerent countries. We could not have been delivery agent for food, medicine, and clothing furnished by your generous country to prisoners of war in German territory.

"Now that the war is ended we are in shape to continue this humanitarian work. We have between two and three thousand trained relief workers.

"Our world-wide spiritual and political influence should be wholesome. Our government is progressive without being radical, a model for frustrated and distressed people of other countries."

In substantiation of Count Bernadotte's assertions, Glen Whisler, Findlay, O., special representative of the American Red Cross, said his organization sent more than 5,000,000 packages of food and medicine to German prisoner of war camps via Sweden.

Sweden's post-war program calls for credits and gifts to neighboring countries to total more than $6,000,000,000 by July 1. This is from a country of less population than Illinois.

Family as Unit Saved

Prof. Gunnar Myrdal of the University of Stockholm, who is known in America for his studies of the Negro problem, said the most valuable treasure saved from the war's ruin "is the integrity of the family as the basic unit of civilization.

"In Germany and in most of the territory it conquered, husbands, wives, and children were separated," he said.

he said. "This social disruption was not as bad as in Denmark and Norway, where resistance was light

"Great Britain, with many men in service, many wives working, and many American soldiers encamped on the island, did not escape this immeasurable war damage. America likewise has suffered but not to as great a degree.

"In Sweden, while as many men in proportion to the population were mobilized to protect her neutrality as we could mobilize to fight a war, the men were never far from their families and were always among their own people."

Finds Brussels Has Plenty of Food; Life Nears Normal

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 4—After nine months of liberation and a month after the cease fire order, Brussels is the most animated and best victualled capital of Europe. The presence of troops still gives the city a martial appearance and affects the economy of the country.

While the Americans have announced that they are taking home all soldiers from France over a nine month period, the British have not announced when they will evacuate Belgium.

The Belgians still are not "at home." On all major matters the Belgian government must consult British military authorities to a greater extent, perhaps, than the French consult the Americans in Paris.

But apart from that, Brussels and Belgium are fast reverting to the pre-war rhythm of life and activity.

Curfew Is Ended

The curfew has been abolished. Closing hours for public establishments and street cars shortly will be extended.

Taxis are back on Brussels street corners—but not in the abundance of pre-war days. Civilians can use them if they have legitimate and useful errands. The cost is six francs, or about 15 cents, for a half mile.

Belgians are planning vacations this summer, and many think that next year everything here will be restored to peace time conditions. The tourist regions of the seacoast and the Ardennes forest, badly damaged in fighting, are being overhauled.

The beaches are cluttered up with mines, the hotels are smashed and the forests are blasted, but they are fast being cleaned up.

Profiteers Face Action

As yet the import business is restricted to supplying allied troops. Foreign business houses, with the exception of a few banks, have not yet set up shop. But the Belgians expect that ships with civilian goods shortly will be coming into Antwerp.

The small consumer and the little man are not affected by fiscal reform measures aimed at confiscating the huge profits made by collaborators supplying the Germans.

In Brussels the official price of gasoline is four francs, 70 centimes, or about 12 cents per quart. People having driving licenses can get all they need.

Food Rations Increased

The economic improvement of the country has enabled Minister of Food Edgar Lalmand, who is a Communist, to make more and more copious distribution of food ration tickets.

From Feb. 15 to March 15 the daily ration was 1,500 calories. It is now 2,000. The pre-war ration was about 2,500. The percentage of ration stamps not honored is more and more diminished.

The government has frozen wages for three months on the basis of 60 per cent above 1940 levels. The leftists say that this is not enough and also complain at the rationing, but it is all much superior to Paris.

FRENCH TRADE 5¾ BILLION OLD BILLS FOR NEW

Post Guards as Giant Transaction Begins

BY ROBERT SAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, June 4—Police and troops, armed with carbines, guarded the banks, post offices, and tax bureaus this morning as the gigantic job of exchanging 5¾ billion francs' worth of bank notes [$115,000,000 at hitherto nominal exchange], began in every town, village, and hamlet of France.

The operation, the largest and most complicated of its kind ever attempted in France, proceeded in orderly fashion thruout the day. The several months' preparation of the minutest details was manifest in the swift, smooth handling of the exchange.

3,500 Exchanges in Paris

In the Paris region alone 3,500 exchange windows will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. for 12 days with a capacity of serving 4 million persons at the rate of 100 a day, or about a dozen an hour, at each window.

Long lines were waiting in Paris this morning when the banks opened. Many Parisians who carried out the transaction during the noon hour received their new bills in 10 minutes.

Finance Minister Rene Plevin ordered the transaction for three reasons: To invalidate the huge sums taken by the Germans; to ferret out concealed fortunes of war profiteers, black market operators, and collaborators, and to obtain an accurate estimate of the personal fortunes on which to apply a capital levy. The bill exchange is the last measure preparatory to the drastic step of declaring a levy on capital.

Maximum Sum $120

The exchange affects bills of 50, 100, 1,000, and 5,000 franc denominations. Five, 10, and 20 franc bills are not being exchanged at present. The result is that those who have some of the smaller bills are hanging onto them, and those who have none are frantically seeking them.

The maximum sum in cash given each person by the banks today is 6,000 francs, or $120. The balance will be paid at the conclusion of the exchange.

What's your pleasure, gents?

Some men make a game out of work. They seem to enjoy digging rutabagas, painting or building things—even doghouses (they may get caught in later). Others seek fun and health playing  golf or tennis ... though often they only raise blisters and their blood pressures. Still others expose large areas of pale epidermis to the searing seaside sun, or wait with infinite patience for an indifferent (or non-existent) fish.

And there is at least one man who reports that "his only exercise is acting as pallbearer for his athletic friends."

Whatever form of recreation you elect, we believe we have clothes that will make it more fun (or easier to take) and besides will make you look like an expert, even if you aren't.

ALSATIANS BEGIN RETURNING TO THEIR HOMES

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

PARIS, June 4—Nearly half a million Alsatians and Lorrainers—one in every four—driven from their homes by the war, have begun to return, French government quarters disclosed today.

Trains bringing liberated prisoners from Germany, it was announced, will begin on their return journeys to repatriate 200,000 refugee Alsatians and Lorrainers now living in central France. Most of them were moved there by the French government from frontier areas in 1939, others fled or were expelled after the Germans annexed the two provinces. Each refugee will get the equivalent of $15 from the French government and free transportation.

Meanwhile 300,000 Alsatians and Lorrainers who were deported to Germany also are returning.

DOUGHBOYS GAIN YARD BY YARD IN LUZON VALLEY

Face Stiff Jap Resistance on Winding Road

MANILA, June 5 [Tuesday] (AP)—American doughboys fought sharp engagements with Japanese delaying parties on Sunday on highway No. 5 leading into northern Luzon's Cagayan valley, last major Japanese stronghold in the Philippines.

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th division moved ahead several hundred yards, front dispatches reported today. The Yanks still had not encountered any organized defense lines but battled Japanese positions on either side of the winding mountain road. Three enemy tanks, dug in as emplacements, were destroyed.

Sebe Hill Near Dam

In central Luzon doughboys of Maj. Gen. William C. Chase's 38th division captured Haponang Bamoy hill, just east of American held Wawa dam, but the Japanese still fought bitterly at Mounts Lamita and Purro southeast of the dam.

On Mindanao Island, Maj. Gen. Clarence Martin's 31st division, driving east from the north-south Sayre highway, broke a Japanse defensive position on the Kibawe-Talomo trail at the Pulangi river, about three miles from the highway.

Across the island to the east the 24th division gained more ground north and west of the four villages captured on Saturday. Opposition was light.

Guerrillas Take Village

Bayabas village, less than 10 miles from Davao, was taken by Col. Wendell Fertig's guerrillas under supervision of Yank officers. The guerrillas defeated the Japanese in hand-to-hand fighting.

The Melbourne radio reported, meantime, that Australian troops had captured strategic Margy hill on Tarakan Island, off northeast Borneo, in hand to hand fighting. Only the southwestern edge of Tarakan still is in Japanese hands.

A 3,000 ton vessel probably was sunk off Shanghai in air attacks along Asiatic coastal supply routes and anchorages. Four fuel-laden barges and five small craft were destroyed near Foochow.

More than 150 tons of bombs and rockets were cascaded on Japanese garrisons in Borneo from Kudat on the north to Bandjermasin on the south.

2 CALLERS KILL MANUFACTURER IN N.Y. HOTEL

New York, June 4 [Special]—Albert E. Langford, 63, wealthy textile manufacturer, was shot and killed at the door of his seventh floor apartment of the exclusive Hotel Marguery, 270 Park avenue, apparently by one of two unknown men callers.

Mrs. Langford, the manufacturer's wife, told detectives her husband answered the doorbell and talked for a moment with whoever he found there. Then the husband left the callers at the door, went to his wife's bedroom, and told her two men he did not know were demanding a personal interview with Mrs. Langford, the wife told the police.

Mrs. Langford came to the conclusion she was not acquainted with the mysterious callers and told her husband, she said, to refuse them an interview, and he thereupon left the bedroom.

A moment later Mrs. Langford heard what she described as a thud. She called to her husband, and when he did not answer she went to the entrance. He was slumped in the half opened door, shot in the head.

BURGLAR, AGE 13, SEIZED; HAS LOOT IN SIX SUITCASES

Preston Irwin, 13, of 213 S. Aberdeen st., was being held at the Juvenile home last night after his arrest earlier while burglarizing the offices of the J. E. McBrady company, 1045 Van Buren st. Surrounding him were six suitcases filled with loot which he said he planned to sell and give the proceeds to his mother. Police said he entered the building thru a third floor window from a fire escape and had filled the suitcases with billfolds, ladies' purses, and a shotgun. The merchandise is used as premiums by the company.

American forces smashed with crushing power at frantic Japanese efforts to reorganize their Okinawa defense and United States 10th army officers asserted the next 24 hours should determine the issue.

Tokyo broadcasts said American ships were swarming around the island, with 40 vessels moving into Nakagusuku bay and two warships task forces reappearing after 10 days' absence.

"The tide of battle in the next few days must be watched closely," Tokyo said, "for it will determine the outcome of the enemy's campaign on Okinawa Island."

Light Unit of Fleet Damaged

Fleet Adm. Nimitz announced that "one light unit of the fleet was damaged" in Sunday's Kamikaze [suicide] aerial attack by Japanese pilots on American forces off Okinawa. He said revised figures raised to 45 the number of attacking planes shot down.

Navy search planes damaged six small cargo ships and downed one enemy fighter plane as they swept the Honshu coast yesterday. Army Liberators bombed runways and small boat facilities on Marcus Island.

Adm. Halsey's 3d fleet, after preliminary carrier plane strikes at southern Japan airfields on Saturday and Sunday, was out to hunt down enemy sea and aircraft wherever they appear.

JAPS TRY TO GAIN BRIDGEHEAD IN CENTRAL BURMA

ADVANCED HDQ., Burma, June 4 [Reuters] — Japanese troops are trying to cross to the west bank of the Sittang river in the Pegu area, about 40 miles northeast of Rangoon. They aim to form a bridgehead to help stragglers, cut off by the British and Indian Mandalay-Rangoon line, to escape east to the Shan hills in central Burma.

Sharp actions are being fought in paddy fields flooded by early rains. The monsoon is expected to hinder the Japs who face drowning in the floods or death from starvation and sickness.

TROOPS CAMPING IN SHURI CASTLE, A PILE OF DEBRIS

BY THOMAS MORROW
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OKINAWA, June 4—The present inhabitants of post-bombardment Shuri castle, built in the early 14th century, reclined beneath a bright blue tent made of a parachute in which food had been dropped from a plane.

"Wait until I get home and tell the folks I spend three nights in moated Shuri castle," said Pvt. Harry Ricketts, Springfield, O., a marine.

He picked up a bugle with which he had been entertaining his tent mates. His auditors were Corp. Thomas Hunt, Youngstown, O., and Pvt. Raymond Roscoe, Madison, Wis.

The castle was built by more than 3,000 workmen who spent 10 years at the task. It has been reduced to debris since April 1 by naval and artillery gunfire.

A bloated Japanese body floated in the moat near the dejected looking arch that sheltered the main entrance. Piles of gray stone marked the courtyard. The steps to the main hall were there, but the main hall had been shot away.

Japs Lie Dead at Caves

In a sheltered terrace beneath the 1,000 foot stone foundation that supported the castle was a wrecked Japanese command car. It was surrounded by trucks, a baby Japanese tank and several extinct Japanese soldiers who came out of their caves at the wrong time.

Underground entrances and slots for gun barrels lined the outside of the base of the castle. Most of them had been sealed by the departing Japanese and the marines were ready to complete the job.

Dotting the rocky ground were Japanese foxholes and shelters, where literature, shoes and empty wine bottles had been deserted. On the concrete road leading to the town of Shuri, a pigeon, its head cleanly clipped away, lay next to half a Japanese.

U. S. Made Auto Left Behind

Shuri, one mile square and once a city of 20,000, lay flattened, its tile, stone, and lumber in a designless pile. Part of a store, adorned by a picture of a Japanese admiral, remained standing, as did the walls of a Christian church, the cross intact atop the concrete sides.

GUAM, June 4 (AP)—Carrier pilots of the United States 3d fleet raiding Kyushu over the week-end ran into aggressive fighter interception sparked by experienced Japanese flyers employing new tactics and a speedier plane than their own.

Lt. Robert Hite, 9128 Harper av., reported a "two-plane Jap combination, aggressive as hell" that made "lightning fast maneuvers." He shot down one of them. The other, streaking for its home base in an attempt to lead the Americans into an anti-aircraft field, got away.

"With his superior speed, I couldn't catch him and had to pull up and away before I was caught by the AA fire," Hite said.

ARGENTINE SAYS HIS PRESIDENCY NEARS LAST DAYS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 4 (AP)—Gen. Edelmiro Farrell said in a nation-wide radio address tonight that he was approaching the "last days" of his service as president determined to fulfill the military government's promise to restore constitutional government thru free elections.

He set no date when he would step out, however, indicating this would occur when the country holds elections. He said he was fully confident of public support.

Farrell's speech, marking the second anniversary of the revolution, dealt largely with domestic issues and made only passing reference to Argentina's international policies.

Ambushed Midwest Yanks Turn Tables on Japanese

WITH 24TH DIVISION NEAR DAVAO, Mindanao, June 4 (AP)—Japanese cut a telephone line and then lay in ambush for the wire crew they knew would come out to repair it. YANKS DROP INTO GUAM CLUB AND TALK CHICAGO

BY HAROLD SMITH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, June 4.—Chicagoland's uniformed sons out here in the Pacific, lonely for their loved ones, often create little snatches of homelike atmosphere by impromptu get-togethers. One took form at the naval air base officers' club here last night.

The writer and Lt. Wayne Thomis of the navy, Chicago Tribune aviation editor on military leave, stopped in to say hello to the Chicagoan who runs the club, a big, dirt floored tent with a bar and a few benches where officers of the base find relaxation at the close of a busy day. He is Steward Francis Jenkins, 38, of 4511 Vincennes av., who in his nine years as a dining car waiter on the Pennsylvania railroad's Broadway Limited, developed an acquaintance with many celebrities.

They Talk About Home

A newcomer, hearing Chicago mentioned, introduced himself as Lt. [j. g.] Edward Schlies, 26, of 2109 N. Avers av., an air base medic. The doctor said he sold Tribune classified ads for three months until early 1941, and told us his wife, Eleanora, their daughter, Tanya, 2, and a son born four months ago after he had left Chicago were living temporarily at 4876 Northwest highway.

Lt. Comdr. William J. Copeland, 40, of Cary, Ill., a flight surgeon, joined the conversation with the announcement that he, too, had never seen his youngest son, Thomas, 6 months old. His wife, Jennie, and his daughter, Marian Louise, 5, complete the family circle.

Ensign George Drase, 21, of 1915 Schubert av., an aviator, said he used to sell local display advertising for the Chicago Herald-American.

The senior dental officer, Lt. Paul Bass, 39, whose wife, Charlotte, lives at 2115 Chestnut av., Wilmette, and whose office was for 13 years at Ridge rd. and Lake av. there, told how he met a neighbor for the first time out here. The neighbor is Lt. Ray Siggins, flag officer for the naval air base commander at Saipan, and he lives in the 2100 block on Greenwood av., two streets from Bass.

Ex-Tennis Champion There

Our group was joined also by the Red Cross field director, Arno Holm, 39, of 444 St. James pl., Chicago, and Ensign Robert W. Strain, 28, of 2030 Hawthorne lane, Evanston. Strain was formerly his home city's champion tennis player.

Steward Jenkins mentioned among his personal acquaintances the late President Roosevelt, Col. Robert R. McCormick, Chicago Tribune publisher; Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, Donald Nelson, Lessing Rosenwald, Sewell Avery, and the late Helen Morgan, singing star.

Jenkins belonged to the 8th regiment of the Illinois National Guard for six years but was turned down physically when his outfit was mustered in. He underwent a major operation so he could get in the navy.

SHOOTING DEATH HELD ACCIDENT

A verdict of accident was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in an inquest into the death of Janet Mae Le Ruez, 13, of 9849 Emerald av., daughter of George A. Mutual Reporter Home After Spanning Globe

MANILA, P. I., June 4 (AP)—Don Bell, Mutual Broadcasting system correspondent, was united with his wife and two children here today after an "overnight" bombing mission which turned into a trip around the world and an 11 weeks' absence from home. Bell, whose real name is Clarence Beliel, was shot down on the China coast during the mission in mid-March. He subsequently was rescued by Chinese and reached Chungking, returning to Manila, via the United States.

Flyer and Wife United After Two Years

Portsmouth, O., June 4 [Special]—Pretty Mrs. Helen Goad, 23, the modern Mrs. Enoch Arden, and her first husband Lt. Harold W. Goad, 27, who returned from the "dead," were on their second honeymoon here today in the old home town where they were childhood sweethearts.

"We're not concerned about the future," they said, happy as newlyweds over the reunion that bridged nearly two years' separation. Here's what has happened to them since Lt. Goad went to war as a bomber pilot:

His plane was hit by a Jap fighter over Burma, caught fire at 20,000 feet and an explosion blew him thru the roof. He parachuted down safely, was captured by Japs, and starved in prison for 18 months. After being missing a year, he was officially reported dead and only recently was found alive by allied invaders.

Wife Marries Ensign

Meantime, his wife, assured that he was dead, four months later married Ensign Robert A. MacDowell, following her husband's advice to "find a good man and remarry" if anything happened to him.

Their reunion took place in Cincinnati on Thursday. Lt. Goad was flown home across the Atlantic, then furloughed from Camp Atterbury, Ind. Mrs. Goad came here three weeks ago from Long Beach, Cal., where she had been living with her second husband when he was home from sea, and went to Cincinnati for the momentous meeting.

She walked up to him at the Netherland Plaza hotel and said "Hi," nonchalantly, just as if he'd been gone only a week. But after that, Goad said, there was plenty of talking and the second honeymoon began.

Stay with Bride's Parents

"For two days we took in shows and went dancing," he beamed.

They returned here Saturday night and have been staying with Mrs. Goad's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Zuhars.

"It's swell to be back," Goad said. "I'm going to loaf around a few days, then go away with my wife for a vacation. When my furlough ends, she'll join me at camp."

They indicated they would wait awhile before attempting to straighten out the legal technicalities involved in his wife's second marriage last December. Mrs. Goad has said she would seek an annulment from Ensign MacDowell, who has been at sea during the strange developments in his marriage.

Lt. Goad said he wants to stay in the army "if they'll let me keep on flying." Otherwise, he'll try for a civilian job. He termed himself "just a horse and buggy pilot now, with all the developments in flying during the 18 months I was a prisoner."

MUSIC FESTIVAL IN GARY TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Five hundred singers and players will participate in the sixth annual Gary Music Festival to be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Gary Memorial auditorium. The festival is held in connection with the CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S 16th annual Chicago Music Festival.

Seven choral groups and the Carilico band directed by Kenneth W. Resur will sing and play. Winners of the vocal contest recently held in Gary will be presented. They are William O'Donnell, baritone, and Gloria Gonan, mezzo soprano, both of Gary. A. B. Dickson is the director. Philip Maxwell, director of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Music Festival, will speak briefly.

The deadline for the entry of singers for the Evanston Music Festival is 6 o'clock tonight. The contest will be held Monday night at 8 o'clock in Lutkin Hall on the Northwestern university Evanston campus. Entry blanks should be sent to festival headquarters at 614 Davis st. in Evanston. Applicants living north and west of the city limits are eligible.

FAIL TO OUTLINE PLAN OF ACTION ON WAR CRIMES

LONDON, June 4 (AP)—The united nations war crimes conference ended today without the expected announcement of recommendations by the various governments on prosecution of war criminals.

It was announced that Lord Wright, the chairman, would convey to the war crimes commission "a statement presented by representatives of the national offices."

Unofficially, it was explained that not all of the delegates had been authorized by their governments to make final recommendations at this conference.

At the final session of the 16 nation meeting, Wright said the task of prosecuting war criminals, both in Europe and in the Far East, would be "greatly advanced" by the deliberations of the delegates here during the last six days.

Earlier today the Polish government in London said it has listed more than 15,000 Germans as war criminals.

TYDINGS URGES IMMEDIATE AID FOR PHILIPPINES

No Sugar Crop for 3 Years, He Says

Washington, D. C., June 4 [Special]—The Philippines will have no sugar crop for three years because of war devastation, Sen. Tydings [D., Md.] said today after a conference with President Truman during which he recommended immediate large scale loans and gifts for Philippine rehabilitation.

The senator, chairman of the senate's committee on territories and insular affairs, gave the President a verbal report on conditions as he found them on the official mission of inquiry from which he returned last week. He cut short his visit in the islands in order to speed relief measures.

Manila Wrecked

Tydings will put his report in writing and will address the senate Thursday, he said. Talking with White House correspondents after leaving the President, Tydings said that none of the European cities, including Berlin, is in worse condition than Manila.

"We found Manila almost completely wrecked," he said, "hardly a house habitable—without water, without transport, without food, and with almost nothing with which to look after a suffering population." He asserted that 600,000 persons in Manila are being fed and clothed by the army.

Tydings said that he personally uncovered the body of a dead Jap under debris in a Manila street.

Urges Speedy Relief

"What is needed," he said, is some action on the part of this country which will help to "clear the air of uncertainty" affecting the whole future of the islands.

His recommendation to the President included immediate measures for an extensive policy of generous treatment, no change in the government's policy for Philippine independence, an immediate large scale loan to the Philippine government, and a generous government gift to the islands to be used for permanent reconstruction.

FRANCE WANTS 1,750,000 NAZIS TO REPAIR LOSS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, June 4—France wants an allotment of 1,750,000 German prisoners to clean up war damage and do spade work in getting the country started toward recovery, according to statistics published today. The ministry of reconstruction would put 85 per cent to work on construction projects, in forests and quarries, and in plants manufacturing plaster and cement. At least 100,000 would be employed in removing 100,000,000 mines still strewn around France.

The remaining quarter million prisoners would be employed in mines, agriculture, industry, and public works. Only 47,230 German prisoners of war were at work in France as of May 1, while an equal number were waiting to be assigned jobs.

French plans call for paying the prisoners a low salary, varying from 10 to 26 cents a day plus a bonus to good workers. Private employers would be obliged to turn over to the ministry of labor the difference between a prisoner's pay plus his board, room, and insurance, and the normal pay of a French day laborer.

Near Old U.S. Base

CHUNGKING, June 4 (AP)—Bursting thru Japanese lines in a 25 mile dash, Chinese troops today pushed to within 28 miles of the former American air base city of Liuchow.

Imperiling a second Japanese held former American air field in south-central China, other Chinese assault forces advanced two miles to within five miles of Shaoyang [Paoching], 330 miles southeast of Chungking.

Shaoyang guards the western approaches to the great rail junction of Hengyang, 60 miles to the east. Hengyang is the point where Japan's corridors to Indo-China and Hong Kong fork southwestward and southward.

United States 14th air force bombers and fighters subjected Liuchow to one of the most concentrated air attacks in China in recent months. High explosives and incendiaries were rained on warehouses, setting a large area afire.

JAPS 'SNIPE' AT CHICAGOAN WITH ROCKET SHELLS

BY WALTER SIMMONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

DAVAO, Mindanao, June 4—Corp. John Eggert, 1912 W. 63d st., Chicago, doesn't mind being sniped at by Jap rifles but when it comes to rocket shells that's something else again.

Eggert, who is forward observer for a headquarters battery of the 24th division artillery, climbed 35 feet into a tree near enemy lines to set up his post. He and other members of the observer party were just beginning to build a platform when:

"Whoooooosh!"

A heavy rocket had just passed overhead. When others followed much too close for comfort, Eggert and his buddies decided the platform was too hot to use. They scrambled down. Soon afterwards a direct hit destroyed it but the Yanks came back the next day, rebuilt the post, and used it without being shot at again.

Pvt. Thomas Smoot of Granite City, Ill., became known as the "hard luck guy" of the division. He killed a Jap officer—but the Jap didn't have any saber.

HEAR ARGENTINA HALTS RELIEF WORK FOR ALLIES

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, June 4 (AP)—A report from Buenos Aires said today that Argentina has closed the pro-allied Junta de la Victoria which has been collecting money, clothing and food to aid war-stripped members of the allied nations.

Once before—under the Ramirez regime and before Argentina broke relations with axis nations—the organization, headed by a group of prominent women, was banned by the government, which at that time seized all its stocks being prepared for shipment to the allies.

The report said censorship prevented foreign correspondents in Buenos Aires from sending news o the closure. After Argentina d clared war on the axis the Jun was permitted to continue activiti

JAP SHIP SINKS, ALMOST CARRIES U. S. SUB ALONG

BY HAMILTON FARON

AT SUBMARINE BASE IN THE PACIFIC, June 4 (AP)—Shaken by heavy underwater blasts, heeling over until she nearly capsized, an American submarine rode thru a white hell of depth charges to carry on her attacks against Japanese shipping in enemy controled waters.

The submarine made the attack on the surface in the blackness of an exceptionally dark night off the Bonin Islands not far southeast of Japan.

In inky darkness she moved in close to a Japanese ship before launching a torpedo. The enemy craft was hit amidships.

"The ship blew up all over the bridge and sank," recalls Tom Voegtlin, electrician's mate 1st class, New Orleans.

But the submarine's surface approach proved to have been uncomfortably close. The forward motion of the sub carried her closer and closer to the sinking Jap ship.

Blasts Churn Sea

She still was surging on when explosions began churning the sea—the depth charges on the enemy craft were exploding as it sank.

Men on the submarine's deck clung to guard rails. She rolled far over. It seemed at times that her conning tower would go beneath the waves, that she would turn upside down and sink beside her victim.

Within the boat dishes crashed, loose articles bounced about. Men were tossed across compartments.

Rolling and heaving about in the explosion-torn sea, the submarine surged on—on and over the bursting depth charges undamaged.

To those on the deck the scene was nightmarish, weird, and ghostly, but horribly beautiful.

Explode Under Water

All of the explosions were under the sea. They sent spouts of water high into the air. The night was lighted by an uncanny white glow of the explosions beneath the surface.

"The area of white light looked like lanterns lit under water," recalls Tom, who now is assigned to another submarine helping to carry on the campaign which has virtually eliminated Japan's shipping.

Despite the narrow escape from what can be described only as an accidental counter-attack by a sinking Japanese ship, Tom says he and all others aboard considered the "run was very successful."

And he's right. In addition to the enemy craft sent down on that black night off the Bonins, the destruction credited to the submarine for this single patrol included several other ships.

TELL HOW U. S. SUB RIPPED JAP CONVOY IN SURFACE ATTACK

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP)—A submarine's daring surface attack on a Japanese convoy at anchor in water too shallow to permit a dive won high honors for the vessel's skipper and crew. The submarine, the Barb, sent so many enemy ships to the bottom they couldn't be counted in the get-away.

The navy told the story today. Comdr. Eugene B. Fluckey, the Barb's commanding officer, who was awarded the medal of honor last March 23, took his ship on what appeared to be a suicide mission because the anchored convoy was hidden behind a screen of escorts.

In the Barb's favor, it was night, and visibility was poor. The Barb reached the planned attack position, let go with everything she had, gave full right rudder, and moved toward the rock strewn water at high speed. From the bridge, Fluckey watched Japanese ships all around him erupting like volcanoes. As Fluckey had hoped, the anchored junks impeded and confused pursuers as the Barb "highballed" for open water. When the Barb reached open water, dawn was breaking. A Japanese plane sighted her, and she was forced to submerge.

TOKYO PREDICTS BALLOON PILOTS WILL BOMB U. S.

San Francisco, Cal., June 4 (AP)—Japan threw a scare broadcast at the United States today—saying balloon-riding Nipponese pilots soon would be raiding America, thru the stratosphere. The attacks in "the near future" were predicted by Lt. Col. Shozo Nakajima, Japanese army propaganda spokesman. He referred to balloons carrying only bombs which the United States army recently disclosed have reached America in unspecified numbers.

[Washington, D. C., announcements said these balloons had caused no property damage but that a woman and five children of a picnic party had been killed when they found an unexploded bomb, which went off as they examined it.]

Nakajima was quoted as saying that: "Thus far these attacks have been on an experimental scale" and predicting that "when actual results of the experiment have been obtained large scale attacks with death defying airmen manning the balloons will be launched."

Nakajima was further quoted as boasting that the balloon bomb was a "unique" Japanese invention and "can attack the enemy mainland directly from Japan—something the enemy cannot boast of." He asserted the balloons—blown across the Pacific by stratosphere air currents—were first launched on March 10.

MISSING GIRL, BOY HUNTED; $506 ALSO GONE

Town Hall police were seeking James Lilpegren, 14, of 638½ Cornelia av., and Jennie Zelko, also 14, of 3841 Fremont st., last night in an effort to restore the teen aged couple to their respective parents and $506 to the boys' mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Macey. James left home Sunday afternoon after writing a note saying: "Sorry I took your money, but you probably know who I went with. I'll pay you back some time." James also took a suitcase. Jennie was reported missing by her mother, Mrs. Mary Micell.

MRS. EMILY CLEMENT

Denver, Colo., June 4 [Special]—Police Monday were looking for a man with blood spattered clothes and a deep, booming cough as the slayer of Mrs. Emily Kogeler Clement, 34, attractive bank clerk and theater candy counter attendant, who was found dead in her apartment, a block from the Colorado state capitol, Sunday night, her skull fractured in several places by blows struck with a heavy electric iron.

Also being sought are Mrs. Clement's diamond studded wristwatch and two valuable rings which were not on her body or in her apartment when a co-worker at the Broadway theater, Mrs. Anna Cannon, went there Sunday night to learn why Mrs. Clement had failed to appear for work.

Mrs. Cannon told police she talked to Mrs. Clement on the telephone about 2 a. m. Sunday and thought she heard a man coughing in the room.

"I hear you have company," Mrs. Cannon said she said, but the statement brought no response from Mrs. Clement.

FORMER CHICAGOAN

Mrs. Clement lived in Chicago until 15 years ago, when she moved to Denver with her husband, Willis P. Clement, a scalp specialist, who died there two years ago. Her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Kogeler, lives at 6239 Kimbark av., and a sister, Mrs. Estelle Duell, resides at 6510 Yale av.

LEFT STRANDED IN AUSTRALIA, SAYS CHICAGOAN

SYDNEY, Australia, June 4 (AP)—The Australian government and shipping officials were accused of failing to appreciate the hospitality extended to Australian service men in the United States in a letter printed today in the Herald signed by a writer who identified himself as E. H. Scott, president of the Scott Radio laboratories, Chicago.

Scott, who recently left Australia aboard a neutral ship, wrote that he tried unsuccessfully for four and a half months to obtain sea or air transport from Australia to the United States, and was "literally stranded in Australia." His letter said that for the last two and a half years he had maintained an Anzac hospitality center in Chicago which provided hospitality for approximately 3,000 Australian and New Zealand airmen.

A spokesman for the Scott Radio laboratories said yesterday that Scott cabled on May 18 he was leaving his Sydney hotel. His associates presume that he is at sea. A pioneer radio manufacturer, Scott was born in New Zealand, fought with Anzac troops on the western front in World War I., and became an American citizen subsequently. He furnished and donated the Anzac hospitality center at 737 N. Michigan av.

YANKS IN GORIZIA WATCH AND WAIT WITH JUGOSLAVS

Americans at Key Points in Strategic Town

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

GORIZIA, Italy, June 4—American troops and some 20,000 Yugoslav troops still are in and around this town which sits athwart a vital road to Austria. The Americans hold the strategic intersections and ridges. As in near-by Trieste there have been no disturbances here since the flareups of early last month, but there is an attitude of watchful waiting while diplomacy and politics work on the problem in far-off capitals.

One regiment here is the 361st of of the 91st infantry division which entered combat in Italy almost a year ago. The regiment commanded by Col. R. W. Broedlow of Medford, Ore., was engaged in some of the stiffest fighting of the late campaign in the peninsula, having casualties of nearly 600 dead and 2,500 wounded. Its task of protecting allied interest now while requiring constant alertness, is a breather.

Chicagoan on Hand

Among those encountered today in the 361st were Pvt. Leo A. Kusmierski, 2558 Southport av., Chicago, member of a Browning automatic rifle crew, and Sgt. Steve Adamczyk, 1415 Portland av., Chicago Heights, Ill. Adamczyk, a bartender in civilian life, was fiddling about with what few ingredients he could find to serve up fairly palatable cocktails.

Col. Broedlow explained that when the Americans first took over the Gorizia sector from the British he had his regiment put on several parades. The onlookers' mouths were agape as American artillery, tanks, armored cars, and precisely marching infantrymen with their light weapons paraded.

Fraternize with Slavs

There is considerable fraternizing now between the Yanks and Yugoslavs. Broedlow remarked ruefully that a Yugoslav team beat the 361st's representatives in a soccer game yesterday by a score of 2 to 1.

"But what we would do to them if we had time to teach them baseball!" he added.

It was around Gorizia and the Isonza river that the Italians and Austrians fought 12 major battles from June, 1915, thru October, 1917. The Austrians finally scored a crushing victory at Caporetto, 20 miles north of Gorizia, and the Italians were forced back to the Piave river, where they defended for the rest of the war. Many of the forts and gun positions of that conflict of a generation ago are still recognizable around here.

War Bond Total

"On to Tokyo" is more than a slogan for the 7th war loan, Gov. Green said yesterday. "We must make it a fact," he declared, "and move down the road to Tokyo with all possible speed." He spoke on the Illinois day program at noon at the treasury center at State and Madison sts.

The governor, after buying a bond for himself from Lawrence Stern, chairman of the 7th war loan campaign in Chicago and Cook county, stressed the importance of individual purchases of bonds.

After the program, Gov. Green, Stern, Don McKiernan, chairman of special events for the United States treasury department, and R. V. Slaker, bond drive chairman for the State st. council, rode in an army "weasel" across a pontoon bridge in Washington st. similar to the bridges put across the Rhine.

There now are 200 names on the Dad to GI Joe honor roll at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 S. Dearborn st, Twenty-five of the names went up on the board yesterday, when the largest single bond purchase under the plan was $4,000. The honor roll was instituted on May 14, after the idea was suggested editorially by THE TRIBUNE and adopted by the treasury.

An exhibit of air technical service command equipment, including the Norden bombsight, will open today in the Marshall Field & Co. store in connection with the 7th war loan.

Sales of bonds to individual purchasers reached $145,717,000 in the city and county yesterday, attaining 44.5 per cent of the quota.

WHAT'S CONFLICT WITH REDS? GIs ASK SENATORS

ROME, June 4 (AP)—A U. S. senate subcommittee on interstate commerce and 250 American enlisted men discussed informally and frankly last night a wide range of subjects, including American-Russian relations and communism in Europe.

The army newspaper Stars and Stripes reported some of the soldiers' questions but without the answers supplied by Senators Hawkes [R., N. J.], Wheeler [D., Mont.], McFarland [D., Ariz.], and Capehart [R., Ind.]. The senators ruled much of the discussion "off the record." The meeting took place at a Red Cross enlisted men's club.

One staff sergeant who said from 200 to 300 Italian civilians were working under his army unit said:

"We have won the decision here; it is up to us to hold it. We are feeding them. Communism is winning their hearts. Why?"

Ask About Conflict

This sergeant, replying to a senator's question, said education in democracy was needed.

Stars and Stripes quoted a private as saying he had been told in his army orientation talks that the United States, Britain, and the soviet union all were fighting the same war. He had never been told, he said, of an imminent conflict between the United States and Russia. He asked:

"What is this conflict? Why has the discussion here taken such a trend?"

[Obviously he referred to some of the "off the record" discussion. The replies to his questions were not recorded.]

French Criticized

In a discussion about the war debt, one soldier asked who would pay it. One of his comrades yelled, "you will." Another soldier said:

"For heaven's sake, tell 'em to stop proposing new payments of bonuses to soldiers. Tell them we'd be willing to pay them to get out of the army."

A staff sergeant queried: "What about the French and their Gestapo-like treatment of the Arabs?" The reply was not recorded in the army newspaper. Another soldier wanted to know whether Great Britain should not be criticized for its policy on Greece if Russia was being criticized for its policy regarding its neighbors.

The first question asked of the senators was why Italy was not getting more aid from the United States. A senator replied: "How would you help Italy?" the soldier shot back:

"You're being paid to be a senator and to answer such questions."

COURT UPSETS WALKER'S BAN ON THAT VARGA GIRL

Moral Censoring of Magazine Barred

BY JOSEPH HEARST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 4—The federal Court of Appeals held today that it is quite all right for those curvaceous, scantily clad Varga girls to continue to cavort on the pages of Esquire magazine.

The court decided this when it upheld Esquire's right to second class mailing privileges, loss of which would have cost the magazine about $500,000 a year in added postage. Postmaster Gen. Walker—who will be succeeded in the post July 1 by Robert E. Hannegan—had revoked the privilege because he thought the writings and pictures of Esquire were "morally improper and not for the public welfare and public good."

The decision said that censorship, freedom of the press, and freedom of competitive enterprise were at stake in Walker's order and expressed hope "this is the last time a government agency will attempt to compel the acceptance of its literary or moral standards relating to material that is admitedly not obscene."

Confusion Over "Art"

Justice Thurman Arnold, who wrote the decision in which Justices Henry W. Edgerton and Justin Miller concurred, said mental confusion always accompanies such efforts at censorship.

"The first source of that confusion is, of course, the age old question of when a scantily clad lady is art, and when she is highly improper," he said.

He said a second source of confusion in determining what kind of literature furthers public welfare is the dividing line between refined humor and low comedy.

Esquire was deprived of its second class mailing privileges in December, 1943. During hearings the postoffice department cited the famous Varga girl drawings as offensive.

An Award for Restraint

Justice Arnold, stating that Walker had referred to second class mailing rates as a "unique privilege," said:

"He appears to think of his duty under the statute, not as administration of nondiscriminary rates for a public service but as analogous to the award of the navy E for industrial contributions to the war. The navy E is an award for exceptional merit.

"The second class mailing rate is conceived by the postoffice to be an award for resisting the temptation to publish material which offends persons of refinement."

Concluding the opinion Justice Arnold wrote that "we believe that the postoffice officials should experience a feeling of relief if they are limited to the more prosaic function of seeing to it that 'neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

Whether the case will be appealed to the Supreme court probably will be left for Hannegan to decide.

M'GREAL HEADS U. S. ATTORNEY'S CRIME DIVISION

Francis J. McGreal, an assistant United States attorney for the last six years, has been named to head the criminal division of the federal prosecutor's office, United States Atty. J. Albert Woll announced last night. McGreal succeeds Earle C. Hurley who resigned May 15 to enter private law practice.

Francis J. McGreal

A graduate of the University of Notre Dame with a bachelor of arts degree in 1931, McGreal obtained his law degree from Chicago Law school in 1933. He was first appointed to the federal office in October, 1939, by William J. Campbell, now a federal judge. As an assistant he has had charge of prosecuting, among other cases, members of the German-American bund, ex-banker Saverio Ariani and his family, and Dr. Hugh Greer Carruthers, head of the Neological Foundation.

ABBOTT HALL C.O. TO BECOME HEAD OF ELGIN SCHOOL

Capt. Benyaurd B. Wygant, commanding officer of the Northwestern university midshipmen's school at Abbott hall, will go on the navy's inactive list Aug. 15 and on Sept. 1 will become headmaster of Elgin academy, where he will succeed Col. Sanford Sellers Jr.

Capt. B. B. Wygant

Capt. Wygant, who was graduated from the United States Naval academy in 1901, was retired in 1936 and was fire commissioner in Los Angeles, Cal., at the time he was recalled to duty in 1940 to head the midshipmen's school. The last class will be graduated from the school July 30.

Col. Sellers will become superintendent of the Morgan Park Military academy when the fall term opens, succeeding Col. Harry D. Abells, who has been at the academy for 47 years and who will become superintendent emeritus. Col. Sellers is a former resident of Evanston, served as captain of a machine gun company in World War I., and for eight years was educational adviser to the army 6th corps area.

CITY TO SPEND $10,000 TO REPAIR CAVED IN SEWER

Thomas D. Garry, city superintendent of sewers, yesterday requested an emergency release of $10,000 to permit letting of a contract to repair a sewer at Lakeside pl. and Sheridan rd. which has caved in three times in the last six months. Ald. Bowler [25th], head of the council finance committee, said the release would be authorized. The cave-ins occur at the junction of two sewers, one 3½ feet in diameter and the other 6 feet, Garry said. Repair work, which will include construction of a subterranean chamber to reinforce the juncture, will require 30 days, the superintendent said. Pavement repair will be performed by the park district.

RUSSIANS KEEP YANKS OUT OF AUSTRIA AREA

Special Passes Needed for Entry

AMERICAN-RUSSIAN DEMARKATION LINE, Austria, June 4 (AP)—Americans trying to enter the part of Austria occupied by Russia are meeting with as much frustration as those trying to get home without those 85 points.

Unsmiling Russian soldiers, with tommy guns ready, guard every bridge, every highway, and every byway. It takes a special pass from Marshal Tolbukhin to get by them and such passes are hard, if not impossible, to obtain.

The only Americans known to be in the Russian zone of Austria are some officers and men at Melk, midway between the American lines on the Enns river and Vienna.

Heads are counted for convoys enter there almost every day, and every driver must be accounted for when they return.

Relations Cool Off

Relations have been cordial generally among Americans and Russians stationed along the demarkation line. But this cordiality changed more or less to formality after a tour last week by a Russian general. The next day the Russians established and placed barricades on all unbarricaded bridges over which traffic was not authorized.

The general's visit and the subsequent action came after some Americans had visited Vienna. The Russian captain who let the Americans thru was understood to have been demoted to a private. The lieutenant colonel who told the captain to let the Americans pass was reported docked three months' pay.

Red Flags in Vienna.

A traveler from Vienna said battered Vienna now is festooned with Red flags and is a city without gayety, electricity or water systems. There is little food there, the informant said.

The food situation for the Austrians is under added strain because requirements of the Russian army have to be fulfilled, he said.

In the area beyond the Enns river from which the Americans withdraw, the Russians in many cases have kept in office the burgomasters whom the Americans appointed. The chief function of these temporary officials is handling food requisitions. Apparently little has been done thus far to set up local administrations.

COUNTIES SEEK 16½ MILLIONS TO ELEVATE TRACKS

Maj. George A. Quinlan, Cook county superintendent of highways, yesterday applied for a $367,500 federal grant to finance advance planning of a proposed continuous grade separation of the Burlington railroad tracks from Ridgeland av., Berwyn, westward to the Du Page county line.

Robert M. Kingery, manager of the Chicago Regional Planning association, and Eugene L. Gates, Du Page county superintendent of highways, said they will make a similar applications for planning grants to carry the track elevation project into Downers Grove. The entire project is expected to cost 16½ million dollars, with the 7¼ miles in Cook county costing 11¼ millions.

Other track elevation programs are being planned in Hammond, where nine railroads cut thru the business district; in Maywood and Melrose Park for the Chicago and North Western, and in south Oak Park and Forest Park for the Chicago Great Western, Baltimore and Ohio Chicago Terminal and Chicago Rapid Transit roads.

DISSENT IN AMERICA

Archibald MacLeish, who was given the title of assistant secretary of state for the purpose of propagandizing internationalist causes, took to the radio in Chicago Saturday night. Altho he has not lived here since he left for an eastern prep school, Mr. MacLeish gave his auditors to understand that he was home again. His status as a native son, he said, vested him with a special ability to interpret Chicago and the middle west to the world—or that part of it which chose to tune in Mr. MacLeish.

With this preamble out of the way, the state department's carpetbagger proceeded to use the nation-wide facilities of the National Broadcasting company to ridicule the city in which he was born. Paying an inverted compliment to the traditional Americanism of this sector of the country, Mr. MacLeish remarked that "Chicago may strike some listeners as a strange place from which to broadcast about the united nations conference at San Francisco."

It is true that out this way we are in the habit of holding America in a deeper affection than any we feel for Russia, or Britain, or any other place that Mr. MacLeish might name. To Mr. MacLeish this is the most benighted kind of isolationism.

There is a theory around, said Mr. MacLeish, that Chicago doesn't like foreigners. Well, we do prefer our own neighbors, in Chicago, Illinois, the middle west, and the United States. Foreigners generally have an association for us with wars over the seas, death for our sons, an insatiable drain upon our wealth, and ideologies which are inimical to our republican form of free government. Are these the reasons they recommend themselves to Mr. MacLeish?

As a political mobilizer, Mr. MacLeish thinks it desirable that every one be part of one world herd. Individuality, both of persons and of nations, he would gladly sacrifice just so long as everybody is going along with the crowd. As a propagandist, it is his mission to attempt to see that everybody does go along with the crowd. That is why he has made a special effort to center his fire upon Chicago and the middle west. Here he has to overcome the most stubbornly characteristic of traditional American traits—the spirit of dissent.

Thus Mr. MacLeish arrived at the one statement in his broadcast which was unqualifiedly true. "No one," he said, "has ever yet been able to tell the people of Chicago what they ought to think." Mr. MacLeish in time will learn just how true that is, as some of his fellow internationalist propagandists around here have already learned. He hasn't discovered it yet, for he came out here to tell the people what he thinks they ought to think.

Like many another Washington exponent of global thought, Mr. MacLeish is under the delusion that he possesses a monopoly of wisdom and truth. His peculiar intolerance of this section is a manifestation of this hallucination. The New Dealers have always demanded as their due that the Republic function as a nation of yes-men for whatever pet candidate or cause is thrust forward at the moment. When the nation resists, they are baffled.

Mr. MacLeish overlooks the cardinal truth that the vitality of this country exists in the fact that it is a nation of dissenters. Its origins were in dissent. The Separatists of Plymouth, the followers of Roger Williams in Rhode Island, the Quakers of Penn, and the dozens of other colonizing groups that peopled this country in the beginning were fleeing the religious intolerance, the wars, and the hundred and one repressions of the old world. The forty-eighters and others who came after them were dissenters, too.

In Europe were left those who assented and those who acquiesced in the thesis that the only relationship is between master and man, those who lead and those who follow. We have seen them follow their kings and emperors, their Napoleons and Bismarcks, their Hitlers, Mussolinis, and Stalins, and the place to which they follow is invariably tyranny, misery, and war. In this country the little native dictators of the Huey Long stripe never stood a chance. Ancestral voices warned Americans against the reappearance of something they had known in the old world. Here the complaint, the protest, the gripe, the squawk is the dower right of every citizen—and it is the music to which liberty marches.

Mr. MacLeish, if he were a wiser man, would recognize these things. He would not wish to have opinion goose-stepping to his voice, and a nation marching in solemn, wooden-faced ranks. Some day Mr. MacLeish should visit the bleachers in the ball park and hear the authentic raspberry which is the voice of America. He may be too fragile for the pilgrimage, but if he listens carefully, he may hear the same sound in this column. He is hearing a little of what gives Chicago, the middle west, and America its greatness and its fierce independence.

BERLIN BLACKOUT

The list of accredited correspondents to the San Francisco conference ran to some 2,000 names, including the "personal representative" of Orson Welles, the publisher of some Chicago neighborhood throwaway sheets, and almost any one else who took the trouble to get a letter from his hometown editor, asserting that he was a reporter.

By contrast, supreme allied headquarters have allowed only five persons representing the press and radio to cover the meeting of the allied control commission in Berlin. Of these only two are American newspaper writers. The actions of the control commission are of more immediate importance than anything that can be done at San Francisco, since the first meeting is likely to disclose the extent to which Stalin is willing to coöperate with the western allies in the administration of Germany.

Obviously, accommodations could have been found in Berlin for 50 or 100 correspondents, sufficient to tell the story properly to the American and British people. The allied or Russian armies could have put them up in tents, if that had been necessary.

The unnecessary limitation on press coverage can have only one purpose. That is to conceal what may take place in Berlin. The nature of the conversations there make it desirable that the public get a full story of the happenings. Under the restricted coverage allowed, it is unlikely that much more than the official version will get out until long after the meeting.

Despite the stupidity with which press arrangements and censorship have been handled by the press relations section of supreme headquarters, it is more likely that the Russians are to blame for the restrictions, in this instance, than that they were imposed by our own people. The behavior accords with that of the Red army in barring allied correspondents from other areas that it controls, and of censoring severely anything that is transmitted by the few correspondents who have been admitted.

The Russians complain of the suspicion with which their acts are regarded by their recent allies against the Nazis. How can they expect anything but suspicion when they seek to throw a cloud of secrecy over everything that they do?

THE AGGRESSOR MYTH

The slaughter in Syria has gone far to complete the disillusionment of the American people.

We had been told over and over again since 1939 that in this war the peace-loving nations were aligned against the aggressor nations. Many Americans came to believe this oft-repeated lie and were overjoyed when at the end of 1941 we formally joined the crusade. The people of this country were told that when the aggressors had been put down, a new and happier society would be born, in which morality and law were to reign over a reunited world. Millions believed it.

Among the nations advertised as peace loving was Russia, but Russia didn't wait for the end of the war to seize the territories of her neighbors by force. Russia never has allowed outsiders to see how she is ruling her conquests but enough is known to establish the pattern. The method is ruthless suppression, in no sense distinguishable from the conduct of the nations previously listed for American consumption as aggressors.

England was another peace-loving nation which didn't wait for the end of the war in Europe to use force against a small ally. Rep. Dirksen who recently reported to congress on his observations in Greece said:

"We get the idea that it was nothing more than a small civil war that broke out there on Dec. 9. It was something more than that. There were 65,000 casualties in that war. I am informed that 8,000 people were killed in Athens alone, and 12,000 wounded. Over 600 British soldiers were killed in Greece. Greece is occupied today with more than 70,000 troops."

Still another peace-loving nation was France and just as Poland was Russia's ally and Greece was Britain's, so Syria was France's partner in the war to end aggression for all time. That being the case, the French proceeded in an outburst of unprovoked savagery to shoot up the Syrians who had made the mistake of believing, as many Americans also did, the myth of the peace-lovers vs. the aggressors. The offense of the Syrians lay in taking seriously the pledge of independence they had received from the French.

And that brought in the English who had kept an army of 600,000 men in the near east for just such purposes. The British have their own plans for domination of the eastern Mediterranean and they have no intention of letting the French interfere. In any sensible use of the word aggressor, the British are aggressors in Syria as in Burma and in India.

Nothing is left of the myth. The so-called peace-lovers of Europe all proved themselves to be aggressors at the first opportunity. It is now apparent to any one and every one that a deliberate falsehood was fabricated to get America into a war which has already cost us a million killed and wounded and may yet ruin us financially.

How much more we shall have to pay in blood and money cannot be told until the terrible war with Japan has been pressed, as it must be, to its conclusion in victory. History, we have no doubt, will record that conflict as another which might have been avoided. The acceptance in this country of the myth of the peace-lovers and the aggressors had involved us so deeply in the European conflict before Dec. 7, 1941, that the Japanese thought they saw their opportunity. They struck at our fleet because they knew we were committed to war in Europe and believed we could not be effective in two wars on opposite sides of the globe. They miscalculated but it was our commitment to the so-called peace-lovers of Europe which invited the miscalculation.

The hypocrites in San Francisco continue their chant about putting down aggressors. In truth, those who sing the loudest are themselves aggressors as their recent deeds have shown beyond all question. They practice misgovernment for the money to be made out of it. The members of the American delegation who continue to take the pious pretenses as honest declarations of policy cannot defend themselves by saying that they don't know the facts. They know what has happened in Poland, in Greece, and in Syria. Americans who still talk about peace-loving and aggressor nations can do so only from a cold-blooded desire to share in the loot.

Inspired by the united nations meet, a rise is noted in the flow of printed propaganda into the offices of the press. If the scrap paper drive had a mailing address, this matter could be posted direct. —Detroit News.

THE ERRONEOUS MURDER

This column's week-end of June chilblains was tided over by a book called "Chicago Murders," which is so new that reviewers are not privileged to publish a word about it until tomorrow. They will get around to it, of course, in their own sweet time, but we're warning those skippers and skimmers to watch for the error on page 45. It is so astonishing that it is news.

* * *

The chapter heading is "The Rock Island Murder—1886." Elizabeth Bullock, mystery editor for a New York publishing firm, is the author. In her second sentence she says:

Mrs. O'Leary's cow had not yet kicked over the lantern which was to start one of the most famous conflagrations in history.

* * *

The reader glances again at the "1886" of the title, wonders what's wrong, and then proceeds with quickened attention. In the fourth paragraph on that page Kellogg Nichols, railway express messenger, kisses his wife good-by for the last time before going to work. "His job this night of March 12, 1886, was to guard money and securities going to Davenport, Ia." Apparently when the facts of life were imparted to Miss Bullock, they did not contain the date of the Chicago fire, Oct. 8-9, 1871.

* * *

You may forget about this dislocation of Mrs. O'Leary's cow, browsing recklessly on the curved time-space pastures of Einstein's relativity, as you follow the fate of Mr. Nichols and the sleuthing of William A. Pinkerton. But Miss Bullock is determined that you shall not forget. She closes the story with this complete waiver of any alibi that she or the editor of the book may possess:

It may even occur to some to wonder why this account has been pieced together from the files of old newspapers and why the actual court records were not consulted. The answer to that puzzle is the aforementioned Mrs. O'Leary's cow—actual court records on the case were burned in the great Chicago fire.

* * *

The date of the Rock Island murder [mentioned thrice] may be a typographical error—1886 for 1866. But Bill Pinkerton was not quite 20 years old in 1866, and trains didn't run at 50 miles an hour. . . . Mrs. O'Leary's cow is waiting for an explanation.

LETTER FROM HOME

"Today I went to plow the lower field;
The robins followed for the worms I turned."
He watched the heaving deck that dipped and reeled
Beneath his feet, the greedy gulls that spurned
His calls, and felt spring winds and good brown earth:
"Your old mare dropped a darkish colt last week;
With those good legs and head she should be worth
A pretty sum, once she grows strong and sleek."
He polished carefully the swinging gun,
He saw a black colt racing in the sun
And wondered could another train him right.
No one who saw him there could rightly say
If those were tears or just the flying spray.

The Duke and His Gang

Hon. Linemaster: Seems roving reporters get paid while raving ones don't, that's why if doughnuts were a dime a doz. I coodn' even buy tha holes. That "Chewsday" luncheon gang is so cheap that last toosday one of tha jerks trys to get 2 more players so's they can split a 3 decker sandwich.

It happened to be Quizzicusse's birthday an he brung a 39c bottle of imported [from Archer av.] sherry wine. Can ya imagine him trying to get 28 glasses out of a quart? He shood change his monicker to Bizzycuzz. Belfuss, tha printer, was soliciting tha gang fer war-bonds, an from tha amount he sold I gotta hunch that this war aint gonna be over before tha next one starts.

The only reason I didn' buy one was because how cood I tell that tha guy didn' print them himself. Irene Koenig bought a bond an made tha check payable to her mailman; this stumped me but mebbe that's tha way they done it when she bought her Civil war one. Frieda Zimmerman's new brown flower-pot hat was all tha rage; if tha Mama ever buys one like it there's gonna be a mess of rage around our dump. When she blew in, C. O. R.'s hair stood on end. Yeah, all six of them!

Shandy Gaff coodn' show up on a/c he's got a deal on with Goebells an Himmler; thinks he can get those collections for a side of beef; this I don't doubt. The Rebel from Nauleens bought 2 bonds; that's a swell record on a/c she's still mad at the Nauthen Yanks.

Tha meetin' closed with singin "Happy Birthday to you" in honor of Quizzicuss. I didn't join in cause——

Duke Bakrak.

P. S. I ain' no hippocrit.

THANKS OFFERING

It isn't enough to say thanks to the Lord
Because half of the battle is done.
And gay celebration is its own reward,
But there still is a war to be won.

And now is the chance to be thankful in deed
As well as by talking about it;
So say it with money—that's all that you need—
If you're thankful, BUY BONDS! That will shout it!

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

F. H. T. asks: "What are the chances for early discharge of my son, who has been in the navy for 38 months, overseas for 28 months, and has five bronze stars for naval battles?"

None at present. The navy department is planning adoption of a point system to be used in discharge of men, but, according to the chief of the bureau of personnel, the navy cannot reduce its strength before the job in the Pacific is done.

R. B. asks: "Is the army still granting commissions to graduate nurses?"

Yes. The army nurse corps failed by 9,000 to reach its June 1 goal of 60,000, and, even had the quota been reached, there still is a need for 300 monthly to replace those who are permitted to resign and those who are demobilized.

J. L. M. writes: "My son, recently liberated from a German war prison, still is listed as a private first class, altho only a few days before capture he was told that he had been recommended for promotion to the grade of sergeant. How can he get the rank due him?"

Liberated prisoners will be promoted to the rank it is presumed they would have acquired had they not been prisoners, and those who claim earlier promotion must support their claims with letters giving names of officers or others who had knowledge of the promotion. Capture alone does not entitle a service man to promotion.

YAWS, AN AGE OLD DISORDER

INHABITANTS of the region between the tropics of Cancer and Capricorn are subject to an old disease called "yaws" or "frambesia." Hillary suggests that it is probably the affliction described by Moses in the 13th chapter of Leviticus. A more accurate account by Oviedo was recorded in the 16th century.

The disorder is a close relative of syphilis but is not considered venereal in transmission. Scientists have difficulty in differentiating between the two causative germs. Apparently they are one and the same, but the strain responsible for yaws is weaker or less virulent.

The malady is passed from one individual to another. The infected material enters via an abrasion in the skin, either by direct contact or thru disease-laden insects, especially flies. In Africa, Asia, and the West Indies the children are more commonly affected. These youngsters run about without clothing and have many wounds and scratches which furnish a favorable opportunity for the parasites to enter.

In certain tribes the mothers expose their offspring on purpose, just as we do with smallpox—thru vaccination. In contrast to our method, these boys and girls actually develop the ailment and the more pronounced the manifestations the better the parents like it. This is done with the knowledge that once the infection has run its course, lifelong immunity follows.

At the site of inoculation an irregular, warty growth, resembling a raspberry, appears. This single blemish is often referred to as the "mother yaw." If neglected, in from six weeks to three months it dries and is replaced by the secondary eruption which is scattered over the body, especially the face, neck, extremities, and crotch. Those on the palms of the hands and the soles of the feet are painful. Sometimes itching is exhibited. Various systemic symptoms are encountered.

Eventually, in from four months to three years, these crusty sores disappear. A tertiary or late stage may also occur, but in many patients the invaders have been overcome before this time.

During the infectious period the Wassermann test is positive. Since the lesions contain the germs there is little wonder that spread is so easy. Yaws was encountered in epidemic form on board slave ships. Consequently, it is believed to be an African importation into the new world. Most victims are found among the colored race. Those of mixed white blood often show some degree of immunity.

Salvarsan or mapharsen will control symptoms quickly. The skin outbreaks melt away as if by magic. Stovarsol, another arsenical, can be taken by mouth with equally good results. In contrast to syphilis, complete cure is obtained in from two to four months after starting medication. Mass treatments are usually given to entire communities. In their books, Heiser and Lambert describe the efficacy of such programs. The disease could undoubtedly be wiped out were it not for the cost and its widespread distribution.

NOSE DISEASE

M. A. C. writes: You mentioned atrophic rhinitis recently. What is it—an odor? If so, can the sufferer smell it or how does he know he is afflicted?

REPLY

It is more than an odor. The mucous membrane of the nose is damaged, with crusting and nasal obstruction. The victim may be unaware of the stench as the sense of smell has been lost. Cleanliness will reduce symptoms.

BELLIGERENT

M. B. writes: I had a nervous breakdown recently and since then I feel like fighting every one I come in contact with. How can I overcome this behavior?

REPLY

Fortunately you just "feel like it" or some one might get hurt. Regain your self-control by directing this pent-up energy to something more useful.

CARRIER

F. C. writes: Can a diphtheria carrier be made noncontagious?

REPLY

Yes, by treating the nose and throat. The tonsils should be removed if infected. The back of the throat can be sprayed or painted with appropriate antiseptics.

MORNING HEAD PAIN

Mrs. H. writes: Nearly every day I awaken with pain in the left temple. Could this be sinus trouble or my eyes?

REPLY

The blithe Lord Haw-Haw has been taken;
By fear and not by laughter shaken.
He haw-hawed long and haw-hawed fast
But now his merriment has passed:
He haw-haws best who haw-haws last.

Remember Ada?

Remember Ada Hunter, the girl of the '80s who treated a fine gentleman named Charles Carter like a dog? Not long ago this department chronicled the doings of Ada, as recorded in Gaskell's Compendium of Forms, the Emily Post of the '80s. In a chapter on Letters of Love and Marriage, Ada's letters were given as a model for other young things to follow. In a series of three letters, all written the same day, she [1] accepted the hand of Charles Carter, [2] told him she was engaged to some one else, and [3] told him he was too poor for her. His heartbroken response, again a model for all rejected swains to follow, also was published. The whole thing was just as sad as it could be, and this department projected the query: What happened to Ada Hunter?

Well, it appears that she married a man whose last name was Charles. Their son, Frederick J. Charles, wrote in with full details:

"My mother's maiden name was Ada Hunter. She was born in some small town in Indiana near Indianapolis. I do not know for sure, but there might be some connection, altho I, of course, never heard of a man named Charles Carter. However, I feel sorry for him, for my mother was a very fine woman and tried to make a good man of her son. Whether she succeeded is hard to say, but like Lincoln's mother she made me read the Bible and paddywacked me if I didn't read a chapter a day.

"However, from the reading of your column, it would seem that my mother was somewhat fickle. Such was not so—just cautious. Just played safe and married my father, who was a good, hard working man who saved his money. I really feel sorry for the Charles Carter who lost out, especially when he said in his final letter to Ada Hunter: 'May you ever be as happy as I am wretched' and signed himself 'the miserable Charles Carter,' for it would seem he really loved my mother. However, maybe he got over it, like the boys do today, in a couple of days. I hope so."

Where the Stars Went

Police Capt. Mike Ahern of the Rogers Park station told recently of the havoc war time shortages can create with the uniform of a new police captain. When he had the good fortune to be promoted to his present rank, he needed two additional gold stars for his uniform. He checked all regular sources of supply for gold stars, but found all had gone to war. Finally he decided to take a trip to the west side and ask his uncle, Pat Gallery, a retired police captain, for the stars from his old uniform. "Sorry, Mike," Uncle Pat replied, "but seeing as how I am a good Irishman, I have already packed my old uniform with all the four stars and shipped it off to that great Irish general in the Russian army—Tim O'Shenko."

The comedian, Henny Youngman, has a habit of stopping persons nowadays with the remark, "You look hungry." The usual answer is a defiant, "I am!" Mr. Youngman immediately launches on his project, one for which he has his application in at Washington. "I'm quitting trying to get laughs and I'm going to help with the government," he says. "I'm going to head up one of those alphabetical agencies. You know, OPA, WLB, WPB, and those. I'm applying to head a new set of letters, the FUF. Feed us first."

LOVE AND KISSES FROM THE SEABEES

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, May 22—This is going to be a gripe that will give you and the readers an idea of the views of a handful of Seabees—and there are plenty of "Bees" in the hive.

We have heard some more of the proverbial malarky that service men overseas upon returning home should rate high. It seems as tho this attitude is held by vote hungry politicians with their high geared "snow jobs" to the press. But, with all the stuff coming to us about the true experiences of those returning "Joes," "Macs," and "leathernecks" who try to get home the fast way, only to be stopped by a higher priority tagged on some hunk of flea bitten mutt or some anemic, frail, and 4-F crooner, just what the devil kind of a standing do we have? It seems as tho the G I has about the same chance as a snowball in hell to do anything or get anywhere. Kind of looks much like we are getting "the sloppy end of the stick" again. The word "sloppy" is the only word that started with "S" to replace the one we have in mind. You wouldn't dare print the one we use.

I guess the same old proverb still goes—"It isn't who you are—it's how much you got."

So it looks now as tho the average G I is going to have one hellava sweet time after the war, trying to get his job back, among other things, if this is the way he gets kicked around now—on such problems and with the war just about half won. Brother, those guys have a tough war back there. Yes, sir, Frankie, tough war, ain't it?

That was the real payoff when "Bobby Sox Kid" Sinatra rated a higher priority than a returning veteran of Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

SOLDIERS' FOREIGN BRIDES

Chicago, May 31.—An "Overseas Service Man's Wife" objects to foreign brides of our service men being allowed to come to the United States, and feels that their husbands should be kept as part of the occupational army. These boys fought for their country, too, and if their future happiness meant marrying a foreign girl, surely that happiness depends upon bringing their wives here as soon as possible. Keeping these same boys in the occupational army would not necessarily mean they could be with their wives. In fact, how could they?

I'm an overseas service man's wife, too, but feel that for the duration my husband is Uncle Sam's boy and not completely mine. We can do more for our husbands by keeping faith with them and not griping.

MRS. D. THOMPSON

THE TOWER HALL BARRACKS

Chicago, June 1.—My attention has been called to the rather sarcastic letter in the Voice of the People signed Diogenes II. If Diogenes II. knew what he was talking about and if his statements were correct, I probably would not be writing this letter.

First let me correct the impression that the government is even thinking of investing over $4,000,000 for the purpose of providing barracks for enlisted men in Chicago. The congressional committees having to do with such matters have given permission to the navy to enter into negotiations with the owner of the building in question for the purpose of leasing it for the billeting and messing of shore patrol personnel and other enlisted men, which lease shall contain a 60 day cancellation clause. This is a whole lot different than "investing over $4,000,000."

The housing and messing of these men is on a strictly cost [not cost plus] basis, subject to rigid audit by the government, as was the V-7 program the writer referred to.

It may interest Diogenes II. to know that the WAVES, in moving from their barracks, instead of receiving subsistence lose its equivalent by leaving, and that no WAVE receives subsistence as long as there is room for her at the WAVE barracks.

This program, instead of costing the government $4,000,000, as Diogenes II. has probably been led to believe, will actually save the government something over a quarter of a million dollars a year.

WLB HEARS PLEA OF TEAMSTERS FOR WAGE BOOST

AFL and Independents Join in Demands

Washington, D. C., June 4.[Special]—The national war labor board after a hearing today took under advisement a request by two Chicago truck drivers' unions for wage increases above those previously granted by the board. Daniel J. Tobin, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen, and Helpers [AFL], led the plea for the increases for the membership of the AFL union's local affiliate.

Kenneth Hindley, statistician for the AFL union argued an increase of $4.38 a week for a guaranteed 48 hour work week, could be granted to the nearly 15,000 members of the two local truck drivers' unions without upsetting stabilization levels.

Demands of Independents

Raymond Hayes, attorney for the independent Chicago Truck Drivers' union, who appeared with Edward Fenner, executive director of the local, which struck for eight days beginning May 17, in protest of an 8 cent hourly increase, based on a 51 hour work week, granted previously by the board, today asked for a flat $5 weekly increase, with two weeks vacation with pay and double time for six legal holidays.

Tobin argued the Chicago AFL drivers were being paid less than drivers doing similar work in other cities.

Fought by Exchange

William B. Crawford, attorney for the Cartage Exchange of Chicago, protested against granting the wage increases, stating that modification of present wage levels in the trucking industry above present stabilized wage standards "would upset wage structures in all Chicago industries and would cause unnecessary strife and turmoil."

Following recess of the hearing today, representatives of both unions, asked the board to make its decision before June 15, when a strike vote is scheduled to be held by the national labor relations board, under the terms of the Smith-Connally anti-strike law.

STRIKE VOTE LIMITED

George Bott, regional director of the NLRB, yesterday announced in Chicago that requests by local 705 of the AFL teamsters' union and the independent Chicago Truck Drivers' union for a strike vote under the terms of the Smith-Connally law, have been granted, but only drivers employed by truckers not under control of the office of defense transportation will be allowed to participate. The vote will be taken June 15.

Since nearly all trucking contractors in Chicago and area have been under government control, following the termination on May 23 of the eight day strike of members of the independent union, only those members of the two unions who are employed by firms that own their own trucking equipment are eligible to take part in the election.

Both the local drivers' unions petitioned for a strike vote early in April following their refusal to accept the terms of a wage directive of the WLB.

DRIVERS' DISPUTE HALTS WORK IN TWO BREWERIES

The entire operations of the Atlantic Brewing company and the Peter Fox brewery, will be tied up this morning because of their refusal to allow truck-driver-distributors to charge 23 per cent above the cost price of beer at the breweries, Ray Schoessling, secretary-treasurer of the Keg and Bottle Beer Drivers' union [AFL], said yesterday.

Sixty of the bottle beer distributors were barred by the two breweries Saturday from purchasing any more beer because they had sold the product at the high price.

Ninety other members of the union who deliver keg beer from the breweries will go on strike this morning in protest against the action of the companies, Schoessling said. Other AFL union members, such as the engineers and machinists, have promised that they also will stay away from work until the two companies capitulate, he said.

PHYSICIAN'S CASE STOLEN

Dr. H. F. Smith, a physician who lives at 7500 Greenleaf av., reported to police yesterday that thieves broke into his automobile, parked in front of his home, and stole a case containing instruments and drugs valued at $150.

REPORTER WHO TOLD V-E DAY NEWS FIRST IS BACK IN AMERICA

Edward Kennedy

New York, June 4 (AP)—Edward Kennedy, Associated Press correspondent who filed the story of German surrender a day before it was officially announced by the allies, was among passengers on the U. S. S. General Gordon, which docked here today with 1,405 liberated American prisoners of war.

Kennedy was asked by reporters at the pier if he had broken a confidence in sending his story.

"My only pledge was not to break the story until after the surrender was signed," he said.

When asked if he would do the same thing again, he replied:

"I've said it before. I would do it again. The war was over. There was no military security involved and the people had a right to know."

As for other reporters who signed a letter of protest to Gen. Eisenhower about the story, the AP correspondent said:

"Ask them that. But I was congratulated by several and some of them told me they were sorry they signed the letter."

O. K. BILL TO LET WIVES GIVE UP SECRET BABIES

Mates Wouldn't Know About Births

Sacramento, Cal., June 4 (AP)—A bill which would permit a married woman who has a child by a man other than her husband to arrange for its adoption without notifying her spouse is pending before the California state senate.

Designed to prevent a mother's indiscretion from "forever damning and beclouding the future of a helpless infant," according to its author, Assemblyman Gardiner Johnson, the bill passed the lower house Saturday and was passed on to the senate for consideration.

The issue of the bill's effect on service men whose wives have been unfaithful was introduced by Assemblywoman Kathryn Niehouse.

Favored by Army, Navy?

She presented a letter from an unnamed San Diego attorney contending army and navy officers favored the bill.

The measure was opposed by Assemblyman Don Allen and others as one calculated to "betray a soldier while he is fighting and risking his life to save his country."

The letter presented by Mrs. Niehouse contained paragraphs stating:

"The army and navy officials state that the effect on a service man who is out of the United States, of advising him that his wife has given birth to a child who is not his, is most demoralizing.

Likely to End in Divorce

"If there were other children in the family, the disclosure of such birth is likely to result in a divorce and a broken home after the return of the service man . . .

"If a mother in such case is not given assistance in working out her problem, the danger is that she will abandon the child on some doorstep, and the practical and legal problems of placing such a child in a home for adoption, securing a birth certificate, etc., are very difficult."

"Well, We'll Be Damned"

LONDON, June 4 (AP)—A bill now pending before the California legislature which would permit a faithless wife to arrange for the adoption of an illegitimate child, without notifying her husband, brought today from Stars and Stripes the editorial comment: "Well, we'll be damned."

"We thought professional handholders, social thinkers and screwball intellectuals who have been making capital of 'veterans' problems' had already gone far enough," the army newspaper said, "but when a responsible legislative assembly passes a bill which denies a husband the right to know that his wife has just come up with some one else's baby, we think the whole situation is getting out of hand."

Action on City Club Idea Is Unlikely, Mayor Says

Mayor Kelly yesterday said that a suggestion of the education committee of the City club that a doctor and a parent be appointed to the school board probably would not be acted upon. He said the board now has the wife of a doctor, Mrs. Robert Mellin, and "at least one parent" as members.

PRINTERS' STRIKE SPREADS TO 2 OTHER PLANTS

Strike of unionized pressmen in the Lakeside Press, 330 E. Cermak rd., operated by R. R. Donnelley and Sons company, spread yesterday to two other Chicago plants engaged in printing inserts for Time and Life magazines.

Union pressmen in the American Colortype company and the Cuneo Press, on instructions from their international officers, refused to touch work scheduled to be delivered to the Donnelley plant.

Close Vote Cited

Officials of local 1 of the International Printing Pressman's and Assistants' union [AFL], asserted that 1,100 persons failed to report for work in the Lakeside Press plant yesterday. Picketing of the plant, which began at midnight Sunday, continued.

The company said that nearly half of its pressmen were at work, and noted that the union won a bargaining election in the plant last year by a vote of 581 to 519. Herbert P. Zimmerman, president of the company, said the company and the union reached an impasse in negotiations for a contract over the issue of the closed shop.

Other Unions at Work

"It consistently has been the position of this company that the open shop is not a matter on which we can bargain," he said. "Whether an employe belongs to a union or does not is a matter for his individual decision, and not something we can bargain away."

Other AFL unions in the plant, including lithographers, machinists, and photo engravers, which won bargaining rights in a national labor relations board election, have not joined the pressmen in the strike.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 4—Sen. Wiley [R., Wis.] today demanded that congress find out how far the "creeping collectivism" of the federal government has invaded private business and the sphere of state and local governments.

Wiley, in a senate speech, predicted that a study of government activities would prove that many high government officials are working for a collectivist state. He said it was time congress viewed "the American scenery" rather than looking constantly abroad.

Wiley did not propose a separate congressional investigation. In an interview after his speech, however, he said there were sufficient congressional committees already in existence, such as the joint economy committee and the senate small business committee, to make the studies he recommended.

VOTE ON STRIKE BY PEOPLES GAS WORKERS FRIDAY

Nearly 1,300 production and maintenance employes of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company are scheduled to take part in a strike vote to be conducted Friday by the national labor relations board.

Should the employes, most of them members of local 18007, Gas Workers' union [AFL], follow this action with a walkout, more than a million gas users in Chicago and surrounding towns would be without fuel for heating and cooking, a company spokesman said yesterday.

The union requested the strike vote after a war labor board directive last month denied its request for a 25 cent hourly increase for all categories of workers. The petition also claimed the company had refused to grant a union shop contract.

DODGE STRIKERS TURN DOWN WLB PLEA TO RETURN

Members of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers [AFL], who have been conducting the 178th strike at the Dodge Chicago plant since May 2, 1944, last night defied a war labor board request to terminate the strike. The board offered immediately to process the union's request for higher wages if the men would return to work.

Altho 574 employes of the forge department have stayed away from work since the strike began May 28, the entire vote cast at the union meeting at 3323 W. 63d st., was 91 for continuing the strike and 41 against. The strike has curtailed the production of parts for B-29 Super Fortresses.

One hundred twenty-nine employes in the forge division who are members of four other AFL unions returned to work. Previously they had refused to cross a picket line established by the strikers.

UNION ELECTION CANDIDATES VOW CASH REPORTS

Members of the "New Deal" slate, which is giving election opposition to heads of the Sheet Metal Workers' union, local 115, for the first time in 20 years, promised on the eve of election last night that if they are elected they will make regular treasury reports, establish seniority rights within the union, and hold elections of shop stewards.

The election will be held today from noon to 8 p. m. in the union hall at 113 S. Ashland av. Capt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, will keep watch over activities during the election.

Tom McVickers, who is the "New Deal" candidate for financial secretary treasurer, charged last night that the present officials have not made an accounting of union funds in many years and that requests for financial reports have been answered by the officials this way: "Do you want your employer to know how much money we have, or do you want the Illinois Manufacturers association to find out?"

Children's Aid Society Benefit Set for Dec. 8

BY JUDITH CASS

MEMBERS of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, who once raised $85,000 at a dinner party and again netted $58,000 at a "Billboard Ball," have set themselves a goal of $25,000 to be earned by a benefit next Dec. 8. The party probably will be a dinner-dance, but no other details were announced at a meeting in the Casino club which was attended by members of the newly enlarged woman's general committee.

Twenty-five women who have been associated with the society for periods ranging from several to many years were joined by 25 new members at a luncheon given by Mrs. Jacob Baur, chairman of the committee. The story of the organization's origin and development as told by Chauncey McCormick, chairman of the board, was an old one to some and new to others, but the tale was inspiring to each woman who by her presence indicated her willingness to assist the society's work in giving dependent children normal home lives.

The society had its beginnings, Mr. McCormick said, in the endeavors of a downstate Presbyterian minister, the Rev. Martin Van Arsdale, and his wife, to rescue children from county poor houses and give them affectionate care in foster homes. The minister's action changed the course of the science of child welfare, said Mr. McCormick, and that science, as practiced by the 62 year old society, has spread to all 48 states in the Union and to Europe.

The society is the largest child care organization in the country, Mr. McCormick asserted. Its "family" averages 1,500 children, altho last year 6,000 youngsters passed thru its hands. The society was responsible more than any other organization for the founding of the first juvenile court. Most of the child welfare laws in Illinois were written by the society, including a revised adoption law which is up for its third reading in the Illinois house of representatives today. Among the society's "firsts" in the child care field is medical care for its charges.

Another speaker yesterday was Mrs. E. Harris Brewer, who enjoys the title of honorary vice president for life as a reward for her work on individual cases. Mrs. Brewer's daughter, Mrs. Frank H. Woods Jr., a new member of the committee, missed the meeting as her daughter was undergoing a tonsillectomy in Wesley hospital.

Wedding News

The announcement of the marriage in Chicago yesterday of Mrs. Virginia Doering Stevenson to Daniel Partridge III. of Washington, D. C., will come as a surprise to the bride's many friends. She is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Doering of Astor st. and has been living in Washington for the last few years. So that Mr. Partridge, a lawyer, and his bride may have a wedding trip to Sea Island, Ga., before returning to Washington to live, her sisters, Mrs. Doering Hartog and Mrs. Ambrogio Cassinerio, are taking turns staying with the new Mrs. Partridge's children in Washington. The former Mrs. Stevenson and R. Martin M. Stevenson were divorced recently.

Interesting news is contained in the announcement which Mrs. Charles C. Dawes of Barrington is making today of the marriage of her daughter, Theodosia Burr Pitman, to Lt. James D. Schnepp of the navy. The ceremony took place Saturday in New London, Conn., where Lt. Schnepp was graduated from the navy's submarine school.

The bride, who attended Bennington college, is the widow of Maj. James H. Pitman of the army, who was killed in action last September in France while on duty with the tank forces. Lt. Schnepp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Schnepp of Bloomington, Ill., recently returned from two years of submarine duty in the Pacific. He attended Northwestern university and was graduated in 1942 from the United States naval academy at Annapolis.

When Miss Deborah Patterson Froelicher and Fisher Howe were married yesterday in Colorado Springs, Colo., the bride wore with her ivory taffeta wedding gown a veil of heirloom lace belonging to Mr. Howe's mother, Mrs. Lawrence Howe of Winnetka. Mrs. Howe went west for the ceremony, a Quaker service which took place in the patio of the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mitchell Froelicher of the Fountain Valley school.

Mr. Howe has been teaching at the Fountain Valley school since he received a medical discharge from the naval reserve in January. After a wedding trip he and his bride will live in Washington, D. C., where he will resume work with the office of strategic services.

Announcement is made of the marriage Saturday in Alpine, N. J., of Miss Mary Grant, daughter of Mrs. Harry Ecker Grant and the late Mr. Grant of that city, to Lt. Abbott Lawrence Pattison of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lawrence Pattison of Belmont av. The wedding took place in the Alpine Methodist church, with a reception following in the Grant home. The bride's twin sister, Miss Jean Grant, was her maid of honor. The bridegroom's brother, Lt. William Pattison, also of the navy, was best man.

Birth News

Somewhere in the South Pacific John Joseph Ibold of the navy will receive word of the birth of his first child, Pamela Lee, Sunday in Wesley Memorial hospital. The baby and her mother, the former Doris Kathleen Smith of Morristown, N. J., will live with Mr. Ibold's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leander Joseph Ibold of Lake Shore dr., until he returns from sea duty.

Today's Events

Plans for next season's benefit of the Service club will be discussed and permanent chairmen for the event appointed at the club's annual spring luncheon today in the Arts club. Mrs. E. Payson Smith will preside at the luncheon, which will be preceded by a board meeting at 11 a. m.

The second day of a three day sale of antiques now in progress in the Hinsdale Community house will open at 11 a. m. today. The sale will continue until 10:30 p. m. Luncheon and dinner will be served.

Chairman of Benefit Sale

Miss Lee Cudahy, who is chairman of a two day resale event to be held from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. tomorrow and Thursday at 1006 S. Michigan av., to raise money for the Ridge Farm preventorium, a convalescent home for girls. Among items for sale will be china, glassware, silver, and a wide selection of little worn evening gowns, suits, coats, and hats. [TRIBUNE Photos]

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., June 4—I wonder how many of us stop to think of the happy hours performers have given us, especially comedians. I thought of this the other night after dining with Buddy de Sylva, Lisa Wilson, Rags Ragland, and Joe Frisco. Joe kept us laughing four hours. I laughed so hard and slept so soundly afterwards, that next morning I felt as tho I'd had a week's vacation. Frisco, who was discovered in a Chicago saloon by Eva Tanguay when he was getting $5 a week and his food, was offered $50 if he'd come to Milwaukee and teach her a couple of dance routines. She went from there with his routines on to the Palace. It took him longer to get there. But in speaking about the old days, and a performer who was five years ahead of her time, he said, "Why, she laid an egg as big as an army truck." . . . Frisco's imitation of Helen Morgan sitting on top of a piano singing "Just My Bill" was one of the classics of our day. He finally got up into the big time, stayed there for a lot of years, then fell on bad days, as most performers do. He still wanted $1,500 a week. Finally a booking agent said, "I've got you two weeks at $1,500. Come over and sign the contract." Frisco yelled, "What! leave this room and have my landlord lock me out?" . . . He doesn't want to be the funniest man in the cemetery. He wants a job on the screen—and why not?

Laughter—Then and Now

That got me thinking of the people who'd made me laugh in years gone by. Raymond Hitchcock in all the hitchy-koos. W. C. Fields with his golf routine. Did you know that Fields' first show wasn't "The Follies" but was with Irene and Vernon Castle? I think it's name was "Watch Your Step." His antics stopped the show at the out of town opening. Gene Buck was there and met him at supper afterward. Gene said, "If you don't stay with this, let me know. I think I can place you in 'The Follies.'" Well Fields stayed in that show just two weeks . . . Weber and Fields—remember them?—Sam Bernard, George M. Cohan in anything, William Gaxton and Victor Moore in "Of Thee I Sing," the comedy Beatrice Lillie can put into a song, Ditto Noel Coward. The sophistication of Gertrude Lawrence. The good humor we find in pictures. . . . Let's enjoy the magic of the mummer's mimicry, and say, "thank you" to the fellows who make our hearts lighter for the laughter they throw our way.

Lest We Forget Them

Maj. Frank Lloyd is in the South Pacific organizing American veterans of aerial combat. He'll head the Hollywood branch. The organization is somewhat like the American Legion, but it's for flyers. Both Clark Gable and James Stewart will undoubtedly be associated with it. Speaking of Stewart, my London correspondent says he will be out of the army and in Hollywood this month. I hope that's true. . . . From London, too, I hear that Vivien Leigh is a sensation in "Skin of Our Teeth." She has acquired a New Jersey accent which she's using in the role. . . . Bob Hope's picture "Princess and the Pirate" is cleaning up. London is Hope mad. . . . Yehudi Menuhin has started the sound track for "The Magic Bow," an English picture based on the life of Paganini. Yehudi knows exactly how he wants the picture done, even tho he won't appear in it, and the studio is listening to him. . . . "Hollywood Canteen" was badly reviewed, but is doing a smash business. . . . "Master Race" has just opened. A member of SHAEF says it's the most fictitious thing to hit the screen since "Alice in Wonderland," and that if it were shown in any of the liberated countries, it would cause a riot.

Shorts and Short Shorts

Wonder why Norma Talmadge is selling all her real estate except the new house William Haines is decorating for her? . . . Dale Evans has not re-signed a contract with Republic. The picture she will make with Roy Rogers is on a one picture deal, in which she plays a Texas Guinan type of role. . . . W. L. Burnett, who wrote "Scarface," "Nobody Lives Forever," etc., is going to get out of his Warners contract and produce independently. He's negotiating with Howard Hughes for rights to "Scarface." He wants John Garfield for it. It seems gangster films are in again. "Dillinger," which cost peanuts, is cleaning up. . . . Turhan Bey's pet name at Fort MacArthur is "Yankee Doodle Bey." When asked whether he was really Turhan, he said, "No, I'm Bey. Turhan died last week." . . . It will be Jeanette MacDonald and Nino Martini when they open in "Faust" in Chicago.

Show Business Movie Evokes a Few Laughs

"EARL CARROLL VANITIES"

By Mae Tinée

Not one meat ball, but a couple of them, and why a customer shouldn't order them, is one of the best bits in "Earl Carroll Vanities." A character known as Parkyakarkus delivers quite a little oration on the subject, and the audience, including me, loved it. The movie is long and lavish, and you can still smell the mothballs on the plot, but, thanks to a good cast, it's not bad.

As you might gather from the title, the story has to do with show business, with Otto Kruger as a sweet and jovial Mr. Carroll, but a princess from a mythical kingdom, here for a loan, is thrown in for good measure. Dennis O'Keefe is the guy with whom she falls in love, and he has quite a time before she decides that her blood is red, not blue, and she'll stay in good old America. Eve Arden and Alan Mowbray are helpful as supporting players, some of the lines are funny, and Woody Herman and his band supply the music. Constance Moore plays the versatile princess, who can dash off a bit of boogie-woogie at will.

Most of the show numbers are decidedly corny, and a lot of them could have been cut without any great loss to any one, but the film is mildly funny here and there, and the audience at the Woods seemed quite content with it.

Gangster Story

"THE CHICAGO KID"

Produced by Republic, directed by Frank McDonald, featuring Donald Barry, Otto Kruger, Tom Powers, Lynne Roberts, Henry Daniels, Chick Chandler, Joseph Crehan, Jay Novello, Paul Harvey, Addison Richards, and Kenne Duncan. Also presented at the Woods.

Mr. Kruger pops up again in the second half of the bill at the Woods—this time as a sweet and trusting millionaire who falls into the ready and wicked hands of tough young men.

It's more of the same old gangster stuff made timely by having the boys hijack trucks of frozen commodities rather than bootleg whisky as they did in the old days, but even with iceboxes as the loot it's not very interesting.

The plot is trite and the lines pretty stupid, with the result that the audience frequently laughed at the wrong time. Practically everyone is wiped out by the time it's over, which was all right with me.

Expect Record Boom in Post-War Sale of Musical Instruments

New York, June 4 (AP)—A boom in home music, coupled with pent-up demand, is expected to boost post-war musical instrument sales to the highest point in the nation's history.

Piano makers, now producing only 5 to 10 per cent of their normal quantities, expect annual sales after the war to approximate or exceed those in the hey-day of the piano industry before phonograph and radio competition. One industry spokesman set probable demand at 350,000 pianos a year, compared with 360,000 just prior to 1910, and 160,000 in 1941. But, because of scarcity of material, it will be some time before pianos are available in volume.

Band instrument makers, who have been busy with government contracts, hope to be able to produce some instruments for civilians by fall. "The post-war demand should be tremendous," said Carl C. Davidoff, general manager of the New York Band Instrument company, distributors.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The baby [his age still reckoned in months] was visiting with his mother. Down on the floor he was crawling all about, investigating the legs of strange chairs and tables, the deep fringe of the rug, and other such things. At each possible piece of furniture he'd pull himself up and reach for those fascinating objects above eye-level, with chubby arms that you would think couldn't get near them but which suddenly seemed to be made of elastic. In a flash the sharp paper cutter was in the grasp of those eager hands.

". . . gently, as she talked to him about it, she loosened his fingers and took the paper cutter away". [TRIBUNE Studio Photo]

Quietly but quickly his mother was at his side, his hand in hers. Then gently, as she talked to him about it, she loosened his fingers and took the paper cutter away.

He gave a little grunt of protest, looked at her with his blue eyes, dropped to the floor, and set off on another voyage of discovery.

"How good he is not to cry," said the older woman, a great-grandmother herself, who was hostess.

"At home I usually try to find something interesting to substitute when I have to take things from the baby," his mother replied. "But he is reasonable," she added. "Perhaps it's because I do let him have everything possible in his hands, that he can't hurt and which can't hurt him. And I don't snatch or jerk things from him."

The baby or small child who isn't constantly frustrated is more amenable when he occasionally has to be denied something.

Chicago Girls in Paris Reject Fussy Clothes

BY ANNE BRUYERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, June 4—Two Chicago WACs, Dorothy Miller, 8844 S. Mozart st., and Frances Radostevich, 9826 Commercial av., who attended Schiaparelli's open air fashion parade this afternoon, said they wouldn't deck out in swanky finery back home unless it was as comfortable as jeans, slacks, and sneakers.

"I like to feel sweet 16, natural, and carefree whether I'm washing dishes, going shopping, or dancing," 21 year old Dorothy remarked. "I never choose fussy clothes. Neither do I like severely tailored dress parade suits, which require perfect grooming to look right."

"Au Petit Bonheur" was a gaily striped, green, yellow, and white careless linen ensemble Dofothy chose to wear around the house and dig in the garden. Buttoned down the front, the dress, with perky pointed sleeves, had a nine inch waistline in green stripes. There were shorts, a brimmed sun hat, and cork soled sandals to match the dress.

For shopping, both Chicagoans agreed "A Propos," the name of a boxed, sheer wool jacket worn over a plaid skirt, would be smart, whether the posture was straight or curved. A shoulder strap bag in the same plaid came with the suit whose double breasted, navy blue, hip length jacket had a high, turn-over collar, brightened with plaid.

While the WACs admired stately draped chiffon gowns and widely spreading satin formals, they preferred a simpler dance frock called "Chuchotement," a camellia pink taffeta with a gaily flowered halter strap.

Fashion flashes: Robert Piguet has put out an exotic, tenacious, new perfume christened "Bandit." . . . Jean Patou has created a white, cylinder shaped turban topped with an enormous mousseline rose. . . . Lucien Lelong has slashed yardage of the new summer ensemble to the strictest minimum and achieved a haute couture look with elegant jewelry and exquisite detail work concentrated on the hips.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

All in the Family

It was late in the afternoon after an unusually busy day in one of Chicago's loop clubs. The telephone rang, and John, the doorman, answered. He summoned Katherine, the attendant in the ladies' lounge. "Internal revenue department on the wire," he said importantly. Katherine chuckled as she hurried to the phone. "O, that John!" she expostulated, "He's always telling me it's Washington or Hollywood calling me . . . or something crazy like that!"

It was just a bit of by-play enlivening the work of these two faithful, white haired employes.

In a Michigan av. office one of the men was leaving for the day. "Good night, boss," he said as he passed the desk of the youngster who happens to sit next to the door. She laughed. Quite obviously, he was the boss!

Fortunate is the white collar girl who works among people not too hard headed and too unbending to joke at the end of the day! It's nice . . . it rather makes it "all in the family" . . . and like family jokes and sayings, it binds people loyally together.

Rosie the Riveter

It's cute the way
She raves and rants
About leaving her smokes
In her other pants.

AL SPONG

Seniority

"Roberta Sue" writes: "I have been employed by the same firm for six years. My employer is one grand guy; however, we don't see eye to eye on this problem. I always have been the only girl in the office, but last year another girl was hired to take charge of the books. She was hired at the same salary I am getting, got 10 days vacation with pay [after being with us six weeks] and received the same bonus as I at Christmas.

"My employer's contention is that no partiality should be shown regardless of seniority. My feeling is that working in a business long hours at the beginning, growing with it and learning along with your employer should entitle you to first consideration. Otherwise it scarcely pays if others reap the benefits you have earned.

"Do all employers have the same outlook? And what do the WCGs think?"

The Look of Eagles

If the life story of Capt. Sally would make a good movie, how about Dr. Mary Walker, who was honored on two occasions by congress . . . served time in the notorious Libby prison . . . was presented at the Court of St. James' in trousers! What a gal! In 1915 I carried her one small bag from a N. Y. C. train at the La Salle st. station and she did not dime me, either. Fifty cents was the tip . . . a small frail woman with the look of eagles in her eyes."

Dean to Open Lecture Series Tomorrow at Biosophical Institute

A summer series of public lectures presented under auspices of the Biosophical institute will be opened tomorrow night by Dr. Richard P. McKeon, dean of humanities at the University of Chicago. He will talk at 8:30 p. m. at 624 S. Michigan av. on "Visions and the Future of Education in the Post-War World." Dr. McKeon, author of several books in his field, is one of several leading educators coöperating in the experimental program of biosophical education, started 20 years ago by Dr. Frederick Kettner and continuing under his direction. Primarily the program is ethical and social, designed to foster practical application of spiritual values in every day living thru the study of biographies of great and unusual leaders and various cultural subjects.

City Red Cross Renews Pledge to Serve Yanks

The Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, the largest in the nation, yesterday reviewed a year of war and community service, elected officers, and reaffirmed its pledge to serve men in uniform in the theaters of war and at home until well after the war is won. More than 1,500 volunteer workers and chapter members assembled for the chapter's annual meeting in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

Mrs. S. Sloan Colt of New York, Red Cross deputy commissioner in the European theater of war, delivered the principal address.

"The Red Cross women are 'spending their hearts,'" she said. "Even when suffering from fatigue, they rejected the idea of furloughs in rear areas."

Even the troops moving homeward from Europe are getting Red Cross help, Mrs. Colt said. The organization has set up large centers in Marseilles and Le Havre, France, to assist fighters going home.

Henry F. Tenney, reelected chairman of the chapter, presided at the session and sketched the service of the various Red Cross crops. During the chapter's last fiscal year, Tenney said, the blood donor center collected 196,191 pints of blood for plasma, and its 87 donor chairmen contributed 16,200 hours of volunteer service.

The camp and hospital committee channeled gifts from contributors to 25 camps and hospitals and 75 LSM's [landing ships, medium] and other craft. Home service workers handled requests for assistance from 290,000 service men, their families, and veterans.

The chapter's motor corps went "around the world" 17½ times, the report said, with 320 drivers giving 136,622 hours of service and meeting 139 troop and hospital trains.

Martin H. Kennelly, chairman of the chapter's recent 1945 war fund drive, reported that total receipts to date are $12,237,282, or $337,000 over the quota.

Officers elected, in addition to Mr. Tenney, were Edward K. Welles and Mrs. James A. Cathcart, vice chairmen, and Norman G. Stockdale, secretary and assistant treasurer. James B. Forgan was elected treasurer to succeed Col. A. A. Sprague, who resigned after many years in that office. Miss Harriet McLaughlin was chosen to continue as chairman of volunteer special services.

Stritch Asks Spiritual Attitude for Peace at MundeleinGraduation

A constructive spiritual attitude rather than a destructive materialistic one was advocated yesterday for winning the peace in a commencement address by Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch before the 14th graduating class at Mundelein college. One hundred students received degrees in the largest class since the school opened.

"The peace which has begun is a very fragile thing, and because of its fragility all the more must all of us of all ranks and conditions minister to it and try to bring it to victory," the archbishop said. He added that "world conditions are chaotic because there are some nations in the world who refuse to stand upon the base of the only possible social unity—the moral law."

Two students were graduated summa cum laude. They are Mary Louise Hector, 1441 Chase st., the school's 1,000th graduate, and Kathryn Fox, 2024 Cullom av. Seventeen of the 100 graduates had honors.

INSTALMENT XXXVIII.

NOT ACCIDENTAL

Almost against her will, Miss Warburton's eyes remained fixed upon the knot of troopers fortunately hiding that appalling thing that had once been a man. Would she end up like that? She thought of Hilda Paradine with the knife in her throat. Of Tillie, so horribly dead.

"O well . . . all right." All she wanted was her bed. She turned away, wearily. North took her arm.

"You understand, my dear girl, why I . . ." he began.

"I'm so tired."

He said no more. At the ravine steps, he let the trooper, who had followed them, take his place, and stood watching till they were out of sight.

But before Miss Warburton had calmed her mind enough to sleep there was a tapping on her door.

"It's Allen. Could you come down to speak to the lieutenant please?"

She said she would be down at once.

Lt. French was standing in the charming little living room.

"I am sorry to bother you," he said, "I wanted to catch you before

"'Crime! Then it wasn't an accident?'"

you went home. Miss Warburton, you received a note some days ago threatening you if you did not leave. I was wondering if last night's crime had made you want to obey it."

"Crime! Then it wasn't an accident?"

"I'm afraid not. The medical examiner has not finished with the body by any means, but his first opinion is that the man was dead before being burned. The skull was fractured when he was alive. But I won't go into that just now. About that note . . .?"

She said, pensively: "I had thought that threat was over when the five days were up, but the senator has changed my mind. To tell the truth, I'm rather at sea. I don't know what would be best to do."

"Then let me tell you. Don't resign. Don't leave your job here without telling me, first. Will you do that?"

"Couldn't you give me . . . just a hint? I hate to be so in the dark. It makes it so much worse."

"I know and I am sorry, but I can't talk about it. For one thing, I'm not absolutely convinced, even yet, that I'm on the right track. The theory I have is so fantastic I'll need definite proof. And what's more, your very lack of suspicion of the person I suspect, is your protection."

"It's a trifle unnerving, lieutenant. I'll be afraid to look at any one. Suppose they misinterpret my expression?"

He said very soberly, "I'll make it as small a risk as I can. I'll do everything in my power to protect you, here, if you stay."

"O I'll stay," she answered his implied question. "I have a morbid feeling it wouldn't do any good to resign now, anyway."

"I'm afraid that's not so morbid, Miss Warburton. I don't like to alarm you too much, but I want you to be on guard every minute."

Driving a car was not what Sen. North did best. But with care and caution he hoped to get Winnie and Miss Warburton home safely from Gerrit Jennesma's funeral.

"Yes," he, repeated, "there's no doubt that Gerrit was murdered."

"Is that official?" Miss Warburton asked.

Sybrand had been so prostrated by his brother's death that the car business had almost come to a standstill. He had let Lt. French question him for hours. Nothing of value resulted. Nobody had seen Gerrit leave the big house the night of the fire. Nobody knew how it started, or when. French was working on a list of Gerrit's former employes.

The arson experts of the state police and the insurance companies had gone over the ruins.

Correspondence and vital questions accumulated. Mrs. Jennesma signed what checks were necessary. Miss Warburton and Kim did what they could, but there were always points beyond which they could not go. Sybrand no longer cared about anything.

North came out on a straight stretch of open country. He relaxed.

"Yes. It's official. The medico-legal expert of the state police says the man was dead before the fire touched him. Terrific concussion and skull fracture. Bad enough to split open his facial wound a half inch more. That I saw myself and pointed out to the police."

"But couldn't it have been an accident?" Winnie asked.

"No. Nothing anywhere near the body that could have caused it, accidentally. Rather stupid of his murderer to stick the body in that steel cabinet where it would be preserved. I tried to discuss that point with Lt. French, but he's so secretive."

"But how did he get out there without any one hearing him leave the house?"

"That wouldn't be hard. The place is carpeted. He could easily sneak out. What I can't see is why he should want to. If he saw the fire, as I said before, why wouldn't he rouse the house?"

North concentrated on passing a huge orange van.

"Another thing," North resumed, "it's hard to think of his being lured out there by a note or phone call, or suggested meeting on any grounds after his being attacked the week before. I know Gerrit was in bed at 10:30 when we all went to our rooms. I saw him myself. Sybrand was standing in the doorway of his bedroom talking to Gerrit when I went by. So he did not leave the house till later than that."

"And do they think that anonymous note writer had anything to do with his death?" Winnie asked.

"Haven't you heard? A note came yesterday. Said: 'Maybe you'll believe now I wasn't fooling.'"

Miss Warburton's hand slid up to her throat unconsciously. Another note! And she had had one days ago and hadn't obeyed. "O, watch out," she cried.

The senator, who had turned to look at her, hastened to swing the car onto the road just in time to avoid a tree.

Winnie whispered, "Are you blaming this on Dirk, too?"

"Who knows?" the senator was curt. "The lieutenant says nothing in that infernal polite way he has."

"I don't see how they could this time. Blame Dirk. He's been watched day and night."

"Did you ever hear of accomplices? Maybe Tillie isn't . . . wasn't . . . the only servant on the place vulnerable to a bribe."

Miss Warburton said hastily:

"Don't take that seriously Winnie. He doesn't mean it. Dirk couldn't be accused of this."

Winnie sighed. "If only he could get out of it—for good!"

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	2 diamonds	Pass	Pass
3 spades	4 diamonds	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead, king of diamonds.

Today we are asked to settle a dispute.

The bidding is given as it actually occurred. Against the final contract West led the king of diamonds and followed with the ace, East discarding the two of clubs. With intent to force the declarer West continued with the high diamond. Declarer ruffed, drew the trumps and discarded two hearts on dummy's good clubs, thus fulfilling an impossible contract.

West contended that East should have signaled with the nine of hearts instead of discarding the two of clubs, in which event he would have laid down the ace of hearts and followed thru. East maintained that he had no means of knowing that his partner held the ace of hearts since he had not doubled the opening bid, and had already shown up with the ace and king of diamonds; that the discard of the deuce of clubs was a warning to partner that he held nothing in that suit and that therefore the only tricks available to the defense were in hearts. There should be a finding of contributory negligence. West had the last clear chance altho East had an opportunity to distinguish himself by defeating the contract two tricks.

There was no fault to be found with West's overcall of two diamonds. The fact that he is vulnerable in itself suggests that he has a sound hand and unless partner can take some voluntary action it is doubtful that a game will be missed. When the jack of diamonds fell on the first trick and West continued with the ace, East knew to a certainty that South held the queen and that it would, no doubt, drop on the current trick. Since the defense was limited to two diamond tricks, the setting tricks would have to be sought in the heart suit. Unless partner has the ace, school is out. East should therefore trump his partner's ace and lead the jack of hearts [not the four]. This line of play permits dummy's 10 to be encircled and three heart tricks are taken.

Altho East failed to rise to the occasion West should still have defeated the contract by "cashing" in a hurry. The discard of the deuce of clubs should make it clear that partner lacks the king and unless he holds the king of hearts the cause is lost.

Woman's Aid Entertains for 300 Sightless Persons

The Chicago Woman's Aid Sunday entertained more than 300 blind persons at the 22d annual party in its clubrooms at 185 N. Wabash av. Special guests were four veterans who were blinded in battle action. Entertainment ranged from a quiz contest to jitterbug and ballroom dancing. Dave Apollon and his musical entertainers, appearing at a loop theater, made a guest appearance, and a buffet supper was served during the evening. Mrs. Laurence C. Pfaelder, president of the Aid, said the party has become an annual reunion for many of the guests.

College Student Group Opens Parley Tomorrow

The Geneva conference, a student workshop for potential leaders of the next generation, will open tomorrow at Lake Forest college. The conference, composed of members in the student departments of the Student Christian association, the Y. W. C. A., and the Y. M. C. A., will continue thru June 13. Delegates from colleges in Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, southern Wisconsin, and eastern Iowa will attend. Co-chairmen of the planning committee are Patricia Stever and Robert Keeler, both of Albion [Mich.] college.

When bananas were impossible to obtain, we all discovered that this taken-for-granted fruit really played an important part in our dietary pattern. There are more bananas now, because there are more ships available for food cargoes, and it looks as tho quantities will continue to increase.

Bananas once were considered indigestible, but science found them to be rich in minerals and vitamins, and easily digestible, even for babies. Usually mashed ripe banana is one of a baby's earliest solid foods.

Bananas shouldn't be refrigerated unless they're fully ripe, for a cold temperature retards the natural ripening process. A fully ripe banana is yellow flecked with brown. If there is a green tinge to the fruit you buy, let it stand at room temperature until the skin is all yellow and brown flecks appear.

If accidentally you leave bananas on a fruit plate until the skins are more brown than yellow and the bananas are too soft to eat out of hand, they may, provided they aren't actually spoiled, be mashed for banana bread or cake. Banana nut cake uses honey to stretch sugar, and needs no frosting at all.

Banana Nut Cake
[8 inch loaf]

2¼ cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup honey
2 eggs
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup mashed ripe bananas [2 or 3]

Sift flour, baking powder, soda, and salt. Cream shortening thoroly, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Add honey gradually and beat hard. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition until fluffy. Add nuts and vanilla. Alternately add flour mixture and bananas, beating after each addition. Turn batter into greased loaf pan and bake at 350 degrees about 55 minutes, or until cake is done.

If you have any meat such as a slice of ham [lucky you!] and want to serve bananas with it, try them this way: Peel the bananas, cut in halves crosswise, and roll in crushed corn flakes. Saute all around in a little margarine, or, if you have fat for deep frying, cook them until golden in hot fat. They're delicious!

Levels of Community Reflected in Children, Cromwell Tells Club

The increasingly powerful effects of the community upon the child must be considered in dealing with social welfare problems, Walter O. Cromwell, director of the community conditions department, Juvenile Protective association, said yesterday in an address before the City club.

"Speaking on the subject, "The Protection of Children and Youth in Chicago," he declared that basic dangers are "in the attitude and conduct of citizenry which permits public officals to traffic in . . . illegal and destructive activities." As such activities the named child labor, illegal sale and use of liquor, gambling, and demoralizing conditions in school stores and other business places frequented by children.

Basic needs in every neighborhood, Mr. Cromwell said, are better law enforcement, education—not formal, but civic—and a continuing interest in what happens to children and young people who become victims of illegal conditions thru the absence of civic interest. Communities get the government they demand, he said. He counseled groups attempting to help to avoid undertaking larger programs than they could handle; not to expect good results too quickly; to prepare group members to approach problems properly; and to make independent plans to conform with the requirements of the job to be done.

White Costume Bangles Pep Up Summer Garb

BY REA SEEGER

Chalk white costume accessories with which to point up your summer cottons and dark town sheers are ready. Such important trifles make the telling accents that redeem a dull, otherwise ordinary, dress or suit and make it individually your own. For the first time in a couple of summers the dull, white, carved Chinese ball necklaces have appeared, and while the pieces are few, they're exquisitely effective with street or town dresses of dark brown, copper, summer-navy, and black, as well as the dark shades of gray.

The click of a half dozen or more white plastic bracelets will again assail the ears of the sensitive. In or out of the dark cool interiors of a theater, but the effect in both noise and crisp contrast is worth the money asked for them. Huge blobs of white plastic pose serenely in pink or sun-tanned ear lobes to accent a dark hair or the prized bronzed sun-tan. These earrings, large enough to be seen for a city block, are especially swank if all other jewelry except the bracelets is banished. A simple sheath dress of dark cotton or cool linen goes flat without such garnishing of strong contrast.

Effective link bracelets of white, either dull or shiny, vie with barbaric bands of white in rigid outline, while multistrand stuff of tiny white beads makes thick ropelike bracelets, worn twisted to the best advantage. This stuff is as good looking for necklaces, but with the necklaces worn considerably shorter this summer, if you please! If all white doesn't click, try the fascinating mint julep jewelry made, of course, of a combination of tiny mint green leaves and the translucent ice white beads that form tiny flowers and buds. Clips, lapel or chest pins, satisfyingly dramatic in size and design, are attractive pieces in these newly arrayed important white summer jewelry collections.

Smiles Banish 'He Loves Me Not' Complex

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

It's a rare high school fellow or girl who gets by four years of high school, from that first study hall of the freshman year to the last night of graduation, without going thru the daisy routine with a "he loves me not" complex. Eventually, as it must to all teen-aged characters, comes that all-alone-and-lonely feeling, that blue period when he feels that high school is nothing more than a four year campaign to hurt his feelings and deflate his ego. A psychologist would call that feeling an "inferiority complex."

It might all begin with a simple little thing. . . . You aren't on the invitation list to a special party; some one crosses the street to speak to some one else just as you come along; a friend promises to call and then forgets. . . . Immediately you begin to foster that unwanted, left-out feeling. The hurt may be imagined, it may be the result of an oversight; it is hardly ever intentional, but you begin to brood and suddenly, before you could say, "Frank Sinatra," there you are—a little on the gloomy side.

An inferiority complex simply means that you seem to yourself to be inferior to others, while others, in actuality, probably don't think you are inferior at all. In fact, they may not even realize that you do feel inferior; they may think that your reserve is either snobbery or a lack of interest in them!

You don't want people to think you're one of the snob mob, strictly a high-brow character, do you? Give out with the smiles, join the conversation, try to make yourself a part of the group to let people know that you are interested in them. You'd be surprised how quickly that complex can disappear when you take your mind off yourself and try concentrating on other people. Next time you get that "he loves me not" feeling, just give the truth the once-over lightly and then pick yourself another daisy!

Thru the Looking Glass

A delightful perfume, one that has some of the sweetness but none of the cloying quality of cool white lilies, is the key item in a family of four bath trimmings that are beautiful as gifts and perhaps even more beautiful as possessions.

They're great summer charmers for the stay at home who must fight heat and humidity. They're also rather extraordinary bread and butter gifts for the hostess whose hospitality gave you pleasure for a restful week-end.

The perfume comes in two sizes, the matching cologne in one. Just try a rubdown on a hot day with this, pouring it first on an iced terry cloth! It's so refreshing you feel reborn. Then there is dusting powder in the same fresh fragrance. This is one of the most delightful of summer aids to freshness, not only because it scents your skin with a beguiling and delicate fragrance but because it is actually a cooling film.

Every one of these three items is delightful, but the fourth one is that and fun, too. It's little bath sponges, heavily scented, that become fluffy perfumed washcloths when dropped in the water. These are grand things for the traveler, who must choose between transporting soggy washcloths or doing without them. They're equally good for the hostess who likes guests but doesn't much like the laundry problem. They're nicely packaged, too, in a slim cylinder, and make eye catching and unusual shower gifts for the war bride.

Girls' Chorus Ably Directed and Sings Well

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

The once widely prevalent touring college chorus has become a decided rarity in war time, so that the spirit of plucky determination which brought the Northland college girls' chorus to Kimball hall for a concert last night is one to be admired. Rather than eliminate this phase of it musical activities when all the boys and the former director went to war, this little college transformed its one time mixed chorus into a girls' group, engaged a woman director, and carried on.

The results are worth while, even with the reservations and the limitations the restricted personnel imposes. In Kathryn Ragsdale Church the chorus has a director who is not only a pictorial personality, but obviously a capable musician. Her girls have been carefully trained. They sing with that feeling for teamwork which makes good ensemble, and altho they do not achieve a very great variety of tone color, there were some noteworthy moments of seraphic delicacy.

The opening group of devotional songs was rather heavy and spiritless, but once the girls and their director had discarded their maroon cassocks for individual party dresses, their spirits rose and the music took on an attractive brightness, especially in the madrigals by Morley, Gibbons, and Arne. It all would have left the critical listener happier, however, had these young ladies discovered a less fallible method of maintaining the pitch.

There were also solos of the student variety by Edith Schindler, June Emerson, and Corinne Fossum.

U. S. AIDS LIQUOR DEALERS' FIGHT ONWHOLESALERS

Joins Campaign to Stop Tie-In Racket

BY JAMES DOHERTY

Federal authorities took a hand yesterday in the fight begun by state officials and some liquor dealers to end a practice known as "tie-in," under which retailers who must get scotch and bourbon or go out of business are compelled to buy liquor no one wants to drink. A federal grand jury investigation of the liquor industry was in prospect and Chairman Charles J. Fleck of the Illinois liquor control commission announced his intention of helping.

Meanwhile a number of retailers announced their rebellion against the wholesalers who have been unloading unwanted merchandise on them. Their program was announced by Atty. Milton T. Raynor in behalf of the Cafe Owners' association, which has 60 members.

"We are sending out letters today to all dealers announcing the adoption of a resolution by the association to refuse to tolerate any longer the vicious tie-in system," said Atty. Raynor.

Woll Gets Testimony.

The government's attack on the tie-in dealers was launched after a conference between United States Atty. J. Albert Woll and Attorneys Homer Clay and Francis Zimmerman, representing the office of price administration, which condemned the combination sale practice.

Clay and Zimmerman supplied Woll with a transcript of the hearing last week that resulted in an order by Federal Judge John P. Barnes for a grand jury investigation. Judge Barnes branded as "mass perjury" the denials by salesmen for Royal Wines and Liquors, Inc., 544 S. Wells st., that they attempted to force side purchases of cheap concoctions on their whisky customers.

Woll assigned Atty. Francis J. McGreal to the investigation, which may include black market practices and violations of federal injunctions against price cheating by some liquor houses. McGreal will decide, what, if any, evidence is to be presented to the grand jury.

Racketeering Evidence Sought

Chairman Fleck and Secretary William J. Devine of the state body declared they would forward to McGreal all evidence they have. Fleck invited all tavern owners to report to his office any grievance, any attempts to levy tribute from them, tie-ins, and whatever racketeering they have encountered.

Fleck said such complaints would be held confidential and the identity of the retailer would be kept secret. If punitive action can be taken by the commission it will be done, Fleck promised, and if OPA violations are involved McGreal will be notified.

"Our legal adviser, Atty. Edward B. Casey of the law firm of Dempsey & Casey, has ruled that we are in duty bound to cancel the license of any dealer found guilty of violating OPA rules," Fleck stated. "In consequence of his opinion we are today notifying Pines Brothers, distributors at 1328 Madison st., to show cause, if any, why they should not lose their license.

Two Distributors Found Guilty

"Albert Pines and Samuel Pines, brothers, were each sentenced to six months in jail and the firm was fined $10,000 last week by Judge Barnes, who found them guilty of OPA violations. It was established that they sold 200 cases of whisky at $14.50 per case higher than the ceiling price. That is enough for us to put them out of business—and that is to be our policy in the future."

One of the latest complaints to Fleck and Secretary Devine, they said, was by tavernkeepers who report that many package stores have put in small bars and are selling liquor by the drink and underselling the neighborhood tavern. Fleck said he had referred to President Bundesen of the Chicago board of health many such complaints after investigation showed the stores did not meet sanitary requirements.

ACT TO SUPPLY HOUSEWIVES A BIT MORE MEAT

The new office of price administration regulations designed to channel more of the available supply of meat to housewives were announced last night by T. R. Bradley, head of the OPA beef and small stocks section, at a meeting of meat packers, peddlers, and slaughterers in the Morrison hotel.

Beginning today the peddlers who distribute meat from wholesalers to butchers, hotels, and restaurants may sell up to 250 pounds of beef a day, instead of 150 pounds, at a price markup of $1.25 a hundred pounds; and with a markup of $1 a hundred pounds, instead of the former 75 cents, for amounts over 250 pounds. Previously, the reduced markup began at 150 pounds.

They also may sell only 80 per cent of their total supply instead of 90 per cent, as heretofore, to hotels and restaurants.

G. E. Cronin, president of the United Wholesale Meat Dealers Association of Chicago, said the new regulations would help to curtail black market operations.

June 4, 1945.

THE rain which has disrupted this year's spring planting season has been the main weather topic among middle western farmers for the last few weeks. Last week, however, the men on the Wheaton farm switched to lightning and its peculiarities after the chimney of a farm home was struck by lightning in a thunderstorm.

The conclusion of the rural discussions was that there's no solution to the mystery of lightning. Lightning is an ever present threat to farmers, especially when sudden storms find men in open fields far from any protection.

Theory Breaks Down

The recent lightning strike on the farm home adds to the mystery on the subject. The house is surrounded by many large trees, including stately oaks, elms, sycamores, and horse chestnuts. Many of these trees are taller than the house, so the farm residents believed the house to be fairly immune from lightning striking it. This belief was based on the theory that if a bolt did strike it would affect the trees rather than the house. This did not prove true, however, because none of the trees was damaged whereas a number of bricks were torn from the top of the chimney.

A second unusual feature of the recent thunderstorm was that residents of the house didn't know of the lightning damage until the next morning. They saw the flash and heard the clap of thunder, but felt nothing inside the house to indicate it had been struck.

Rain Harms Even Fish

One might think that the heavy rains would be welcomed by the bass and bluegills which recently were placed in the farm ponds, but the farm anglers prefer more normal weather. It would benefit the fish more. The men recently placed eight spawning beds in the shallow water of the large pond for the use of the breeder bass. The wooden frames were filled with fine gravel for the fish nests. The bass are certain to use these spawning beds, but successful hatching requires a fairly stable water level over the spawn.

The ponds were at a high level when the beds were put in place. The men hoped that high level could be maintained during the spawning season. Friday's flash storm brought the ponds up to still higher levels, giving the experiment with spawning beds a poor seasonal start.

★ The GARDEN ★

THE cool, rainy weather this spring has been conducive to the development of cabbage maggots. These tiny, white insects are especially troublesome on radishes. They also are damaging cabbage, broccoli, and cauliflower transplants. Gardeners noticing an unhealthy, wilted appearance in these vegetables should uproot a few plants for signs of the maggots on the roots.

The maggots' method of burrowing into the outer layers of plant roots makes treatment difficult. Corrosive sublimate, a poisonous liquid available from druggists, kills these insects. The chemical is mixed at the ratio of one-half ounce to five gallons of warm water. It should be mixed in a wooden or earthenware container. The liquid should be thorely sprayed around the base of the cabbage, broccoli, and cauliflower plants. Do not get the liquid on any part of the plants which is to be eaten.

Radish plantings infested with cabbage maggots should be uprooted and destroyed. Use of corrosive sublimate on these edible roots would result in illness to any one eating them.

MEALS AT HOME HIGHER DESPITE PRICE CONTROLS

One day's food for a family of five that could have been purchased for $4.10 in 1940 would cost $7.65 today, despite the administration's efforts to control prices, an analysis of current costs showed yesterday.

The analysis was made in an endeavor to determine the over-all effect of varying changes in prices during the last five years. The study showed that prices of a few items have not risen, that prices of staples such as bread, flour, and sugar are virtually unchanged, and that prices of other ingredients have soared. Nutmeats, for example, have risen nearly 400 per cent.

The menu chosen for the comparison required small amounts of flour, mayonnaise, and other items usually purchased in quantities and kept on hand, so the cost was computed according to the amount used. The average or prevailing prices of foods were employed. Use was made of Chicago figures compiled by the department of labor's bureau of statistics.

Here's Menu for Day's Meals

The menu was:

BREAKFAST
Oranges
Shirred Eggs
Coffee Cake
Coffee Milk

DINNER
Pork Chops
Boiled Potatoes New Peas
Peach Salad
Bread Butter
Strawberries and Cream
Milk Coffee

SUPPER
Salmon Salad
Carrot Strips and Radishes
Hard Rolls Butter
Sponge Cake with Butterscotch Sauce
Coffee Milk

The coffee cake was considered bought ready made. The sponge cake, hard rolls, and butterscotch sauce were considered made at home, and the costs of ingredients totaled. Two small pork chops were allowed for each person on the dinner. The peach salad recipe used called for nuts, olives, and celery in addition to peaches and lettuce. All recipes used come from a recognized cook book.

Costs of 23 Items Listed

Costs in 1940 and in 1945 of each of the 23 items necessary for the menu with the 1940 figure given first, were:

Oranges, 25 and 40 cents; coffee cake, 15 and 35 cents; pork chops, 60 and 90 cents; potatoes, 10 and 20 cents; peas, 25 and 73 cents; peaches, 10 and 15 cents; nuts, 15 and 40 cents; olives, 7 and 27 cents; celery, 7 and 19 cents; mayonnaise, 10 and 13 cents; bread, 6 and 7 cents; strawberries, 50 cents and $1.

Salmon, 64 and 94 cents; pickles, 10 and 15 cents; carrots, 9 and 15 cents; radishes, 5 and 10 cents; lettuce, 5 and 10 cents; eggs, 19 and 45 cents; sugar, 7 and 10 cents; flour, 9 and 12 cents; milk, 17 and 30 cents; butter, 14 and 25 cents, and coffee, 11 and 15 cents.

DETAILS PLANS FOR OVERSEAS PACKAGE RUSH

Preparations to handle 38,500,000 Christmas parcels for veterans in the Pacific were outlined last night by Col. I. Sewell Morris, chairman of the railroad urgency committee, who estimated 4,000 box cars would be needed in Chicago alone to handle the shipment, which is expected to be twice as large as last year.

The mail rush will begin Sept. 1, when Christmas packages will be accepted by the postoffice department without a request from the veteran. All mail destined for the San Francisco POE emanating from east of Chicago and north of the Ohio river will be sorted here into six different overseas address categories.

O. H. Frick, general manager of the Chicago Union station, said yesterday that 125 additional full time employes, as well as several part time employes are needed now to prepare for the peak Christmas load. Applications are being accepted at 516 W. Jackson blvd.

WILSON SALE OF SHORTHORNS SETS A RECORD

The 20th annual sale of Shorthorn cattle at the Edellyn farm of Thomas E. Wilson set a new record yesterday when 43 animals brought a total of $78,575. More than 800 persons attended the sale.

Fifteen bulls sold for an average of $2,510 and 28 females brought an average of $1,461. The sales average for all animals was the record for a private sale.

The top price of the sale was paid for Edellyn Royal Leader 22d, a bull, which went to Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sims, Elkhart, Ind., for $6,500. The next high price for a bull was $6,000.

Highest priced female was Edellyn Golden Drop 40th, which was purchased for $5,000 by William Bartholomay of Libertyville.

U. S. May Reduce Pay Roll 20,000 Workers a Month

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP)—The government expects to drop 20,000 employes a month in the next year. Plans for the reduction were disclosed today by the budget bureau in a letter to the house civil service committee.

NEGRO PROTESTS WHITE JURY; NEW TRIAL IS DENIED

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP)—The Supreme court today rejected a Negro's contention that he was discriminated against because only one Negro served on the grand jury which indicted him on a murder charge.

The decision was in the case of L. C. Akins, sentenced in Dallas county, Texas, to die for the slaying of V. L. Morris.

Justice Reed delivered the high tribunal's majority decision, in which Justices Roberts, Frankfurter, Douglas, Jackson, and Rutledge concurred. Chief Justice Stone and Justices Black and Murphy dissented. Akins said the trial judge, A. R. Stout of Ellis county, Texas, was not properly assigned to the Dallas county court.

The court today refused to rule on the labor union status of war plant guards who are members of the auxiliary military police of the United States army.

The justice department had asked review of federal Circuit court decisions against orders of the national labor relations board, which held the guards were employes within the meaning of the national labor relations act. The board contended that as such they were entitled to collective bargaining rights.

Buy more War Bonds now...

The Seventh War Loan Drive is on, presenting every American with a duty that must be discharged.

To finance the struggle which still lies ahead, it is necessary for each of us to buy bigger bonds and more of them this year. For in 1945 there will be only two war loan drives instead of the usual three.

No forward-looking person can pass up the investment opportunity presented by War Loan Securities. Series E Bonds, for instance, return $4.00 at maturity for every $3.00 invested now . . . and this from the safest investment in all the world.

So, buy War Bonds now, to help our fighting men and to promote your own financial security.

How to select the War Bonds that best suit your needs—

Series E: Issued in denominations of $25 to $1,000, Series E Bonds are far and away the best investment for the most people. Held until maturity, each Series E Bond pays an average annual yield of 2.90%, the greatest return on any of the war loan securities. Purchase price is 75% of maturity value. Due 10 years from issue date.

Series F: Issued in denominations of $25 to $10,000, Series F Bonds yield 2.53% if held to maturity, which is 12 years from issue date. Price: 74% of maturity value.

Series G: Issued in denominations of $100 to $10,000, Series G Bonds are ideally suited for those interested in current income. Maturing 12 years from issue date, these bonds yield 2.50% every year.

Series C Treasury Savings Notes: Issued in registered form only, in denominations of $100 to $1,000,000. Yield, 1.07% if held to maturity which is 3 years from issue date. Acceptable at par and accrued interest in payment of Federal income, estate, and gift taxes. Price: 100.

⅞% Treasury Certificates of Indebtedness: Dated June 1, 1945, due June 1, 1946. Issued in coupon form only in denominations of $1,000 to $1,000,000. Price: 100 and accrued interest.

1½% Treasury Bonds of 1950: Dated June 1, 1945, due December 15, 1950. Issued in coupon or registered form in denominations of $500 to $1,000,000. Not offered to corporations during this drive. Price: 100 and accrued interest.

2½% Treasury Bonds of 1972/67: Dated June 1, 1945, due June 15, 1972 and callable June 15, 1967. Issued in coupon or registered form in denominations of $500 to $1,000,000. Price: 100 and accrued interest.

Investors are invited to consult with the officers of this bank's Bond Department. They will gladly assist you in selecting the right issues for your Government portfolio.

DARBY DIEPPE ADDS COLOR TO FIELD IN DERBY

Seeks First Victory by Gray Colt

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Louisville, Ky., June 4—They say there's a first time for everything and the 80,000 visitors expected for the 71st running of the historic and always colorful Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs Saturday may be the first ones ever to see a gray horse flash under the wire in front.

Mrs. G. W. Lewis' Darby Dieppe, winner of the Blue Grass stakes last Saturday, the final test for Derby candidates which left so many conflicting opinions in the minds of those who saw the race, is the only gray thorobred which will go to the post. In fact, the courageous son of Foray II.-Lacroma will be one of a select few grays ever to accept the issue in this event.

Tradition Against Him

Kiev tried it under the colors of J. E. Widener in 1927, the year that H. P. Whitney's Whiskery won as Jockey Pony McAtee got him up in the last few strides to beat J. E. Widener's Osmand with Earl Sande aboard. Kiev was 11th in a field of 15. Then, in 1931, Twenty Grand's year, Prince D'Amour, owned by J. Leiter, tried it and finished last in a field of 12.

Three years ago First Fiddle did a bit better under a good ride by Conn McCreary but still had to be content with fifth behind Shutout, Alsab, Valdina Orphan, and With Regards, one of the finest fields ever assembled for the Derby. There may have been other gray contestants in the long history of the event, but there were none of any great note. Bay thorobreds have shown the way with 31 victories, while chestnuts have been second with 24, browns third with 11, and blacks next with four.

Easterners Have Backing

There is no doubt, of course, that Darby Dieppe must be given a lot of consideration on his Blue Grass triumph and two previous victories at the Downs this spring, but owners of beaten entrants in last Saturday's mile and one-eighth trial are certain he can't repeat; so certain that only the owner of the 10th and last place Darien decided he had enough and withdrew his entry.

The race also convinced a lot of the local turfmen that the eastern trio, Hoop Jr., Alexis, and Jeep, stands an excellent chance of stealing the show on the basis of Darby Dieppe's ordinary time of 1:53 2-5 and the easterners' brilliant races this spring. Hoop Jr., owned by F. W. Hooper, beat the Christiana stable's Alexis out of one division of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica and Col. C. V. Whitney's Jeep took the other section.

However, Jockey Buddy Haas, who will ride Lt. Comdr. T. D. Buhl's Air Sailor, which lost second place in the Blue Grass by a nose to Murlogg farm's Fighting Step, and who will hang up his tack after the Derby, admits his mount hung slightly at the end but declares that the horse that beats the son of Fighting Fox will take down the winner's share.

Field May Reach 17

The Derby field is expected to number 12 or 13, tho horsemen admit it may go as high as 17 in view of the addition of two surprise names, Bert G. and Kenilworth Lad. This pair, owned by the Kenilworth farm, will be sent from Canada along with H. C. Hatch's Fair Jester.

Jay Paley, radio executive and owner of Best Effort, said in Los Angeles tonight he had withdrawn the colt from the Derby. He gave no reason, but added the thorobred would be shipped west for the current Santa Anita meeting.

THEN—AND NOW—WITH ONE OF BOXING'S GREATS

31 TEAMS SEEK TITLE SATURDAY IN N. C. A. A. MEET

BY WILFRID SMITH

Thirty-one teams from 17 states, including the United States Naval academy, will compete in the 24th National Collegiate track meet Saturday afternoon and evening in the Marquette university stadium, Milwaukee. Championships in the javelin and discus throws will be decided in the afternoon and qualifying tests in eight other events also are scheduled. The first championship Saturday night, the mile run, will start at 8:15 o'clock.

Twenty athletes will represent the naval academy and while this is the fourth occasion navy men have participated, it is the first time a complete squad has been entered. Navy thus is favored to win the National Collegiate title and if successful, it will be the first time an eastern squad has taken the championship.

The list of midshipmen is headed by John Van Velzer, a graduate of Principia academy, St. Louis, who won the sprints in the recent I. C. 4-A meet, and Clyde Scott of Smackover, Ark., Navy's great full back last fall. Scott won the Eastern Intercollegiate high hurdles and was second in the low hurdle competition. Scott also has thrown the javelin nearly 200 feet.

Lowers Academy Record

Scott tied the academy high hurdle record with only three days' practice and later lowered the mark to :14.6. In the I. C. 4-A meet, despite handicap of rain and slow track, his winning time for the 120 yard high hurdles was :14.8. Dick Johnson, a teammate, trailed him by two yards in this event.

Fred Bouman, former Western Michigan track star, now represents Navy and he has a mark of 23 feet 11½ inches in the broad jump. He was second in the National A. A. U. indoor games last winter. V. Walter Barry, who ran a 4:17 mile last year; Newbold Smith, weight man, and William Patton, I. C. 4-A javelin winner in 1943, are other outstanding athletes from Annapolis.

The schools entered in the National Collegiate meet are Ashland, O., Cornell university, DePauw, Drake, Fresno State, Georgia Tech, Idaho, Illinois, Illinois Tech, Indiana, Iowa, Iowa State, Louisiana State, Marquette, Miami university, Oxford, O.; Michigan, Michigan State, Minnesota, Missouri, United States Naval academy, Nebraska, New York university, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Oberlin, Ohio State,

63d Round Today in Life of Bat Nelson

BY FRANK MASTRO

"Sixty-three years old? Sixty-three years young!" Nelson insisted as he recalled his glorious ring career while being interviewed last night in an arm chair restaurant on Van Buren st. near Clark, around the corner from the small hotel in which he lives.

"Yes, and Hotton [James Hotton, superintendent of the mailing division in the old Chicago postoffice where Bat is employed as a clerk at 75 cents per hour] has given me the day off," he smiled. "It's payday, too. Isn't that fine?"

Battler's Present Boss Fought on Same Card Back in 1902

"Hotton boxed in a preliminary bout on a program in which I appeared in the windup. I think it was in Logan square in 1902. Now he's in the windup and I'm in the preliminary."

But Nelson said it without any regrets. He's glad to be able to work regularly and proud of his vitality and strength.

His weight, 133, hasn't varied more than four or five pounds since he engaged in his last important contest in St. Louis in 1917—a 10 round no decision affair with Freddy Welsh shortly before the Englishman was relieved of the lightweight title by Benny Leonard.

Collects $53,650 for Three Big Contests 40 Years Ago

The bespectacled Nelson [he's been wearing glasses the last nine years for reading only] recalled his peak period from September, 1905, to September, 1906. In those 12 months he knocked out Jimmy Britt in Colma, Cal.; fought six rounds to a no decision with Terrible Terry McGovern in Philadelphia, and lost on a foul in 42 rounds to Joe Gans in Goldfield, Nev. Thus, Gans successfully retained his championship, but he wasn't as fortunate in a rematch when Nelson stripped the great Negro boxer of his title on a 17 round knockout in 1908.

Nelson collected a total of $53,650 for the first mentioned three battles—$18,875 against Britt, $11,775 against McGovern, and $23,000 against Gans.

The Battler invested the bulk of his ring earnings in real estate in suburban Hegewisch—spending more than $50,000 for 20 stores and residences in the town. He eventually lost or sold the property until today he owns only a vacant store.

$866,249 Bet by Hawthorne 13,875 Crowd

Believe, C. F. Martin's 5 year old son of Apprehension, scored a decisive victory in yesterday's $2,500 featured handicap in Lincoln Fields' race meeting at Hawthorne. The largest week-day crowd of the season, 13,875, was out for Ladies day and sent a total of $866,249 thru the pari-mutuels.

Hyman Friedberg's Harriet Sue, favorite at 6 to 5 in the wagering, set the early pace in the six furlong sprint. Under hustling tactics by Jockey Steve Brooks, the 4 year old Bull Lea filly broke well from her No. 1 post position, but had no speed to match the burst which Believe turned on shortly after they reached the stretch turn.

Tawny Lady Is Second

As Harriet Sue's bid faded, Tawny Lady, an outsider racing for Mrs. A. M. Creech, challenged thru the stretch, but Joe Cavens, astride the winner, had a length and a quarter margin at the finish. Leon Tikulski's Bolus finished third. In the mutuels the winner paid $17.

The race had been expected to provide something of a line on Saturday's $5,000 Steger handicap, a six and one-half furlong affair for which Harriet Sue and Mrs. Edward McCuan's Wise Moss, fourth yesterday, are conspicuous entrants. Believe is not eligible for the Steger.

Mild surprises prevailed in most of yesterday's early races. Victory Feet, a 4 year old colt owned by Mrs. McCuan, accounted for the first race, paying $10 to win, after having been an absentee from racing since last August.

Double Pays Off at $81

St. Jock, a 5 year old gelding owned by S. D. Sidell, had not been out since shortly after Christmas but romped home in the fourth by six lengths under Bobby Campbell.

BROOKLYN PRO ELEVEN IN DARK ON N. L. ACTION

No Official Word on Stadium Bid

BY EDWARD PRELL

The Brooklyn Tigers have received no official notification from the National Football league that they will be permitted to move into Yankee stadium permanently beginning with the 1946 season, it was reported yesterday in New York.

Tom Gallery, general manager of the Brooklyn eleven, has made no public comment since the National league's brief announcement Saturday night that Tim Mara, owner of the New York football Giants who play in the Polo Grounds, had waived his territorial rights and agreed to the Tigers' demands to move into near-by Yankee stadium. Gallery, after declaring he had not been apprised of the National league's action, is said to have added, "as far as I am concerned the situation has not changed one bit despite last week's meeting."

Hold Emergency Meeting

Gallery, with the backing of the Brooklyn owner, Marine Capt. Dan Topping, has steadfastly said that the Tigers will use Yankee stadium as their base in 1946. It was this stand which caused the National league, fearing that the Tigers would join the All-America conference, to hold its emergency meeting in New York.

The Brooklyn football executive is reported to have said that he would have to study the details of the arrangement offered by Mara for use of the stadium before making a decision—when he was advised of the action reported to have been taken.

The National league's announcement was not especially revealing as to details of the plan which would bring the Tigers into Yankee stadium. This is the announcement which Elmer Layden, the league's president, gave to George Strickler, publicity director, for distribution.

"The New York football Giants, acting for what they believe to be the best interests of the National Football league and the fans of New York City, have granted the Brooklyn Tigers the privilege of playing their home games in the Yankee stadium."

Everybody Happy—It Says Here

There was no amplification of what concessions had been made for playing dates in the American league park by Mara, who has vehemently argued that there are not enough Sundays when good weather obtains for two teams to operate in New York. The division of dates between the Polo Grounds and Yankee stadium therefore would be an important point.

Yesterday, Strickler said that he was unable to amplify on the announcement of Mara's surrender.

"As far as I know it's all set and everybody is happy," said Strickler.

The status of Layden as head of the National league also remained in the mystery class. It had been reported that club owners would vote on renewing Layden's contract for five years. His present five year contract will expire in the spring of 1946. It was reported unofficially that last week in New York the club owners voted to delay action on Layden's future until a later meeting.

Trans-America League Fades

Meanwhile, the proposed Trans-America league faded from the post-war picture with announcement by Chick Meehan in New York that the project has been abandoned. He said this decision resulted from the National league's announcement that the Brooklyn club would come into Yankee stadium in 1946. Meehan had hoped to put a team in the gigantic plant. Before the recent sale of the Yankees to Larry MacPhail, Del Webb, and Capt. Topping, Meehan had been given verbal assurance that his league could lease Yankee stadium.

Meehan thus followed Harold [Red] Grange's action of last week when the one time Illini and Bear star announced he had relinquished the presidency of the proposed United States Football league. The inference was that the league will abandon its plans to operate.

DYKES SELECTS JOE HAYNES TO GREET ST. LOUIS

Cardinals Hosts to Cubs Under Lights

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

James Dykes' White Sox, who were first placers when last seen in Comiskey Park, will be back at the same place tonight but looking slightly different in a percentage sense. Their early season glamor was knocked off painlessly and effectively while they were wandering around the eastern half of the American league. They hope that with home cooking and Comiskey Park scenery they will start to reestablish themselves tonight at the expense of the champion St. Louis Browns.

Altho their recent showings total only four victories in 15 games, a pace that made it easy for them to slide down the percentage ladder, the Sox aren't so far from first place that they couldn't get back there by employing nothing more than a limited winning streak. However, even a limited streak is too much to hope for unless they change their baseball manners.

The Sox will move out after the four game series with the Browns, but they'll not be gone long. They'll return after a series at Detroit Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. The games with the champions, aside from tonight's meeting, include a single tomorrow afternoon and a double header Thursday. Joe Haynes, who won his first three games and sithce has met four successive reverses, will try his luck on the Browns tonight.

CUBS PLAY CARDS

BY EDWARD BURNS
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

St. Louis, Mo., June 4—The Cubs, who arrive here this morning for lamp games with the world champion Cardinals tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday nights, spent the day at a barbecue on the farm of their manager, Charley John Grimm. The skipper threw the party perhaps on the grounds his boys have been punchless on numerous occasions due to undernourishment.

Since today was a day of rest, the Cubs will be as well fixed for pitching as Grimm could hope to be with his staff, adequate numerically. The Cubs have whipped the Cards two out of five this year, and both of the victories were pitched by Paul Derringer, who will have had ample rest inasmuch as he went only three innings in Saturday's game with the Braves in Chicago.

Chipman Certain Starter

Bob Chipman, who pitched a three hitter on Memorial day for the only Chicago victory over the Giants this year, is a certain starter. And by Friday Hank Wyse, who held the Braves to five singles in the first game Sunday, and Claude Passeau, who pitched a two hitter in the Sabbath second game, will be available. Paul Erickson may get a shot, too.

The Cubs will have achieved their first night victory of the year if and when they win one of the engagements here. They will have played two games under the lights, losing to the Giants, 8 to 0, for their only shutout and two nights later losing to the Dodgers in a 15 to 12 rough and tumble.

The Chicagoans will be back home next Friday to fill in a scheduled open date with the Cincinnati Reds, with whom they have played only one game this year, a game which Passeau won, 3 to 0. The Reds also will be in Wrigley field next Saturday for a single game and a double header next Sunday. Then the Cubs will make their second 1945 visit to Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

CATCHER LOPEZ FINED $50 FOR ROW WITH BARR

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 4 (AP)—Catcher Al Lopez of the Pittsburgh Pirates was fined $50 by National League President Ford Frick today for his run-in with Umpire George Barr during a Philadelphia-Pittsburgh game yesterday, the Pirates' office announced.

The argument occurred after Lopez was called out at home plate, Pirates' Manager Frankie Frisch claimed Barr didn't see Catcher Gus Mancuso drop the ball when Mancuso and Lopez collided.

Roosevelt High school's baseball team yesterday spoiled what had been a triumphal return home by Lane Tech's baseball team, which Saturday night won the state championship in Peoria.

The Roosevelt nine shut out Lane, 9 to 0, on Lane Tech field, as Don Rodd gave up but two hits. It was Lane's second loss in 13 City league north section games.

Taft Wins Two

The defeat, coupled with Taft's 5 to 0 and 3 to 1 victories over Lake View in Welles Park, dropped Lane to second place in the section, with Taft taking over first. Taft now has won 10 and lost one.

Austin won the west section championship by defeating Wells, 10 to 4, for its 11th victory in 14 starts.

Fenger Holds Lead

Fenger, altho losing to Parker by a 3 to 2 score in Hamilton Park, managed to hold on to its south section lead with a 10 won, two lost record.

Farragut was assured of at least a tie for first place in the central section by shutting out Kelly, 3 to 0, in McKinley Park. Line scores:

Resume Making of Tackle; Don't Discard Old Rod

BY BOB BECKER

Altho the War Production board has begun to allocate materials for the manufacture of fishing tackle for men in the service, it'll be quite a while before civilians will be able to buy fishing equipment. That's the report brought to Chicago yesterday by members of Associated Fishing Tackle Manufacturers who assembled here for their 12th annual meeting which continues thru today.

A. R. Benson, East Berlin, Conn., president of the association, said yesterday that up to two weeks ago the war production board would not allocate critical materials for the production of tackle for men in any of the branches of service. Recently, however, the WPB has given tackle men the materials needed so they can go ahead on such rated orders from government agencies as the manufacturers have had on hand for some time.

The civilian fisherman is due to wait for a long time before he can walk into a tackle shop and jauntily pick out a brand new steel or bamboo rod or a nifty American made casting reel. Benson made the prediction [after checking with members of the association] that fishermen need not expect to see rods and reels in sizeable quantities in the store until 1946.

The news about new tackle for fishermen is not quite as cheerful as the latest bulletin for hunters on the ammunition situation. According to the most recent report on the possibility of American ammunition companies producing shotgun shells, it looks now as tho 75 to 80 per cent of normal production of hunting ammunition will be available by fall.

SENIOR GOLF MEET STARTS IN WILMETTE

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The 22d annual spring tournament of the Illinois Seniors' Golf association will be held today at the Westmoreland Country club in Wilmette. Competition will be over 18 holes at full handicap allowance, with six prizes to be awarded in each of five classes—one for low gross, four for net, and one for least number of putts. In the event of a tie, the senior contestant in each case will be given the prize.

Championship Meet Sept. 12

Today's shooting will begin at 9 a. m., with players teeing off at six minute intervals. The five classes are: A—for members 70 and over; B—65 to 69, inclusive; C—60 to 64, inclusive; D—55 to 59, inclusive, and E—50 to 54, inclusive.

List Association Officers

Officers of the association this year are Ross H. Kidston, president; Albert M. Johnson, Rockford, first vice president; George W. Rossetter, Knollwood, second vice president; John M. Timmons, Flossmoor, third vice president; Fred A. Cuscaden, Exmoor, secretary-treasurer. The tournament committee consists of William B. Langford, Glen Oak, chairman; R. Donald Cameron, John Timmons, Albert G. Turnbull, and Thomas J. Walsh.

Eddie Bush of Oak Park, secretary treasurer of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, and Ralph Guldahl of Medinah, former National and Western Open champion, yesterday presented the patients at Vaughan General hospital with a large number of golf balls for use by veterans. The balls were another result of THE TRIBUNE'S 13th annual free golf school, another sizable batch previously having been given to the veterans at Great Lakes, with a third due to go to the men at Gardiner General hospital.

The North Shore league will resume play tomorrow at Westmoreland, while the West District will return to action on Thursday at Glen Oak. Thursday also will see the first golf meet of the Bakers' Club of Chicago at Medinah.

Dime a Round Sponsors See Larger Field

The Dime-A-Round campaign, designed in the spring of 1943 as local golf's contributing factor to the Chicago Service Men's centers, began as just another idea which might aid the war. Last night, at the third annual meeting of the organizations backing it, in the La Salle hotel, the drive assumed the most important proportions of its young career.

Highlights in the gathering of officials who pledged themselves to the most intensified action in the three year record of the plan, whereby every golfer in the district is asked to contribute a dime before each round he or she plays, follow:

1. The first two drives have produced a total of $26,167.27 for the Service Men's centers, $10,848.01 in 1943 and $15,319.26 last year. Last night the various cooperating associations set a goal of $50,000 for 1945.

Centers Will Need More

2. Main reason for stepping up the amount of the objective is the prospect of increased pressure on the centers because of the shifting of personnel to the Pacific war theaters, most of which is certain to pass thru Chicago. With a present weekly average of 100,000 service men and women taking advantage of the myriad free services offered by the centers, officials figure that the summer and fall may well see that figure trebled.

3. The Chicago Park district's four courses and such daily fee layouts as Westgate Valley have in the first two years outdistanced the private clubs in the Chicago area. Out of last year's total of $15,000 plus, the sum of $6,666.39 was collected at the four park district courses. It was assumed that the park and daily fee golfer usually has change on his person to drop into the milk bottles which were the original symbol of the campaign.

Continue Honor Rolls

4. The private clubs fell behind woefully in the first year, since many golfers at such usually tee off with no small change in their pockets. Last year many of these solved the problem by setting up an honor roll whereby members could make lump contributions, based on an estimated annual number of rounds played. Last night, suggestions were made to include such contributions via billing in regular house accounts.

5. Officials promised also to stimulate interest in the importance of the campaign, insofar as all of the money obtained is directed to dispensing free food, entertainment, and service to the thousands of veterans who are expected to pass thru here and take advantage of the Service Men's centers in the near future. Regular weekly standings of the leading clubs and courses will be published.

BELMONT FANS BET $2,324,900 OPENING DAY

New York, June 4 (AP)—After two years of trying, William Woodward's Apache turned the tables on the Greentree stable's Devil Diver today in winning the $15,000 added Toboggan handicap at Belmont Park. An opening day crowd of 24,489 wagered $2,324,900 on the eight race card.

Apache ran second to Devil Diver in the 1943 and 1944 Toboggan, but today finished two lengths in front, running the six furlongs down the Widener course in 1:11 over a sloppy track. Devil Diver, topweighted at 135 pounds, came from sixth place to finish five lengths ahead of Henry Lustig's Mrs. Ames.

Second choice in the betting, Apache paid $10.80 for $2 and collected $11,075 in purse money.

PARHAM STOPS ART BROWN IN 5TH AT MARIGOLD

Bill Petersen, Indiana Harbor heavyweight, survived a third round knockdown to hold John Hubbard of Milwauke to a draw in a five round semi- windup.

Two of the three preliminary fights ended in knockouts, Robert Ellis, Chicago welterweight, beating Caesar Douglas in the first and Bill Clark, featherweight, also of Chicago, winning over Nick Kachardus in the third. Charley Pope, Milwaukee 142 pounder, outpointed Eddie [Kid] Carson in four rounds.

CARDS REFUSE PHILS' $250,000 BID FOR 2 STARS

Philadelphia, Pa., June 4 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals definitely aren't interested in selling Marty Marion, their No. 1 shortstop, or George [Whitey] Kurowski, slugging third baseman, Herb Pennock, general manager of the Phils, said today.

Pennock said he offered Sam Breadon, owner of the Cards, $250,000 for the pair but his offer was refused.

31 Teams to Vie Saturday in N.C.A.A.

Faces Serious Competition

Scott will face serious competition in the high hurdles from midwestern stars, Harold [Whitey] Fisher of Miami university and George Walker of Illinois. The latter is champion of the Western conference in both hurdle events and the 100 yard dash.

The group of individual stars includes six Eastern Intercollegiate champions; athletes who won 11 Western conference titles; nine who won at the Drake relays, and eight winners from the Central Collegiate meet last Saturday.

Champions return in five events. They are Ross and Robert Hume, Michigan, one mile; Francis Martin of New York university, who competed last year for Notre Dame, two miles; Bill Bangert, Missouri, discus; John Schmidt, Ohio State, and Bob Phelps, Illinois, pole vault, and Ken Wiesner, Marquette, high jump.

Bob Kelley Ineligable

Wiesner, who won the National Collegiate high jump last June at 6 feet 7 3-16 inches, normally would be favored to retain this title except that he has seldom been in top condition during this campaign. While he won the high jump in the Purdue relays, where he defeated Dick Kilpatrick of Purdue, and Cpl. Dwight Eddleman of Wright field, he lost to Kilpatrick at the Drake relays and last Saturday only cleared 5 feet 10 inches in the Central Collegiate meet.

While Illinois is the defending National Collegiate team champion, the Illini will not enter a complete team. Bob Kelley, Big Ten 440 yard and half mile champion who won the latter race in the National Collegiate meets last year, is not eligible.

LANE TO MEET SENN IN PREP TENNIS FINALS

Tennis teams from Lane Tech and Senn High school yesterday advanced to the final round of the City league play-off and will meet for the title some time this week, altho the date and site has not been selected as yet.

Senn advanced to the final by defeating Kelly, central section champion, 4 to 1, at the Chicago Town and Tennis club, with Capt. Bob David, runner-up in the recent state high school meet, pacing his team. He won his match from Bernard Eggerman without the loss of a game.

BYRD CARDS 145 TO SHARE PGA QUALIFYING LEAD

Detroit, Mich., June 4 (AP)—Sam Byrd carded three under par today for a 69 to share medal honors with Claude Harmon in Michigan district qualifying play for the National P. G. A. golf tournament. Both had 145 for 36 holes.

Al Watrous, with a pair of 76s, shared third place with Chick Rutan, 74—78—152. Frank Walsh, Red Run, had 80—74—154 for fifth, and Tommy Shannon, Orchard Lake, was sixth with 77—78—155.

TRIBUNE FRIENDS SHARE $350,000 DEININGER WILL

Charity and Co-Workers Chief Beneficiaries

Business associates and charitable institutions will share the bulk of the estate of Daniel M. Deininger, former auditor of The Tribune, who died in Passavant hospital May 21. His will, disposing of an estimated $350,000, was filed yesterday by Atty. W. Ayers Keplinger with Allen J. Nelson, clerk of the Lake county Probate court in Waukegan. The hearing will be held July 5.

In addition to specific bequests, Mr. Deininger directed that his home, Mardan Woods, near Prairie View in Lake county, and 40 acres of surrounding woodland be held in trust for the active employes of the auditing department of The Tribune, "to provide facilities for their welfare, comfort, recreation, and health."

$20,000 to College

The executors of the estate, the First National Bank of Chicago, and Atty. Willis D. Nance, will manage Mardan Woods thru the period of probate. Thereafter the bequest will be administered by J. Howard Wood, Tribune auditor; Cecil S. Hogarth, Tribune credit manager, and Nance as trustees. A special fund of $10,000 was set up for the care and expense of the property.

Institutions are to receive the following amounts: Blackburn college at Carlinville, Ill., $20,000; Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, $10,000; United Charities of Chicago, $10,000; Passavant hospital [for use of the Patterson cancer clinic], $5,000, and two churches at Palmyra, Pa., the Palm Lutheran and Bindnagles, $2,000 each.

Friends and Relatives Share

Hogarth, a nephew of Mr. Deininger's deceased wife, is to receive $50,000. Mr. Deininger's housekeeper, Mrs. Anna Steiner, and his secretary, Mrs. Bessie Ryder, are to get $10,000 each. A number of distant relatives and business associates are to receive from $2,000 to $10,000 each.

Mr. Deininger directed that any residue after the specific gifts have been made should be put in a residuary estate which is to be shared by 26 employes of the paper's auditing department—each to get from 2 to 5 per cent as designated individually.

Auditing Employes

REFRIGERATOR PRODUCTION IS SET AT 265,000

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP)—The war production board today formally revoked its ban on the manufacture of household refrigerators, to permit production of 265,000 electric and gas machines in the July-September quarter.

The action followed the pattern recently proposed to and concurred in by representatives of the industry. Each firm, under the plan would be assigned a production quota based on its capacity, plant facilities, and labor supply.

The entire output of the July-September period will be added, WPB said, to the stockpile built up for military, hospital, and other essential uses. None of the machines are expected to reach the general public before the end of September.

Manufacturers may apply to WPB field offices for permission to resume civilian production and obtain priority help which WPB has guaranteed. Producers who wish to manufacture more than their assigned quotas may do so by applying under WPB's "spot" reconversion plan but will get no priority aid for these additional machines.

SENDS NAZI AUTO PLATE TO MAYOR FOR 'V' PARADE

Mayor Kelly's limousine in the final Victory parade will sport a German license plate, removed from a captured Nazi vehicle and received by the mayor yesterday from Corp. John Merkel of the 76th division artillery. Corp. Merkel, who said the plate was taken on the Siegfried line, suggested its Victory parade use to the mayor.

Mayor Kelly received another war memento yesterday from Corp. Frank Gembla and Corp. Edward Kupcik of the 377th infantry. It was a German carbine, minus the magazine. On the outside of the package was scrawled: "War trophy. One Kraut rifle."

The mayor will leave for Washington today to attend the graduation of his daughter, Patricia, from the Georgetown Visitation academy and to transact city business with various governmental agencies. He expects to return early next week.

E. F. MANN, 73, DIES; FLOSSMOOR REALTY BROKER

Mr. Mann was born in Wisconsin, and formerly was a train dispatcher for the Santa Fe railroad in Chicago. Later he became a Chicago coal dealer, and in 1923 moved to Flossmoor and entered the real estate business. He retired a year ago because of ill health.

Active in community affairs, he also was a 33d degree Mason. His wife, Adah, died in 1937. The closest survivor is a nephew, Edwin Frank Mann, living in Missouri.

GLENVIEW BAKER KILLED AS CARS COLLIDE; 4 HURT

Stephen H. Tompkins, 42, of 314 Nordica rd., Glenview, a baker, was killed and four other men were injured yesterday when Tompkins' automobile collided with another car at Golf rd. and Harlem av., Maine township. Those hurt, all in the second car, are Elmer Hoffman, 43, of Mundelein, the driver; A. J. Bibby, 39; Edward Topel, 58, and Raymond Snelson, 39, all of Libertyville. Snelson was the only one injured severely.

Joseph Ziotowski, 28, of 2459 Station st., yesterday was charged with manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident for the hit and run automobile death early Sunday of Russell Kowell, 20, of 5746 N. Rockwell st. Kowell was struck and killed as he alighted from a street car at Western av. and George st.

Ziotowski was arrested a short time later as he and William Radtke, 35, of 1348 Walton st., were pushing Ziotowski's disabled automobile into an alley. Radtke was charged with disorderly conduct and will be arraigned today with Ziotowsky in Felony court.

FORBID BUYING CATTLE AT OVER OPA PRICE LIST

A preliminary injunction restraining the Kerber Packing company, 56 Grove st., Elgin, from purchasing live cattle at over ceiling prices was issued yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. It was the first such order on live cattle prices issued in this district. In another case the Streator Meat Packing company, Streator, La Salle county, agreed to a consent judgment for $12,500 in settlement of a civil suit brought by the office of price administration for alleged sales of meat at overceiling prices to nine companies and individuals.

GIRL TO WAIVE EXTRADITION IN GARY SLAYING

Florence McCoy, 19, Negro, of Gary, said yesterday in Detroit she will waive extradition to Indiana in connection with the slaying of William Grady, 31, of 4013 Catalpa st., East Chicago, who was found shot to death early Saturday in his automobile in a Gary lovers' lane. Detroit police said she admitted she shot Grady when he forced attentions on her and a younger companion, Bolitha Jackson, 16, Negro, of 3554 South Parkway. The Jackson girl also will be returned by Gary police when arrangements are made by Detroit juvenile authorities.

OBITUARIES

The Rev. A. J. Gladstone Dowie

The Rev. A. J. Gladstone Dowie, 67, an Episcopal minister and only son of the late Dr. John Alexander Dowie, founder of Zion City and the Christian Catholic Apostolic church, died yesterday in the Home for Incurables, 6035 Ellis av., after an extended illness resulting from an automobile accident seven years ago. The Rev. Mr. Dowie was a home missionary on Indian reservations in Nevada for many years and later served as pastor of a church in Newton, Pa. He returned to Zion City with his late mother, Mrs. Jane Dowie, in 1930 and purchased Shiloh house, the old family mansion. They were evicted three years later when a mortgage was foreclosed. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

James Clune

James Clune, 76, of 1422 Winona av., who retired as a policeman in 1932 after 36 years on the force, died yesterday in Alexian Brothers hospital. Clune came to the United States from Tuna, County Clare, Eire, in 1893, and joined the police force three years later. W-G-N REQUESTS PERMITS FOR 4 FM STATIONS

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Applications have been filed with the federal communications commission for the construction of four frequency modulation [FM] stations to bring this high fidelity, static-free broadcasting service to the larger communities in the W-G-N service area, officials of W-G-N, Inc., announced yesterday. The proposed four new stations would be linked up with WGNB, W-G-N's sister FM station, to form the Midwest FM Network, Inc., a subsidiary of W-G-N, Inc.

The applications call for W-G-N operated stations in Milwaukee, Wis.; Peoria, Ill.; Fort Wayne, Ind., and Grand Rapids, Mich. Each station, according to tentative plans, would bring localized service to its respective community, while the network operation would permit an exchange of programs, making possible a diversified FM service in the four areas.

The applications ask that the stations all be assigned to the frequency of 45.9 megacycles, the same on which WGNB operates. The request is for class B stations which would provide coverage as follows: Milwaukee, 7,750 square miles; Peoria, 7,600; Fort Wayne, 7,850, and Grand Rapids, 6,850.

This is believed to be the first move to provide a FM network service for the middle west.

BLAZE CAUSES $15,000 DAMAGE TO TOY PLANT

Fire, for which a 5-11 alarm was sounded, caused at least $15,000 damage last night to the storage quarters of the Halsam Products company, makers of wooden toys, checkerboards, and chessboards, at 4217 N. Honore st. The plant proper is located at 4114 N. Ravenswood av., a block south and east.

Approximately 50 pieces of fire equipment responded to the successively higher alarms. Firemen were handicapped at the start by dense smoke and fierce flames which fed the thin wood and cardboard stacks.

Fire Commissioner M. J. Corrigan said that some stock was salvaged, holding down loss. He was unable, he said, to discover the cause of the fire. The blaze attracted more than 3,000 spectators.

ABORTION CASE REVIEW DENIED BY HIGH COURT

The Supreme court in Washington yesterday refused to review the conviction of Dr. Frank L. Nathanson, 67, of 3846 W. Madison st., on a charge of conspiracy to perform an abortion.

He was convicted April 30, 1943, on the testimony of a 23 year old housewife. He had been arrested on similar charges eight times previously. The Appellate court upheld the conviction Dec. 17, 1943, and the state Supreme court also upheld it Jan. 18 of this year.

Dr. Nathanson's home was once bombed, and on another occasion, a women threatened him with a pistol after accusing him of performing an abortion on her daughter. In July, 1927, Dr. Nathanson shot and killed two holdup men in his office.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

ASKS AMENDED LAW TO GUARD PROFIT MARGIN

Senate G.O.P. Rips OPA Extension

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., June 4—Minority members of the senate banking committee tonight issued a report blasting office of price administration policies and recommending that the life of OPA be extended only with amendments to the price control and stabilization acts which would protect business firms against losses.

Sen. Robt A. Taft

Sen. B. B. Hickenlooper

It brought predictions of a prolonged senate battle over continuation of the OPA for one year without change, as recommended earlier in the day by Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.], committee chairman.

Simple Extension Asked

Wagner's majority report, concurred in by Democrats on the committee and Sen. Tobey [R., N. H.], recommended extension of the price and stabilization acts without amendment to combat "inflationary pressures." The report said danger of inflation was greater in the reconversion period than during the war.

Senators Taft [R., O.] and Hickenlooper [R., Ia.] drafted the minority report, which was filed after adjournment of the senate. It had the support of Senators Thomas [Idaho], Buck [Delaware], Butler [Nebraska], and Capper [Kansas], all Republicans.

Disagreeing sharply with Wagner, the minority asserted that present OPA price freezing policies would threaten the reconversion economy, endangering the jobs of millions of returning fighters thru threatening the life of small businesses and discouraging expansion.

Two Amendments Backed

The senate was urged to consider two amendments which would require OPA to permit reasonable profit margins in fixing prices. One by Sen. Thomas [D., Okla.], applying largely to live stock and other agricultural commodities, would require that prices include costs and expenses "during a representative period." The second, by Taft, would cover all commodities and provide the same margins over costs as prevailed in 1941.

"This amendment is approximately the same as the announced proposal of OPA," said the minority, "but whereas the proposals of OPA carry no assurance that they will be put into effect expeditiously and efficiently, [the amendment] would give the assurance and protection of law to our reconversion policies."

Criticism Is Threefold

The report said OPA policies have:

1. Discouraged production and seriously hampered the distribution of food and other commodities that otherwise would be available.

2. Forced many legitimate small processors and distributors out of business and brought black markets into existence.

3. Threatened to hamper recovery and reconversion and cause serious unemployment.

The minority did not oppose continuation of price control, but said legislative changes were needed.

"Some relief must be given and, because OPA has clearly indicated its intentions of continuing present policies, the only source of such relief is congress," the report declared.

"Fine in Theory, but . . ."

"The freeze idea is fine in theory but it can't withstand the forces of a great inflation for any long period," the report said. "Too strict a price dam is likely to be swept away in a black market flood, just as people are paying 50 per cent over the ceiling for meat."

The report blasted the "ruthlessness and pettiness" of OPA enforcement policies and said it continually evaded the real purposes of the price control act with administrative devices, adding:

"It estimates costs according to its own sweet will. It disallows cost items which the internal revenue bureau has allowed for years."

Pricing Is Held Boon to Butter Black Market

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP).—OPA policies are forcing butter into a flourishing black market, a New York businessman told the house food committee today.

"The black marketeers have been, and are doing, a flourishing business with no apparent interference," said C. B. Rader, business manager of the New York Merchantile exchange.

He said OPA pricing orders have "caused a curtailment of butter production and maldistribution of supplies, and encouraged illegal sales and purchases, and caused general hardship and chaos in all phases of the industry in spite of the record breaking milk production."

Asks for Evidence

Chairman Anderson [D., N. M.] of the food committee pressed him for direct evidence of black market purchases but Rader said he could give no specific instances.

"However," he said, "the butter is still being produced, but regular purchasers cannot buy it thru their customary sources. The conclusion is that it is being sold elsewhere at higher prices."

Evidence that army purchases of butter this year will be almost double those of last year despite smaller production was presented by government and industry witnesses.

Army set-asides for the first six months of this year already equal total purchases for military use last year, despite the end of the European fighting.

Asks Price or Subsidy Hike

Rep. Andresen [R., Minn.], a committee member, asked WFA witnesses whether a forthcoming surplus of raw milk could be diverted to butter making, but they said the manufacture of butter was not sufficiently profitable to inspire stepped-up production. He suggested either a price increase or higher subsidy to divert cream into butter making.

Anderson, who will become secretary of agriculture next month, suggested to President Truman at a conference last Saturday that government agencies be assigned fixed quotas of available foods to protect civilian supplies from unexpected drains as has been the case with sugar for the army.

CLASS 1 RAILS' NET INCOME IS HIGHER IN APRIL

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP)—Class 1 railroads had an estimated net income after interest and rentals of $54,300,000 in April, compared with $48,033,277 a year ago, the Association of American railroads reported today.

Income in the first four months of this year totaled 195 millions compared with $196,254,254 a year earlier.

NORTH WESTERN-U. P. STREAMLINED SLEEPER TRAIN ENDS 10 YEARS

The City of Portland, the country's first streamliner with Pullman sleepers, which is owned by the Chicago and North Western and Union Pacific railroads, today celebrates its 10th anniversary.

The train consisted of seven cars when it was put into service in 1935 and made six round trips a month between Portland, Ore., and Chicago. Since then it has run 2,660,750 miles, the train has increased to 15 cars, and the number of round trips has been reduced to five a month to allow for maintenance and avoid excessive wear. The power plant of 1,200 horse power on the first seven car train has increased to 4,000.

In 1934 the City of Portland, with six cars, made a trial run between Los Angeles, Cal., and New York in 56 hours and 55 minutes, reaching a top speed of 120 miles an hour and breaking all speed records for cross-continent train travel.

BUSINESS PROSPERITY AT PEAK UNDER PRICE RULE, INSISTS BOWLES

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP) — American business under price control "has been more prosperous than during any other period of our history," even after the payment of war time taxes, Price Administrator Bowles asserted today.

Bowles said a study of financial statements of 1,120 leading corporations completely refuted claims of some critics that OPA policies have worked a general financial hardship on business.

"For corporations of all sizes in all fields," said Bowles, "department of commerce studies show profits before taxes in 1943 were about 3½ times greater than in pre-war 1939. Even after payment of war time taxes, 1943 earnings were more than double earnings after taxes in 1939."

Earnings after taxes in 1944 were about the same as in 1943 despite the increased tax rates, he said. In the first quarter of 1945 profits in general were slightly below the corresponding 1944 quarter, but in most price controled industries "continued to rise."

SALE OF STOCKS BY MIDDLE WEST WINS APPROVAL

Middle West corporation's proposal to sell its interest in two utilities to comply with a securities and exchange commission geographical integration order was approved yesterday by the SEC.

Common stock it holds in Arkansas-Missouri Power company will be sold for $925,000 to Gus B. Walton of Little Rock, Ark., and its common stock in Missouri Edison company to L. F. Rodgers of Dallas, Tex., for $285,000. Rodgers also will pay Arkansas-Missouri $600,000 for its common stock in East Missouri Power company.

Arkansas-Missouri will use the proceeds to redeem $350,000 of series A 4 per cent bonds and its 18,510½ shares of $50 par value 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock. The sale to Walton was approved on condition that he offer public holders of Arkansas-Missouri common $12.88 a share, the same as he will pay Middle West.

MORE FLEXIBLE SYSTEM URGED IN WMC PROGRAM

Robert Goodwin, national executive director of the war man power commission, yesterday told state and area directors meeting in the Stevens hotel that more flexibility must be put into the WMC program to help meet unemployment because cutbacks have made the employment situation "spotty" and that the pattern will continue. He said the WMC is dependent on local offices for reports on labor conditions.

William H. Spencer, Chicago regional WMC director, explained the situation in South Bend, Ind., as an example of how the new local relaxation of controls will aid in finding jobs. When several thousand workers were thrown on the South Bend labor market by the closing of the Studebaker plant, Spencer reclassified the area from a No. 1 [critical shortage] to a No. 2 classification, enabling the relaxation of employment ceilings.

Strikes Keep 17,000 Idle; 8,000 Return

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Labor disputes in widely scattered sections of the country kept an estimated 17,000 workers from their jobs yesterday, but successful arbitration resulted in the return to work of 8,000 other employes, including about 4,000 steel and rubber workers in Ohio.

The biggest tieup was at New Orleans where between 7,000 and 8,000 workers were idle at three plants of Higgins Industries, Inc., builder of landing boats and other war craft. The workers, members of craft unions affiliated with the AFL New Orleans Metal Trades council, were said by a union spokesman to be protesting a war labor board decision terminating a contract between the company and the council.

Steel Workers Idle

At Birmingham, Ala., 5,000 members of the CIO United Steel Workers were idle as the result of a walkout by blast furnace men. One of their union leaders said the strike was unauthorized and involved a demand for an incentive pay rate plan.

Transit strikes at Salem, Mass., and Scranton, Pa., called out 550 bus drivers. About 150 struck at Salem, apparently in protest of a postponement of a general strike of 1,800 transit employes who are members of the AFL Carmen's union.

Four hundred striking AFL Scranton Transit Employes have been out for two weeks because they are without a contract. The WLB has ordered them back to work.

Picket Oil Refinery

A strike of 1,600 sawmill workers employed by four companies in six mills at Alamogordo and Overguard, N. M., and Flafstaff and McNary, Ariz., was ordered ended by WLB.

Three hundred members of the CIO Oil Workers International union were idle at the Toledo, O., Pure Oil refinery because they would not cross a picket line established by workers from the Dawes, W. Va., oil fields.

Three stoppages affecting nearly 4,000 workers ended at Akron and Youngstown, O. About 2,000 members of the CIO steel workers were working again at the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company's Brier Hill plant pending discussion of a new working schedule.

SEC APPROVES SALE OF UTILITY STOCKS, BONDS

Philadelphia, Pa., June 4 (AP)—Engineers Public Service company's sale of all outstanding securities of Missouri Service company to J. Leo Scanlon, Buffalo, N. Y., for $750,000 was approved today by the securities and exchange commission. The securities consist of 7,500 shares of no-par value common stock and $635,000 of series A, 6 per cent first mortgage income bonds, due 1953.

Prior to the sale Engineers will donate to Missouri as a capital contribution all the outstanding capital stock of Northern Kansas Power company.

DEVELOP NEW SEALER OF SYNTHETIC RUBBER FOR B-29S, PEACE USE

Detroit, Mich., June 4 (AP)—De Soto division of Chrysler corporation announced today the development of a new Buna-N type synthetic rubber sealer being used in the production of nose sections, engine cowlings, and leading wing edges of B-29 bombers.

Developed by Chrysler engineers in coöperation with the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing company, the sealer is used on all seams, joints, and rivets. It is applied with a flow gun and fluid pump, replacing former putties, gums, and tapes, many of which were hand applied.

With the anticipated increasing use of pressurized cabins in the commercial planes of the future the new material and method would have wide peace time use.

METHOD OF OPA IN SETTING TOP PRICES UPHELD

High Court Decrees 'Actual Sale' Test

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP)—The Supreme court today upheld the office of price administration method of determining maximum prices for building materials and other durable consumer goods. Justice Murphy delivered the court's 8 to 1 decision, Justice Roberts dissenting.

The issue affected 47 price regulations on such items as furniture, household appliances, fuels, and chemicals, said OPA. It had appealed from the southern Florida United States District court and the 5th Circuit court in a case involving sales of crushed stone by the Seminole Rock and Sand company of Miami, Fla., to the Seaboard Air Line railway.

Basis for Price Agreement

OPA contended Seminole could not charge Seaboard more than the 60 cents a ton it obtained for stone actually delivered to Seaboard in March, 1942—base period for determining prices—but under an October, 1941, contract. In contracts signed in October and December of 1942 the price was raised to 85 cents and then to $1.

The lower courts ruled that another contract made with a different buyer in January, 1942, established the base period price at $1.50.

Justice Murphy said, however, that the majority's understanding of the regulation and of the "consistent administrative interpretation" of the phrase "highest price charged during March, 1942," compelled the conclusion that the highest price Seminole charged Seaboard was 60 cents per ton.

Refuses Beef Ceiling Review

The court refused to review litigation involving OPA beef price ceilings for processing packers. Armour & Co. asked the review of a decision by the United States Emergency Court of Appeals that the ceilings were fair and equitable.

Armour contended the court had sustained a maximum price "which did not return costs of production according to any accepted method of accounting."

Oswald and Hess company, Pittsburgh, Pa., was denied a review of another Emergency court decision that a hotel and restaurant meat supply house was entitled to receive a premium for the beef cuts it sells tho the ordinary slaughterer, doing the same general job of processing, "must sell below cost."

Upholds Challenge to SEC

The court upheld, 8 to 0, the right of a minority stockholder to ask for court review of a securities and exchange commission order. Justice Douglas did not participate. The case involved the challenge of Samuel Okin of New York of an SEC order covering financial transactions between Electric Bond and Share company and its subsidiary, American and Foreign Power company.

A group of Illinois companies was denied a review of a state Supreme court decision holding valid "war risk" amendments made to the Illinois unemployment compensation act because no substantial federal question was involved.

"Experience rating" provisions under which the contribution rates of certain employers were reduced in 1943 were suspended from July 1, 1943, thru next Dec. 31 for employers whose pay rolls rose more than 100 per cent over 1940.

Division of Motor Wheel Sold to National Distillers

Lansing, Mich., June 4 (AP)—C. C. Carlton, vice president and secretary, announced today that Motor Wheel corporation has sold its southern plants' division to National Distillers Products corporation, effective June 1. The sale included timber tract rights.

Farm Group Leaders Split on Tariff Slash Proposal

Washington, D. C., June 4 (AP) — Spokesmen for leading farm organizations split today in their testimony before the senate finance committee on pending legislation to broaden the administration's trade agreement powers.

Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange, assailed a section of the house passed bill authorizing the President to reduce by an additional 50 per cent duties which already have been cut as much as 50 per cent under the 1930 tariff act.

He urged that the existing law which expires this month be continued in force only one year, and that further studies be made to determine what effects additional reductions would have on American agriculture. The bill would continue the program for three years.

Urges Cost Base for Duties

Asserting that tariff making is "constitutionally a congressional function," Goss contended that duties should be based on the difference in cost of production between home and abroad.

"We believe that the bill now before the committee is an excellent translation into legislative terms of the words of our [farmers union] 1945 program. We therefore urge the committee to report the bill as it stands.

New Reduction "Essential"

"We believe that the bill's provision for reduction of rates by as much as 50 per cent of existing rates is an essential provision.

"The other countries of the world know perfectly well that the passage of this bill without this provision will be to a considerable degree an idle gesture."

Among other witnesses was O. D. Frost, representing the Crompton Textile company of Crompton, R. I., who said it would have a disastrous effect on spinning mills in this country. C. W. Carlson, representing the American Glassware association, said 17,000 workers in hand blown glassware plants in this country would be adversely affected by a lowering of tariffs.

Upward Stock Trend Halted; Prices Mixed

New York, June 4 (AP)—The stock market today had to contend with steady selling altho steels, aircrafts, and scattered utilities countered liquidation with moderate success, and prices closed unevenly.

The confused international situation and belief the list had been overbought in its swing to 8-year peaks inspired lightening of accounts in many cases.

Steel Shares Strengthen

Steels strengthened after a hesitant opening. This group apparently was bought partly on the idea it was "behind" the recent market bulge. Aviation manufacturing issues revived in the final hour supported by talk of big domestic and foreign transport orders. The metal section closed below its peak for the day.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off 0.1 at 66.3. Turnover increased at intervals and transfers totaled 1,540,000 shares, compared with 1,430,000 Friday.

Cannon Mills was an isolated strong spot, pushing up 4 points to 55½ when directors voted a 5 per cent stock divided besides a 25 cent cash payment. Previous disbursements had been 50 cents.

BOND MARKET IRREGULAR

New York, June 4 (AP)—Bond prices were irregular in a narrow range today with turnover unusually light except in a few special rail issues. The uneven price pattern developed early in the session and persisted thruout, altho individually favored issues firmed in the last hour.

CHICAGO PRICES GAIN

Prices rose yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange with turnover at 35,000 shares. Volume leaders included Commonwealth Edison and Middle West corporation, unchanged. Aviation corporation and Chicago corporation, up fractions, and New York Central, down ½. Six new highs were reached.

WHEAT LOWER IN LATE TRADE; RYE, CORN MIXED

Wheat futures closed ⅛ to one cent a bushel lower yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade after early strength carried two deferred deliveries to new highs. May wheat rose 1⅞ to a seasonal peak on speculative buying by eastern commission houses, but broke 2 cents to close off ⅛.

Oats futures closed ¼ to ⅜ lower, corn ¼ lower to ⅝ higher, and rye ⅝ lower to ⅝ higher.

Bearish factors in the wheat trade included an unexpected increase in visible wheat supplies and a report that new wheat was selling 5 cents under the ceiling price in Enid, Okla.

People and Events

Frank Stanton, vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting system, has been appointed general manager and elected a director, the company announced yesterday. Stanton joined Columbia in 1935 as research director. Also elected to the board were Joseph H. Ream, vice president and secretary, and Frank K. White, vice president and treasurer.

Frank Stanton

Albert Reichmann and Theodore Lincoln Condron last night received honorary membership diplomas in the Western Society of Engineers. Reichmann, a member since 1897, retired in 1938 as vice president of the American Bridge company. He supervised the construction of Tribune Tower, the Board of Trade building, and the Michigan av. bridge. Condron, a member of the association since 1894, has been advisory engineer for the Reconstruction Finance corporation. He designed many railroad bridges and buildings.

Ralph W. Davis, nominated in April for the chairmanship of the board of governors of the Chicago Stock exchange, was formally elected yesterday. He is a partner in Paul H. Davis & Co.

CATTLE SUPPLY IN STOCK YARDS REACHES 22,000

With corn planting completed in some parts of the midwest and halted temporarily by unfavorable weather in other sections, farmers yesterday brought an increased volume of cattle and hogs to the Chicago stock yards. The cattle run of 22,000 was largest since the middle of February and fourth largest this year.

Most steers brought $15.75 to $17.60 and the best $17.90, or 10 cents below the ceiling. Heifers sold slowly at weak to 25 cents lower prices. Steady prices were paid in active trading for beef cows, canners, cutters, calves, and bulls.

2 FURNISHINGS SHOWS CALLED OFF BY MARTS

Shortages, Travel Curb Are Factors

The customary July furniture and home furnishings shows at the American Furniture Mart and the Merchandise Mart have been called off this year "in the interest of the public and the industry," officials of the two markets announced yesterday.

Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the Furniture Mart, and John C. Goodall, general manager of the Merchandise Mart, said in a joint statement that elimination of the exhibits was decided upon after a convass of exhibitors, retail associations, and trade group.

Altho dealers voted "preponderantly in favor of the events," manufacturers voted 4 to 1 against them, Whiting and Goodall said. The producers asserted merchandise shortages and travel restrictions made the shows inadvisable.

Predict Extra Travel

Whiting and Goodall believe, however, that cancellation of the shows will mean that dealers will travel more than if the shows were held, explaining that owners of furniture outlets will make several trips to factory centers for supplies because store stocks are at "their lowest ebb." They also assert that the exhibits should not come under the travel limitations which govern conventions.

"Furniture and home furnishing markets are not conventions or trade shows but a method of distribution," they said.

A similar view is held by Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice president of the National Retail Furniture association. He recently said:

"The office of defense transportation has sanctioned racing, and therefore by implication does not object to travel to race tracks. But it avers that travel to find essential home goods for minimum living comfort standards is detrimental to the frequenter of race tracks.

Issue Argued Since 1943

"The ODT folks say in effect that wherever and whenever more than a few retailers travel to any one point for the purpose of buying merchandise these retailers are injuring the war effort and should be scolded in plain terms."

The exhibits have been a source of friction between the association and ODT since 1943. In that year ODT asked that the July show be canceled, but withdrew its objections at the request of Donald M. Nelson, then chairman of the war production board. As a war time measure the regular May and November shows were canceled, leaving only the January and July events. The last exhibit was held in January.

Fashions in Income Protection

Yes, there are fashions in insurance as surely as in clothes. For instance: Few lines of insurance have had greater growth . . . or undergone more changes during the war . . . than accident-sickness-hospital coverage. As a result, many contracts now in force are as obsolete as pre-war styles.

Typical of modern coverages fashioned to meet changing circumstances, new requirements, is Continental's Non-Cancellable Accident only protection. Unlike older coverages, this contract, once issued, cannot be cancelled, restricted, altered or amended by the Company. No examination required . . . and the cost is less than 10% more than ordinary pro ection.

Designed to serve business and professional men, this exclusive Continental contract typifies the pioneering which has made Continental America's No. 1 Accident and Sickness Insurance Company . . . continually keeping pace with new developments . . . offering the most complete range of modern disability coverages available today.

JAP OIL LOSSES MAY SPEED END OF PACIFIC WAR

Majewski Tells Effect of Inroads on Supply

BY ORVILLE DWYER

B-29 bombings, the retaking of territory from the Japs, and the allied blockade in the Pacific are cutting deep into Japan's oil supply, and her conquest may be quickened by lack of fuel for planes, tanks and ships, B. L. Majewski, Chicago petroleum expert, said yesterday.

He asserted that with the retaking of the Netherlands Indies, where allied forces already have a foothold on Tarakan Island, Japan's oil supply will be reduced to 40,000 barrels a day, Germany's potential during its last days of the war.

Group Plans for Hearings

Majewski, vice president of Deep Rock Oil corporation, returned from Washington, D. C., where for two weeks he met with a committee headed by Ralph T. Zook, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America. This is a committee of independent oil companies which is preparing evidence for a special senate committee investigating petroleum resources. The latter group is headed by Sen. O' Mahoney [D., Wyo.].

Asked whether he believed Japan's surrender will come quickly after the Dutch East Indies are retaken, he said that depends on whether Japan has left any of the huge reserves gathered in anticipation of war.

"Japan's drive to the East Indies was primarily to obtain oil. Now the allies have seized the oil fields in Burma and are taking Tarakan Island, an important East Indies oil center," Majewski said.

Means to an End

"The importance of the recapture of such fields is not what it adds to our supply, but what it takes from the Japs. By further depressing Japan's oil supply thru the bombing of her synthetic plants, we may bring Japan to the end that hit Germany thru being cut off from petroleum and petroleum products.

"About 30,000 barrels of Japan's present daily supply are produced synthetically—and synthetic plants are 'meat' for our bombers."

Majewski said the allies prior to the entrance of the United States into the war did not have sufficient oil or products to carry on a prolonged conflict. It was American oil that turned the tide and won the European victory, he continued.

"The allied nations are using more than 7 million barrels of oil daily," he went on. "Of this the United States supplies almost 70 per cent; South America 14 per cent; the Middle East 7 per cent, and Russia 9 per cent."

MULLINS MANUFACTURING

Please tell me how Mullins Manufacturing corporation products fit into post-war business. What is its earning record?—O. F.

In normal times, Mullins' products include enameled metal washing machine tubs, kitchen sinks and cabinets, wringers, evaporators for refrigerators, bathroom equipment, and stampings for the automobile and other industries. Automotive sales constituted about 20 per cent of the total business.

The company's peace time sales prospects are favored by the accumulation of civilian demands, although the volume cannot be expected to hold at the high war time levels and profit margins are uncertain. The entire output in 1944 was for war purposes, with sales totaling $40,537,000 compared with $7,971,000 in 1939 and $10,630,000 in 1937, best of the immediate pre-war years.

Outstanding are 28,775 shares of $7 dividend preferred stock and 546,050 [class B] common shares. The preferred dividend each year is payable and cumulative only to the extent earned in the preceding year. Including $7 declared for 1945, payments over a 10 year period have averaged $6.12 a share. The stock is redeemable at 105. A 50 cent common dividend in 1944 was the first cash payment on that issue since 1936; 25 cents has been paid this year.

Common share earnings last year were $1.85 and in 1943, after renegotiation refund, 87 cents; 1942, 63 cents; 1941, $1.32; 1940, 17 cents. There was a net loss in 1938 and no earnings on the common in 1939. Current assets as of Dec. 31 last totaled $10,642,522 and current liabilities $7,328,716. There was no long term debt.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, June 4 [AP]—Activity in the cotton textile market today was confined to releases of goods for the military program. Most mills held to the sidelines so far as civilian inquiry was concerned.

CORNING PLANS 1ST GLASSWARE UNIT IN CANADA

New York, June 4 (AP)—The Corning Glass Works announced today negotiations had been concluded for the purchase of a plant at Leaside, Ont., for manufacture of a complete line of baking ware.

Purchased from the Canadian government, the plant is part of the property formerly managed by Research Enterprises. It was not designed for glass manufacturing and will require extensive work to adapt facilities. Production is expected to begin in the spring of 1946.

Corning said this would be the first glass manufacturing plant in the dominion. It acquired an interest in a glass plant in Argentina in 1943 and in one in Brazil last year.
